No Second Term?

Speculation Is LBJ May Quit

Washington (AP)—There is increasing speculation among Democratic liberals in Congress that President Johnson may not seek a second elective term in 1968—an idea not widely shared among political pros as a whole.

But although the idea of Johnson's voluntarily stepping down seems far-fetched to veteran tacticians of both parties, some of those in the vanguard of the critical assaults on Johnson's course in Vietnam are telling each other it could happen.

They base their belief on these premises:

—That despite an enlarged U.S. military commitment, the unpopular war is likely to drag on into the presidential election year without any definitive signs that it could be ended successfully.

—That what they think is voter disillusionment with the President's current policies is likely to bring a Republican resurgence in this year's congressional races that will make it considerably more difficult for Johnson to obtain cooperation from the legislative branch.

—Finally, that Johnson might prefer to leave his landslide victory of 1964 and his domestic leadership since as a watermark on history rather than to risk the kind of razor-edge victory by which Woodrow Wilson won a second term in 1916.

The liberals are reluctant to concede it, but their current fury over the manner in which Johnson has ignored their advice on Vietnam probably has influenced the assumptions they are making.

Weltner Warns:

Don't Take KKK Plots To Kill VIPs Lightly

Washington (UPI)—A southern congressman investigating the Ku Klux Klan warned Saturday against taking lightly fantastic assassination plots allegedly hatched by members of the hooded order.

Rep. Charles Weltner, D-Ga., recalled in an interview that Presidents Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley and John F. Kennedy were murdered as the result of "such weird, fantastic intrigues."

The House Committee on un-American activities, of which Weltner is a member, has heard testimony accusing some klansmen—and one klanswoman—of plotting spectacular acts of terrorism.

One of the most sensational was in a statement to the committee that Mrs. Eloise Witte, grand empress of the National Knights of the KKK in Ohio, discussed various assassination attempts aimed at President Johnson, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Negro leader Dr. Martin Luther King, a Klan superior, and her own husband with whom she was having marital difficulties.

Mrs. White will appear before the committee Monday. She told reporters that the charge against her was "so ridiculous it doesn't deserve an answer."

Another alleged plot turned up during the committee's examination of Klan activities in Mississippi. The group heard of a plan to dynamite the "Lady Bird Special"—the 1964 election campaign train carrying Mrs. Lyndon Johnson—as it sped across a Mississippi bridge.

The plan was said to have fallen through when the originator of the idea was unable to get other klansmen to cooperate.

The committee has also heard testimony implicating klansmen in a number of civil rights killings.

C-124 Lost; 8 Aboard

Madrid (AP)—A U.S. Air Force C-124 heavy transport plane, with eight crewmen aboard, was missing early Sunday near the scene of the Jan. 17 nuclear bomb crash in southern Spain.

The big four-engine plane was on a support mission in connection with the search for a missing U.S. nuclear bomb.

U.S. 16th Air Force headquarters said an air and land search for the missing aircraft had been started.

The C-124 left Moron Airbase near Seville for San Javier airport near the site of the bomb search. The scheduled route would have taken it over the high mountains of southern Spain.

3 Ideas Stirred Dirksen

Filibuster Leadership Analyzed

Washington (AP) — Why did Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois single out the union shop bill, among many administration proposals, for the kiss of death?

The answer undoubtedly is a complex one, as could be expected with the Illinois orator whose path through 30-plus years in Congress has been marked by many twists and turns.

But talks with the Republican leader and some of his colleagues indicate that three lines of thought played an important part in his decision to kill this particular bill with the filibuster weapon.

Dirksen has played a major role in winning passage of several of President Johnson's most important measures, including the 1964 and 1965 civil rights bills and last year's immigration bill.

And even when he has opposed other "Great Society" proposals, he nearly always has contented himself with a seathing speech and then has permitted the legislation to come to a vote.

Dirksen said repeatedly that all-out opposition to 14B repealer is a matter of principle with him because it involves state soverignty. He said no compromise is possible.

But these three other motives also appear to be present:

—His unhappiness over the fate of his proposed constitutional amendment on state legislative reapportionment, about which he feels as deeply as 14B.

—His desire to score with deep-dyed conservatives among Senate Republicans. Some of these have been muttering about his many assists to Johnson, both on foreign and domestic matters.

—His feeling that 14B is an issue with high emotional appeal to many middle-layer businessmen who are the backbone of the GOP in their communities.

Dirksen's success in blocking the 14B repealer has alarmed many State Senate Democratic liberals.

One of these warned, "If we let him get away with this, he can use the same weapon against almost any administration bill where he has southern Democrats' support."

Nixon Says Win Now

Louisville, Ky. (UPI) —Former Vice President Richard Nixon said Saturday the United States must win in Vietnam or face a nuclear showdown with Red China within five years.

Nixon said the United States could reward Communist aggression by halting the war now but it would "pay the installment price of a big war, a nuclear war in the Pacific four or five years from now."

The 1960 presidential candidate suggested an economic blockade of Haiphong Harbor and greater use of air and sea power in Vietnam.

He said the risk involved in our attempt to stop Communist aggression in southeast Asia is less than it will ever be.

"There is the risk always," Nixon said, "that they might react to our attempt to stop aggression. But we must weigh this against the risk of stopping aggression three or four years from now."

Air Cavalry Strike

Copter-Borne Americans Hit N. Vietnam Regulars

U.S. Losses Light

Saigon (UPI)—U.S. 1st Air Cavalrymen clashed Saturday with a force of about 100 North Vietnamese regular army troops and killed an estimated 65 of them in a battle 285 miles northeast of Saigon. Air Cavalry helicopters killed 15 other Communist soldiers with rocket and machinegun fire.

A military spokesman said the Americans suffered light casualties during a drive aimed at pushing the Communists out of the Bong Son coastal area in Central Vietnam.

In nearby action, Air Cavalry helicopters hovered as low as four feet over Viet Cong trenches to pour fire on Communist troops at close quarters. One American 'copter fired 6,000 rounds of machinegun bullets alone on the dug-in enemy.

The sharp new fighting was disclosed as visiting Vice-President Hubert Humphrey told a news conference that allied troops have captured the initiative against the Communists and the momentum "must be maintained."

In the air war, U.S. jets kept up the pressure against North Vietnam with 47 missions Friday against military and communications targets. Heaviest attacks were aimed at the airfield at historic Dien Bien Phu, 175 miles west of Hanoi. The airfield was heavily bombed and cratered by two flights of Air Force jets. The American pilots reported they left the runway "unserviceable" and the airport installations in flames and billowing black smoke.

An Air Force spokesman in Saigon said the United States has lost a total of 263 aircraft in combat in Vietnam — 176 of them shot down by North Vietnamese fire since the bombing raids started against the Communist North on Feb. 7, 1965.

The ground fighting between 1st Cavalry division soldiers and Communist North Vietnamese troops broke out as the cavalrymen swept a South China Sea coastal area in an operation known as "Eagle's Claw."

The Eagle's Claw drive is a new phase of a larger multi-battalion allied sweep seeking to push Communist forces out of their longtime stronghold in the Bong Son area.

Arms Seized

The Associated Press said a Communist base camp abandoned under the Eagle's Claw attack yielded a truckload of arms. They included 34 recoilless rifles, lethal tubes that serve as light artillery.

Three rocket launchers, two antiaircraft guns, two machine guns and 5,000 rounds of ammunition were among supplies the Viet Cong left behind in flight from the helicopter-borne strike.

Ambush

Da Nang, South Vietnam (AP) —Viet Cong armed with small arms and hand grenades ambushed a four-jeep convoy containing Vietnamese and U. S. Army men Saturday afternoon bringing heavy casualties to the allied personnel.

The ambush was at Ai Van pass on highway one between Da Nang and Hue, the ancient imperial capital.

The convoy was on its way to Da Nang when it ran into a roadblock. One report reaching Da Nang said that from 40 to 50 men in black pajamas, the dress of the Viet Cong, were seen in the area.

Viet Warned

Washington (AP)—The State Department publicly warned Communist North Vietnam not to stage criminal trials of captured American servicemen.

Some 60 American fliers —34 Air Force and 26 Navy —are now believed in Hanoi's hands. Another 46—30 Air Force and 16 Navy—are listed here as missing but presumed alive.

North Vietnam has been hinting in its propaganda that it may treat the Americans as common criminals because no formally declared state of war exists between North Vietnam and the United States.

Crowds Approve In Rain

U.S. Viet Policy OKd; Rusk Talks

Atlanta (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told upwards of 15,000 persons in rain-swept Atlanta Stadium Saturday the United States is not going to "draw back" in Vietnam but there can be peace anytime Hanoi really wants it.

Rusk, rain dripping down his clothing, spoke at an "affirmation Vietnam" rally sponsored by Emory University students to show support for U.S. policy in Vietnam.

The secretary had to walk through about 20 pacifists picketing the rally, and one man was arrested when he tried to tear a sign away from a woman picket.

Rusk, a native of Georgia, told the raincoat-and-umbrella-covered crowd that America has a commitment in Vietnam signed by three Presidents and approved numerous times by Congress.

"The integrity of the United States is the principal pillar of peace throughout the world," Rusk said. "If the Communist capitals get an idea that our pledge means nothing, then the world will be in great danger."

He told the crowd "the message you are sending to Hanoi today is very important.

"If they are expecting the United States to draw back, they're now beginning to find out it will not happen," he said.

Before Rusk's 15-minute address, sponsors of the rally presented to Nguy Duy Lien, South Vietnam's ambassador to the United Nations, a poll showing that 95.6% of 253,781 persons backed the U.S. stand in Vietnam.

Georgia Gov. Carl E. Sanders told the crowd that it had not come as "black or white, rich or poor, Protestant, Catholic or Jew, but to demonstrate they stood together in liberty and freedom and were willing to fight for it everywhere."

Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, said the rally "demonstrates that we are not for the policy of tucking tail and running like a whipped dog."

President Is Late for Luci's Party

Washington (AP) — President Johnson slipped in a back entrance just before midnight to attend a hearts and flowers pre-nuptial party given Saturday night in honor of daughter Luci and her fiance, Pat Nugent, in fashionable Georgetown.

It was a rainy evening and he arrived as toasts were being made to the engaged couple.

Luci thanked everyone, especially the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lindow and her close friend, Helene Lindow for giving her and her fiance "the most wonderful time of our life."

Just about the time of the President's arrival, firemen were called to a discotheque across the street from the City Tavern, the private club where the party for Luci and Pat was held. It turned out someone had tossed a smokebomb in the discotheque.

Lincoln Ideals

LBJ in Tribute

Washington (AP)— President Johnson laid a wreath Saturday at the Lincoln Memorial and said that in the past year "America has made unprecedented progress in fulfilling the ideal for which Abraham Lincoln stands."

After ceremonies marking the birthday of the Civil War President, Johnson issued a statement in which he said about 300,000 Negroes have been registered to vote in five southern states since he signed the Voting Rights Act six months ago.

"The nation can be assured and encouraged by this progress," said the President. "But these same figures also illustrate, not only how far we have come, but also how far we have to go."

Hero Must Pay Penalty

Salinas, Calif. (UPI) — An 18-year-old high school student acclaimed as a hero for saving a man from drowning 10 days ago has been suspended from school for playing hooky the day of the rescue.

Officials at North Salinas High School, who had called the youth a "real fine boy and a good athlete" and "high in attendance," admitted after checking their records that he should have been in school.

Administrators had no choice but to suspend him for 10 days, the school's policy for a false absence excuse.

Asia Tour

Victory Is Seen By HHH

Saigon (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey left Vietnam Sunday morning and headed to Bangkok, Thailand, second stop on his tour of eight countries in Asia. Humphrey took off by plane after meeting at a news conference with American advisors from three Vietnamese provinces, who asserted the U.S. was "winning this war."

Humphrey brought the pacification experts with him to a final news conference at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Richard Kreigle, a civilian advisor from Arlington, Va., speaking for the group, said, "We are all agreed that we are winning this war not only on the military side but on the economic side."

"This is a government of Vietnam program," Kreigle said. "We are advising and assisting."

Humphrey cut in to add that "each had said that if the plan of operation is followed, which was conceived by the Vietnamese themselves, the victory can be theirs."

The plan calls for sweeping the large units of Viet Cong out of an area and then following up with mopping up operations and reconstruction of the political and economic life of the area.

On Saturday, Humphrey visited U.S. and allied troops almost within sniper distance of the Communists. He said "tremendous progress" had been made on the military front but the fight for social betterment was just beginning.

Party Arrives

Bangkok, Thailand (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived Sunday from South Vietnam to confer with Thai officials on President Johnson's strategy for that embattled nation.

Hanoi Nixes Bid Again

Tokyo (UPI) — Communist North Vietnam again rejected U.S. peace bids Saturday by saying, "One cannot negotiate with murderers."

But Hanoi implied a softening of its demand for recognition of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

An article in the official Nhan Dan newspaper, signed Chien Si (A fighter), insisted that Washington must talk with the front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

What was lacking, however, was an explicit statement that the front was the only party eligible to represent the South in negotiations.

Vietnam Hearings Point Up Democratic Split

Gore Wants Issue Before U.S. People

By HARRY KELLY

Washington (AP)—Despite the air of extreme politeness on all sides, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's hearings on the war in Vietnam shape up as one of the most abrasive conflicts in recent years between a President and members of his own party.

Sees No Opinion Difference

President Johnson says he doesn't see it that way.

"No one wants to escalate the war and no one wants to lose any more men than is necessary," Johnson said.

"No one wants to surrender and get out. At least no one admits they do. So I don't see that there is any great difference of opinion."

Most members of the committee insist they don't have any intention of trying to undermine Johnson's hand, although one has said an aim of the hearings is to "try to go over the head of the President to the American people."

It is true that the strongest indictments have been of steps taken long ago rather than those of recent date. And the darkest forebodings have been about what may happen, rather than what has happened in the past few months.

It is certainly true also that no one has accused Johnson of "wanting" to escalate the war.

The deep-seated concern crackling through the hearings is that inch by inch, like a toboggan picking up momentum, the United States may be sliding into war with Red China or perhaps even a nuclear showdown with the Soviet Union.

Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who is presiding over the probe of the Administration's Asian policy, put it this way:

Chinese Position

"I am fearful that if the war in Vietnam is not handled extremely well, the Chinese Communists will come in."

"We have been inched into this Asiatic morass step by step," argues Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., "and there are not many steps short of war" with Red China.

On Thursday Gore said that Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Johnson had given assurances that U.S. combat troops would not be committed to Vietnam. Gore said he and others on the committee had argued with administration officials in secret sessions about the steps being taken in Vietnam but "unfortunately we seem not to have made a dent.

Go To American People

"What we are seeking to do now is go over the head of the President to the American people, and reach him by way of the people."

So far the committee has cross-examined Foreign Aid Director David E. Bell, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and presented the views of former diplomat George Kennan and Ret. Lt. Gen. James Gavin.

Fulbright argues the hearings are meant to be educational, that he doesn't consider himself a "great critic," that he doesn't think he is embarrassing the administration and that "it is an unhappy situation to appear to be obstructing your own government—I hope I am not."

On the other hand, he said "I have never seen an issue on which there has been such uncertainty. There were no such differences in the Korean War or World War II. One reason is that this situation isn't very clear cut."

Dominican Police Fire On Leftists

Santo Domingo Strike Spreads

Santo Domingo (UPI) — Gunfire rattled through the city Saturday following a night of intense terrorist activities. A general strike halted about 80% of the business activity here and was reported spreading to other towns.

18 Killed

At least 18 persons have been killed and more than 50 wounded in clashes with the armed forces and police in the last three days.

All scheduled airline flights to and from the International Airport were halted and the Central City, scene of the intense violence, was virtually deserted.

Residents of this area said the gunfire during the night was the heaviest since the current wave of violence erupted Wednesday when police opened fire on a leftist student demonstration before the national palace.

"It was just like one of the nights in the war," one resident said. "There was gunfire and explosions all night."

IAPF Fired On

A military spokesman said outposts and patrols of the Inter-American Peacekeeping Force (IAPF) were fired on four times during the night. On two occasions, he said, the fire was returned, but there were no known injuries.

The gunfire during the day Saturday erupted near a school in the northern sector of the city, but apparently nobody was injured.

The new wave of violence was sparked Wednesday when National Police fired on a crowd of leftist students protesting brutality at the hands of the Dominican armed forces and police.

Leftist

The general strike was called by leftist political groups and labor unions in a show of strength against the military. Shops shuttered their windows, and workers walked off their jobs in industries and transportation facilities.

According to reports, workers in two other towns—Puerto Plata and Santiago—have decided to stage sympathy walkouts in those towns. But the movement apparently has not yet gained much momentum.

Wilson to Ask Soviet Help In Settling Vietnam War

London (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson will take his Vietnam peace moves into the Kremlin this month.

Diplomatic sources said Wilson will urge Soviet leaders to help in bringing about a Vietnam cease-fire and a settlement during his Moscow visit Feb. 21-24.

Another Appeal

Wilson will meet with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and other Kremlin leaders. He plans to use the occasion for another urgent appeal to Russia to cooperate in Vietnam peace efforts.

Britain and Russia are co-chairmen of the Geneva Conference which settled the Indochina war in 1955.

But, it appeared that Moscow would not take any initiative, at least until after the March Soviet Communist Party Congress during which major policy is to be set.

Communist ideology and the Sino-Soviet conflict are certain to play an important part in the deliberations. Informed sources said the Communist stand on Vietnam is certain to be firmly defined then.

Communist North Vietnam has undertaken to send a delegation to the Congress which Red China reportedly has decided to boycott.

Besides Vietnam, Wilson plans to press two other important issues during his summit talks:

—A nuclear non-proliferation treaty, now under discussion in Geneva. The British Premier is taking to Moscow his disarmament minister, Lord Chalfont, who returned to London from Geneva for consultations prior to the Moscow parley.

—Proposals to extend the partial nuclear test ban to underground tests. The ban now relates to tests on the ground, in the atmosphere and under water. This problem also is under consideration at the 17-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference.

Cubans Balk at Costa Rica

Miami (AP) — A waystop at Miami, home of thousands of their compatriots and relatives, was momentarily too much for Cubans flying from their homeland toward exile in Costa Rica.

Some women among 106 persons on an incoming airliner fainted when greeted here by kinfolk. Others aboard the Pan American World Airways jetliner clamored to be allowed to stay in Miami instead of going on.

Brief Reunions

Sympathetic federal officials said 'No', but did give the wayfarers a break for brief reunions with loved ones who rushed to Miami International Airport to embrace them.

Costa Rica Consul General Jose Segovia told the exiles they would get a warm welcome in his country, and it will help them obtain visas to come back to the United States as soon as possible.

Physical limitations of the aircraft involved gave 28 of the Cubans an overnight extension of their stay in the United States.

A Costa Rican National Airlines plane, which was to fly the exiles on to San Jose later, couldn't accommodate all of them. The overflow group was lodged at "Freedom House," U.S. facility for transient exiles, until arrangements can be made to fly them also to Costa Rica.

Destination Unknown

Some of the transients claimed they hadn't been told they were bound for Costa Rica when they boarded the plane at Varadero, Cuba, and had no relatives there.

Others insisted they should be allowed to move in with relatives they claimed in the Miami area.

Henry Taylor, U.S. State Department Coordinator of Cuban Affairs, told the exiles they had no choice because they had been cleared for immigration only into Costa Rica.

The trip was set up by the Swiss government, which represents both the United States and Costa Rica in Cuba since a break in diplomatic relations between those nations and the Fidel Castro regime.

Pending—after two delays—are Cuba-to-Miami flights of U.S. citizens and their families still living in Castro Cuba. Many of these reportedly are Cuban natives who obtained U.S. citizenship in the past, or native Americans who did not wish to leave without their Cuban-born families.

Tax Trial Is Moved To Wichita

Topeka, Kan. (UPI) — U.S. District Judge George Templar has ordered the case of a Wichita newspaper executive and two former executives on income tax evasion charges moved from Topeka to Wichita for trial.

Harry Britt Brown Jr., vice president and secretary of the Wichita Eagle and Beacon; Jack Speer, former business manager, and Royce Q. Sehnert, former credit manager, requested the trial at Wichita.

Newell George, U.S. attorney for Kansas, opposed the move, saying he believed it would be difficult to select a jury not influenced by the Wichita Eagle. George also said that Topeka was a more central location. Speer and Sehnert now live in the Kansas City area.

Templar, in ordering the trial moved to Wichita, said he was reluctant to disapprove a request by a defendant to be tried in his hometown.

The men were indicted on charges of operating a trade-out in which they received merchandise or service in exchange for advertising obtained in the newspaper.

The government alleges they used the merchandise for personal purposes and should have reported it on their tax returns.

Burden on the Parties

Seldom, if ever, has the opportunity, and the responsibility, of Nebraska's political parties been as great as it is today.

• • •

In two rapid-fire actions in recent days the logjam of politics was broken in the state. Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison inserted himself into the Senate race with Republican Sen. Carl Curtis and the state's legislative reapportionment plan was upheld.

• • •

A flood of candidates and prospective candidates from both parties now is sure to be swept toward the May 10 primary elections for the top state offices.

Already this torrent is gathering. The Republican party so far has four entries bidding for the governor's post to be vacated by Morrison. Two of them, former Gov. Val Peterson and Wausa banker Norbert Tiemann, are assembling quite impressive campaign teams.

On the Democratic side, it is taken for granted that Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen will make a bid to move up to the governorship.

Even before Morrison had removed himself from re-election possibilities, however, Omaha Democrats were beating the drums for a gubernatorial candidate of their own—specifically, for one more inclined than Sorensen to help preserve that city's advantages under Nebraska's property-heavy tax system. After apparently becoming disenchanted with State Sen. Terry Carpenter, the Omaha Democrats have been plugging for State Banking Director Henry Ley.

The full impact of the reapportionment approval is still to be felt. The decision meant that 25 state senators, those now holding four-year terms, can try for another office without giving up their legislative seats.

• • •

Immediately, State Sen. Ross Rasmussen, a Democrat, made himself available for the lieutenant governor spot. Other senators, such as Democrat Jules Burbach and Republican Kenneth Bowen, are known to be eyeing either the governor or lieutenant governor races.

Still to be heard, however, are any real and positive pronouncements from the party leaderships themselves as to what they hope to accomplish for the state if their candidates should prevail.

Perhaps it is expecting too much, under the circumstances, for the parties to start now to take some definite positions. But once their candidates are chosen in the primary, the parties, as political organizations, will have a solemn obligation to spell out their own principles and programs for Nebraska progress.

At long last, it appears that the two-party system in Nebraska has arrived. The state is the great beneficiary of this evolution.

• • •

Whether the two-party system will remain strong in the state and whether it can become a potent force in the public interest and the development of the state now rests with the powers within the parties.

Culture Marches On

How greatly Lincoln is enriched by the colleges in its midst is once again manifested by the dedication of the Auditorium-Fine Arts Center on the Nebraska Wesleyan campus.

• • •

The building, a thing of architectural beauty, offers much to the students and the city by providing for a greater opportunity for study and presentation of the performing and visual arts.

• • •

Vance D. Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan, said at the dedication, the building attested to the fact that "a major thrust is being planned for this particular field of study and expression. Involvement, environment and response — these characterize our endeavors in our expanding program of development in the arts."

Congratulations to Wesleyan for this thrust which was never more important than in this age of materialism, science and unrest.

• • •

It is reassuring that as Lincoln grows in size it grows also as a cultural center.

ART BUCHWALD'S Opinion

Win One for Hoffa

Washington—James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters' Union has offered to organize all the professional athletes in the United States into his union. The sport that needs it the most, they say, is pro football. While there may be many advantages to having the pro football players in the Teamsters Union, there could be some disadvantages, as you will see if you come into the locker room of the Washington Toughskins. It is half time and the Toughskins are behind 34 to 0.

Buchwald

"You're playing like a bunch of bums. Higgledorf, why didn't you take out the left end on play number 31?"

"I'm not supposed to take out ends. The union contract says I only have to take out tackles. If I took out the end, I'd be taking a job away from a blocking back."

• • •

Time and a Half

The coach, trying to keep his temper: "All right, let's forget that. Mickazinski, why did you drop that pass that was right in your arms?"

"I caught my quota for the half. If I caught another one, the guys would have thought I was trying to speed up the game."

"Well, if you drop another pass, I'm pulling you out of the game and putting Wallnicki in."

• • •

"You can't do it. I've got three years seniority over Wallnicki. If you pull me out, the entire team walks off the field."

• • •

The coach clenches his teeth. "Harrison, you're the foreman as well the quarterback. Can't you get any more work out of the men?"

Harrison says, "You're lucky we're here at all. We're not supposed to play on Sunday."

The coach says, "But you're getting time-and-a-half."

"We want double pay, and we also want to be paid for the time we spend going to and from the locker room."

"All right, bring it up at contract time. But right now I'm concerned with winning the game. The defense has been lousy. What happened to you, Brantowski, when they made that hole through off center?"

• • •

"I was resting. It says here, 'The linebackers are entitled to take a rest after every three plays.' If I didn't take the rest, I would have been fined by the union."

• • •

The coach wheels on his defensive back.

"And where were you, Eberhardt, when they threw the screen pass?"

"Screen passes aren't in my jurisdiction. My job is to cover the flanker. If you want me to cover screen passes, you're going to have to get authorization from the local."

• • •

Last Words

"Okay, okay," the coach says. "Now I wasn't going to tell you this, but it looks like I've got to. Just before Jimmy Hoffa went to the Supreme Court to appeal his jail sentence, he said to me, 'Coach, if ever things get rough, and the team is down, and they're getting the hell beat out of them, tell them—tell them to win one for The Hoffa.'"

• • •

Tears start welling in the players' eyes.

• • •

"Gee, coach," the halfback sobs, "You wouldn't be kidding us?"

The coach looks at them. "Those were the last words Jimmy Hoffa said to me. Well, what do you say, team?"

The foreman jams on his helmet and shouts, "LET'S GO OUT THERE, GUYS, AND MURDER THE BUMS."

Gloomy View From China

In concentrating so hard upon our own problems, we may be overlooking some international situations that can give us comfort. Consider what the world must look like today to the Red Chinese who now have only Vietnam as their only possible source of comfort.

• • •

And how much comfort is that? In analyzing the year 1965 for Red China, News Front magazine notes that the U.S. position in Vietnam has virtually destroyed the Red Chinese slogan of the U.S. as a "paper tiger."

• • •

It is not just a matter of foolish pride that we might find pleasure in Red China's abandonment of this slogan. The slogan has been part of the hard line revolutionary approach pushed by Mao-Tse-tung and loss of the slogan, therefore, hurts the entire cause.

• • •

Bad to Worse

Still, it must be granted that Vietnam is neither won nor lost yet by either side. But China must look to far less than such an even break as that in many other parts of the world.

News Front points first to the ill-fated African-Asian conference scheduled for the summer of 1964 in Algeria. Expected to be a stage for communist propaganda and influence throughout Asia, the Middle East and Africa, the meeting was scuttled with the military coup that replaced pro-China Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

• • •

China was never able to recover and lost substantial ground as a result of this failure and reversal in Algeria. Through half of 1965, President Sukarno of Indonesia was a shining light in the Red Chinese camp.

• • •

But suddenly, another military coup ravaged Sukarno's power structure, reduced him to a figurehead, stirred strong anti-communist actions throughout the country and left Indonesian leadership no worse for the West than neutral.

• • •

Red Nightmares

Even North Korea has drifted from the Red Chinese camp into an independent status. China lost at every turn in the recent Indian-Pakistan fight over Kashmir and Russia ended up the hero in promoting certain agreements between India and Pakistan.

Chinese talk of revolution disturbed many African nations during the year and these newly independent nations slipped further from the grasp and influence of China.

• • •

In total, the picture is one that must be frightening to Red China. One can gloss over the hard facts of the world in which he lives but he cannot erase them from his mind. We may have a restless night now and then but Red China should be having nightmares.

The Strongest Voice in Washington

On that fateful Dallas day, Bill Moyers flew straight to Lyndon Johnson's side; he's still there—Presidential spokesman, political comer

Provocative EDITORIAL — Topic in News FEATURE

Bill Moyers, wide-eyed . . .

By ARTHUR EDSON, AP

DURING a recent news briefing the President's secretary, Bill Moyers, was asked a military question he couldn't answer.

Scorning intermediaries and channels, Moyers turned and dialed Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara for the information he needed.

Now not many persons can go directly to McNamara, who is busy with Vietnam and all that. An impressed White House reporter was later comparing Moyers' performance with those of his immediate predecessors, Pierre Salinger and George Reedy.

"Salinger might have called the Defense press secretary," this reporter said. "Reedy probably wouldn't have called anybody."

This wasn't said to disparage either Salinger or Reedy, but rather to show how sure-footedly Moyers moves along the political heights.

At 31, and only six and a half years out of a Baptist theological school, Moyers kowtows to no one, including that demanding employer, Lyndon Baines Johnson.

"I happen to be awed by the man, and I happen to be awed by the presidency," Moyers said in an interview. But not overawed, as this anecdote shows:

The President, while talking with a visitor, remembered a document he had been reading a few nights earlier, but now he couldn't find it.

"He kept pushing buttons," the visitor said, "and one assistant after another kept trotting in. Each one would say, 'No, Mr. President, I don't know anything about it.' But all the way to the door he'd keep saying, yes, yes, he would do his best to find it.

"The last guy Johnson called was Moyers. He listened to the problem and said, 'I never heard of it, Mr. President, and walked out, head held high."

Moyers is tagged as a bright star who has gone far and, if his luck, his incredible sense of timing and his friendship with LBJ hold out, could go farther. Much farther.

Already there are reports that a check has been made of his popularity in Texas, in case he should some day decide to run for governor, and friend and foe agree that in the ingredients making up Bill Moyers one should never overlook a driving political ambition.

Moyers discloses not only White House actions—some momentous, some petty—but also reports on the President's thinking on everything from Vietnam to where is he likely to spend next weekend. Here Moyers is superbly equipped.

In 1963, while deputy chief of the Peace Corps, Moyers was sent peace-mongering among feuding Texas Democrats. On that fateful Nov. 22 he was in Austin when he heard that John F. Kennedy had been shot.

His action was instant and dramatic. He chartered a plane and flew to the new President's side in Dallas. He has been at the President's side ever since.

Moyers once described Johnson as "an intricate and complicated man," adjectives that could be applied to Moyers, too.

During an interview he (A) edited a Presidential text so that Johnson could deliver a couple of paragraphs before TV cameras, (B) gave a phone caller a fill-in on the character and aptitude of a newspaperman, (C) consulted with assistants on the problems of putting in a teleprompter so the President wouldn't appear to be reading, and (D) consulted with press office stenographers.

Through these potential distractions, Moyers remained unflustered, and managed to give the impression he was unhurried. A sampling of Moyers' thinking:

On the way the President reaches a decision — "He doesn't like to make a decision until he has to. He may have a two-hour meeting and those who leave may conclude the President is leaning a certain way. But during the evening he may make a half dozen telephone calls, sleep on it, and the next morning decide to go the other way.

On criticizing the press (which Moyers has occassionally done) — "The press has the right to criticize, but that doesn't carry with it the right not to be criticized. The press is as formidable a power as the government. It needs some kind of criticism."

Surprisingly, Moyers says he feels sorry for those who try to report on a complicated government headed by a complicated President.

"It's an almost impossible profession," he says.

This, he believes, plays a part in the recent flare-up over whether or not a credibility gap exists. A democracy's health depends on a well-informed electorate, with faith in the honesty of its leaders. Any deviation is worrisome, especially to a Baptist preacher who majored in ethics.

But truth has always been hard to come by. Moyers pointed to a famous passage in Plato's "The Republic" which says:

"If any one at all is to have the privilege of lying, the rulers of the state should be the persons; and they, in their dealings either with enemies or with their own citizens, may be allowed to lie for the public good."

Ethics student Moyers thinks ethics student Plato was dead wrong. And the young man who has come so far so fast said firmly:

"I don't know of anyone in government who is lying. If there is, it's inadvertently. If it's being done deliberately, it's inexcusable."

. . . But not awed by the boss.

Take It from Speedster:

Kids Are NOT Bad Drivers

Craig Breedlove holds the world's ground speed record of 600.601 miles per hour.

BY CRAIG BREEDLOVE
For United Press International

There are too many glib generalities about highway safety. Such as:

—The average teen-ager is a dangerous driver.

—Fast driving is the major cause of accidents

—American automobiles aren't safe.

Breedlove

I say this not from my experience of driving a vehicle more than 600 miles an hour, but from the standpoint of a person who considers himself a good driver in everyday highway situations.

Are teen-agers the menace some experts claim? I personally think 90% of our youngsters are responsible drivers—particularly those who've taken driver education courses in high school. That 90% takes the rap for the 10% who have no sense of responsibility.

Speeding? Sure, I've driven 600 m.p.h. but I try to stick to legal limits on the highway. I've never had an accident. Yet there's been too much written and said about speed being a killer as such. It isn't just speed but speed differential—the necessity for keeping up with the flow of traffic.

Super-Speed Racing Car.

A few other recommendations on highway safety:

—There should be stiffer driving instruction as well as tougher tests. The average test requires a person to drive like the proverbial little old lady. There isn't enough emphasis on ability to handle an emergency.

—This business of acquiring the "feel" of a car under all circumstances is particularly valid in the case of women drivers. Women aren't really inferior to men behind the wheel; they simply lack the confidence of the average male because they don't understand an automobile.

—I wish all cities would adopt the western practice of allowing right turns on red. It not only speeds up the flow of traffic but it reduces congestion and, I'm convinced, also reduces accidents.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

The Nebraska Signal (Geneva) suggested two factors were responsible for the large number of non-Nebraska companies lining up outside the University of Nebraska to hire graduates—while only two Nebraska concerns were represented.

One was "the high quality of Nebraska's products (trained personnel) . . . " Nevertheless, Nebraska lacks "the research and advanced training facilities that might keep our technological skills employed in the state."

The second factor was "the high salaries national concerns all over the nation, except in Nebraska, will pay to get needed personnel." On this, the Signal said the offers being made to NU graduates are made "by corporations who, if successful in getting the students signed up, will move them all over the country like chessmen to fill needs wherever they exist."

Savior

The Alliance Daily Times-Herald said LB301, the educational service unit bill, could be the "savior of Northwest (Nebraska) education."

The Times-Herald said it is "convinced that people in areas such as Northwest Nebraska need to band together to be able to support the special education needed to provide our youngsters with learning opportunities equal to those in metropolitan cities."

The law would not create new, huge school districts but "may help preserve many of those now in existence because they now have a legislative vehicle that will assist survival."

Just Smart

The 22 Nebraska communities termed "derelict" for not constructing sewage treatment plants rapidly enough—including Falls City—may just be "smart," the Falls City Journal said.

Unfortunately, those 31 towns which "jumped" into the sewage treatment business when T. A. Filipi, "the state's sewage expert," said "jump" were the "guinea pigs in the great sanitation experiment—and theirs didn't work," the Journal wrote.

The fact that Falls City has not moved speedily will, in the long run, "probably be worth thousands of dollars to the community," editor F. F. Nusbaum wrote.

Transportation Funds

Lincoln—I am interested in the reference to a Nebraska City News Press editorial in The Sunday Journal and Star (Fourth Estate, Jan. 30) concerning opposition of the Nebraska Council of Churches to a constitutional amendment permitting public funds to be used to transport students to private schools.

Our action does not refer primarily to "parochial students riding on the same buses with public school pupils." The proposed constitutional amendment goes much farther: "Authorizing transportation services for children attending any elementary or secondary school."

This would permit tax funds to be used to operate buses for private and parochial schools and to reimburse parents for transporting children to non-public schools.

The editorial referred to the fact that parents of non-public school children pay school taxes. On the other hand, if this amendment carries, all tax payers would be required to assist non-public schools in support for their transportation and this is usually quite a high percentage of a school budget.

The editorial appears to discuss the issue from the standpoint of the principle of "separation of church and state."

This is not the major point in our action. Our chief concern is support for the public school and objection to anything which tends to weaken the public school and its ability to provide educational opportunity for all.

Transportation funds for non-public schools would go a long way toward fragmentation and multiplication of school systems. Parochial schools are constitutionally permissible and may seem desirable to many people, but effective public education is something which everyone agrees we simply cannot do without.

One thing the public school does not need is for its tax funds to be divided or the public interest to be diluted.

Long War Ahead

Washington—It looks like a long, gruelling war ahead in Vietnam. All the talk about "escalation" or unlimited bombing or mobilizing a vast army of Americans to fight the war has been superseded by a planned determination to build up steadily the economic and military strength of South Vietnam, even if it takes years and years to do the job.

The chances are that no big battles will be fought and that no spectacular military measures will be taken, but that the United States will continue to exercise an increasing pressure that will eventually drive out the Communist guerrillas.

Lawrence

David Lawrence on Issues — Editorial Feature

If on any occasion in the meantime the North Vietnamese government wishes to talk peace, the United States will be ready. But there will have to be some evidence from the enemy that there is a genuine desire to end the war.

More Resolute Terms

President Johnson's trip to Hawaii was intended to strengthen the morale of the Vietnamese government and at the same time proclaim to the world America's intention to carry on the fight for the ideals that have been set forth again and again in the past.

The declaration of Honolulu is significant, not because any new principles are enunciated but because the purposes of the United States are defined in even more resolute terms than before. It says, in part:

"The United States of America is joined with the people and government of Vietnam to prevent aggression. This is the purpose of the determined effort of the American armed forces now engaged in Vietnam. The United States seeks no bases. It seeks no colonial presence. It seeks to impose no alliance or alignment. It seeks only to prevent aggression, and its pledge to that purpose is firm. It aims simply to help a people and government who are determined to help themselves.

* * *

"The United States is pledged to the principles of the self-determination of peoples, and of government by the consent of the governed . . .

* * *

"Just as the United States is pledged to play its full part in the world-wide attack upon hunger, ignorance, and disease, so in Vietnam it will give special support to the work of the people of that country to build even while they fight . . .

"The purpose of the United States remains a purpose of peace. The United States government and the government of Vietnam will continue in the future, as they have in the past, to press the quest for a peaceful settlement in every forum . . ."

Opinion Analysis Of Author

No Magic Way

It is interesting to compare what President Johnson affirmed at Honolulu with what he said in a speech on Aug. 12, 1964, just after Congress had authorized him to use the armed forces of the United States in Vietnam. He said at that time:

"For ten years through the Eisenhower administration, the Kennedy administration, and this administration, we have had one consistent aim—observance of the 1954 agreements which guaranteed the independence of South Vietnam. That independence has been the consistent target of aggression and terror. For ten years our response to these attacks has followed a consistent pattern. First, that the South Vietnamese have the basic responsibility for the defense of their own freedom.

"Second, we would engage our strength and our resources to whatever extent needed to help others repel aggression . . .

* * *

"Some say we should withdraw from South Vietnam . . . but the United States cannot and must not and will not turn aside and allow the freedom of a brave people to be handed over to Communist tyranny. This alternative is strategically unwise, we think, and it is morally unthinkable."

* * *

Although some Americans may think there is a magic way to bring the Vietnam war to an early end, they will find that, while the policy decided upon now does not call for hasty or impulsive action, it means a steady pressure designed to convince the North Vietnamese government that its aggression in South Vietnam has to be abandoned.

The war in Vietnam has turned out to be one of the most unselfish and generous expressions of a nation's purpose which has been witnessed in this century. Ultimately, the American crusade to secure self-determination for the people of Vietnam will be recognized as a manifestation of a great principle and ideal. It took a long while for the Marshall Plan to be appreciated in the decade after World War II was ended, and it will probably take an equally long time before the disinterested and unselfish service rendered to the people of Vietnam by the United States is truly understood by the world.

GOVERNMENT PICTURE

State and Local Payrolls Grow

Chicago Daily News Special

Washington — With a close look at the record, an economy-minded taxpayer can still find a few things to cheer about, even with a new federal budget calling for 2.7 million civilian workers—the most since World War II.

Much of the increase can be explained by the growing population. It takes more people to do the same old jobs as well as handle the new ones.

For example, in 1967, passport applications will go up 10%; the number of pieces of mail handled will increase 4%; takeoffs and landings handled by federal air controllers will go up 10%, and there will be new programs to staff, including hospital insurance for the elderly.

More Productive

But if you look at the relative size of the federal payroll, you find a diminishing proportion of workers over the years. Bureaucrats, like other workers, are becoming more productive in this era of automation.

In the last year of the Truman administration, 1952, every 10,000 taxpayers supported 163 federal workers. This ratio was gradually reduced in the Eisenhower administration. When Ike left, there were only 131 U.S. employes for each 10,000 citizens.

President Johnson brought this figure down to 128 in 1965—lower than it had been since 1950. The Budget Bureau reports that it would still be at that level if it weren't for Vietnam.

But when you add the build-up of civilian support for military operations in Vietnam, the ratio goes back to 136 per 10,000, projected for the coming fiscal year. That's about the same level as 1957-58.

Behind States

The administration can point to another comparison to make its growing personnel roster seem less significant. The rate of federal growth lags far behind that of state and local governments.

Back in the mid-forties, half of all government workers were working for Uncle Sam. Today, less than one out of four public payrollers is a federal employe. The rest are working for state and local taxpayers.

Iowa Court in Solomon Role

Conventional Home Preferred for Boy

BY DONALD R. FINLEY

Des Moines (UPI)—Where does a motherless 7-year-old boy have the better chance for happiness?

—In the "stable, dependable, conventional, middle class, Middle West background" of his maternal grandparents' home?

—Or in the "romantic, impractical, unstable and arty" home life offered by a father with a "Bohemian" approach to life.

The Iowa Supreme Court made the decision this week for little Mark Wendell Painter, 7, and touched off an emotional debate that appeared likely to rise in intensity.

Unanimous Decision

The court, in a unanimous decision, denied custody of

TELEPHOTO

Mark . . . and Dad

Mark to his father, Harold Painter, 34, Walnut Creek, Calif., and ordered the boy to remain with the grandparents who have cared for him since 1962.

Painter called the decision "totally inhuman" and said it set a dangerous precedent. The court said, however, it had depended largely on the testimony of a psychologist who spoke favorably of the boy's development while living with the grandparents.

Val Schoenthal, vice chairman of the Iowa Civil Liberties Union and head of its legal committee, said his organization was studying the trial proceedings to determine if there were grounds for an appeal.

The Nebraska Council on Family Law addressed a letter to the Iowa Supreme Court protesting "your decision to refuse Hal Painter custody of his son on religious and political grounds. We consider this decision an act of tyranny, pure and simple."

Painter is a writer, photographer and former newspaperman now working as a photographer at a Job Corps training center near San Francisco.

In a bitter, anguished attack on the court, Painter termed the ruling "a form of legal kidnaping."

Legal Kidnaping

"I don't drive a hay wagon, I drive a foreign car. I don't go to church on Sunday. I don't grow corn in backyard. I don't wear blue jeans. This, in the eyes of Iowa, makes me a Bohemian," Painter said. "Iowans in general . . . are convinced that the California way of life is a rather frightful thing."

"They've set a very dangerous precedent," Painter added. "What they've said is that if parents don't conform to a middle class, Middle Western mode of living, they face loss of their children. By that standard, several million Americans would have to give up their kids."

The Supreme Court decision to award custody of Mark to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bannister, Ames, Ia., reversed a lower court decision awarding custody to Painter.

The Supreme Court opinion said Mark was "not well adjusted" when he went to the Bannister home at age 5. "He did not distinguish fact from fiction . . . he was very aggressive toward smaller children, cruel to animals, not liked by his classmates and did not seem to know what was acceptable conduct. In two years he made a great deal of improvement. He now appears to be well disciplined, happy, relatively secure and popular with his classmates, although still subject to more than normal anxiety," Justice William Stuart said.

Judge Okays Psychiatric Examination

Trenton (UPI) — Hitchcock County Judge Victor Westermark Saturday agreed to permit a psychiatric examination of accused wife-slayer Kenneth Baumfalk of Culbertson.

Baumfalk, 34, is charged with first-degree murder in the Nov. 4, 1965, shooting of his estranged wife, Elaine.

The shooting occurred near a Culbertson cafe where Mrs. Baumfalk was employed.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys had asked for permission to have Baumfalk examined by Dr. William Giles, a psychiatrist at Omaha's St. Joseph Hospital. No date was set for the examination.

Judge Westermark also set 10 a.m. March 11 as the date to complete Baumfalk's arraignment.

He is being held in the Hitchcock County jail.

Birth Control Change Stalled

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Paul VI said he will reorganize his special Birth Control Commission in the next few days to hasten its decision on whether or not to recommend changes in the Roman Catholic Church stand on contraception.

He told Roman Catholic couples that until the Church comes up with new answers to the issue they must follow the traditional rules against mechanical methods of birth control.

Hershey Seeks Men From 1-Y

Washington (AP)—The Director of Selective Service wants the Armed Forces to induct more men who have been rejected and put into the 1-Y classification for moral and physical reasons.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey says he believes "there is gold" in the form of militarily acceptable manpower among the some two million men now classified 1-Y — qualified for military service only in time of national emergency.

Hershey said also he believes President Johnson's estimate of 160,000 inductions for the year beginning July 1 is "based on hope." But he didn't say how many he thinks will be inducted.

The military agreed recently to ease up on its mental standards so that generally now a high school graduate is acceptable for induction if he meets the other requirements. Local draft boards and the Armed Forces examining stations are reviewing the records of high school graduates previously ruled to be 1-Y who might now be acceptable under the new standard.

Speaking on a WTOP television-radio program taped for broadcast, Hershey said:

"I'm certainly going to exert every pressure I can to not only look at the intellectually rejected but the morally and physically rejected."

Asked if the military is rejecting on moral grounds youths who deliberately establish court records by parking violations or other minor offenses, Hershey said he could not cite a specific case "but I do hear far more than I like about people running up criminal records to escape."

Corps Replacement

Chicago Daily News Special

Washington—A proposal to create another new cabinet-level department, this one for natural resources, has run into opposition from influential waterway interests.

The proposal—advanced by liberals and conservationists, and endorsed by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall—would cut down the power of the Corps of Engineers.

Waterway interests and their friends in Congress are champions of the Corps of Engineers, which digs their canals and dams their rivers.

The proposed Department of Natural Resources is not yet part of the official Johnson Administration program and is given next to no chance in Congress this year.

But Senator Frank Moss (D-Utah) has introduced legislation to establish the new department.

Senator Spessard Holland (D-Fla.) has ridiculed the "one super-agency" concept, lamenting that the proposal would strip the Corps of Engineers of its power over civil works. The Corps now holds life-and-death power over waterway, harbor, river and dam projects.

Leipzig Fair

Paris (AP) — The U.S. Commerce Dept. has given official permission for American firms to exhibit and trade at the 1966 Leipzig Fair in Communist East Germany March 6-15, Press Director Fred Merkwitschka said. American representation is expected to be 10 times greater than normal.

English Rally

London (UPI)—Hundreds of Ban-the-Bomb demonstrators attempted to storm the House of Commons in an effort to hold a Vitenam peace rally inside the British Parliament. Only three demonstrators managed to get into the chamber, and police promptly removed them.

Egypt Shifts to Agriculture

Cairo (UPI)—Egypt's industrial bubble has burst.

Now the government is looking at agriculture, the historic source of Egypt's wealth, as the possible long-range answer to the country's development problem.

This change in economic thinking has come with the new cabinet of Premier Zakaria Mohieddin, installed last September. If it is translated into actual programs it could help to create a shift away from the Communist bloc and toward the West.

The West has always sought to persuade the Nasser regime that Egypt's real hope is agriculture. Now the Mohieddin cabinet has embraced this philosphy and if it is allowed by Nasser to carry out its programs it is expected to get help from the United States, the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

In recent years Egypt's farm income has been increasing only 2% annually, while population has grown at a 3% clip. Western experts believe this gap could be closed and surmounted if Egypt made its farming more efficient.

The granary of the world in ancient Roman times, Egypt still has some of the richest black land in the world.

Many Egyptian farmers still use wooden plows and thus barely scratch the surface. Ancient and inefficient planting methods, using five times as much seed as American farmers, get smaller yields.

They plant small, inefficient plots, and experts say, they use far less fertilizer than is needed.

One authority estimates conservatively Egypt could double its production of cotton, its biggest cash crop, and triple its corn output if it revolutionized farming methods. Experts estimate yields could similarly be increased for wheat, now largely obtained from the U.S. as foreign aid and for rice, one of Egypt's top export crops.

Fort Worth, Tex. (UPI)—More fathers may be showing up for the Parent-Teachers Assn. meeting at Ridglea Hills Elementary school. Newest teacher there is Marion Wilkinson, who holds the title of Miss Forth Worth and is doing practice teaching this year.

Oldster, Maybe, But Able to Run and Yell

Aptos, Calif. (UPI) — A 70-year old woman dressed in night clothes chased a young man down a city street at midnight, shouting "Stop" at the top of her lungs. For some reason, he stopped.

Mrs. Adelaide McAlphine accused him of taking the hubcaps off her grandson's car. She had taken off after him when she said she saw him "in the act."

Police arrested the youth and charged him with theft.

It's a New Way to Count

Aussies Drop Pounds, Pick Up Dollars

Sidney, Australia (UPI) — The American visiting Australia will find Monday that his dollar isn't worth a dollar.

It's the day Australia changes from English-type money — pounds, shillings and pence — to the decimal system, using dollars and cents. And Australia will have the most valuable dollar in the world, equal to $1.12 in U.S. money.

Dollar, of course, is just the name of the unit chosen. Canada and Hong Kong are among other places that use the word, but their dollars are worth less than the U.S. variety.

The American tourist will get only about 90 Australian dollars for his $100 U.S., but he'll find even so that the dollar goes farther here in many directions. A man's haircut, for example, is 70 Australian cents.

Two Year Job

Australia has been preparing two years for the changeover to simpler coinage, ever since the decision was to make the Australian pound (now $2.24) equal two Australian dollars, and the shilling worth 10 cents.

For a year, they have stopped teaching primary school children the singsong table, "12 pence one shilling 20 shillings one pound," for the much simpler 100 cents to the dollar.

Banks were closed Thursday and Friday to give them four-straight no-business days to change their records from the old system to the new.

From Feb. 14, all banking business will be done in dollars and cents, but other business can make the change any time in the next two years.

In those two years, both currencies will be in circulation although there will be a gradual withdrawal as the old notes and coins reach banks.

600 million Coins

Preparing for the changeover has been an enormous job.

For instance, 600 million new coins of 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50 cents have been minted. New notes, 160 million in all, have been printed in denominations of 1, 2, 10 and 20 dollars.

Work is starting on conversion of 500,000 business machines in 800 different models from pounds, shillings and pence operation to dollars and cents. This is being done over the next two years, and the federal government is footing the bill — estimated at $67 million (U.S.).

The paper money is distinctly national and in different colors for different denominations.

The $1 note, orange red, has a new portrait of Queen Elizabeth II on the front, and an adaptation of aboriginal paintings and carvings on the back.

Because of the demand for the coins for ordinary commercial purposes, collectors will not be able to get mint sets for almost a year.

'Clean Miss' Is Reported

Lindsborg, Kan. (UPI)—Mike Chamber had a tame, deodorized skunk as a pet but the animal wandered away from home.

His 14-year old cousin, Larry Webster, was at a high school football game when he spotted what he thought was his cousin's missing pet. He chased it and tossed his coat over it. It wasn't his cousin's pet skunk.

Mike headed for home and a series of baths.

Disunity Troubles Guiana

Strife to Mar Independence

By SMITH HEMPSTONE
Chicago Daily News Special

Georgetown, British Guiana —When this Minnesota-sized British colony on the northern coast of South America achieves independence on May 26, it will do so ridden with racial bitterness and political disunity.

This is largely the responsibility of Cheddi Jagan, an East Indian dentist educated in the United States, and his Chicago-born wife Janet.

Both are self-confessed Marxist-Socialists who say they believe in parliamentary democracy.

The son of a sugar plantation straw boss, Jagan spent seven years in Washington and Chicago working his way through college and dental school.

Janet's organizational talents are great and it was she who helped Cheddi set up his People's Progressive Party, which swept to victory at the polls in 1953, 1957 and 1961.

Dedicated Marxism

By the same token, it was Janet's dedicated Marxism that helped to turn Britain, the United States, and most of his Negro supporters against Cheddi, ultimately leading to his defeat in elections late in 1964 under a new system of proportional representation.

Had Jagan played by the unwritten rules of the game, as have other far-left British colonial politicians such as Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, he unquestionably would be premier of British Guiana today.

Just over half of this colony's 658,000 people are East Indians brought here to till the sugar fields after the emancipation of the Negro slaves.

Almost to a man, these East Indians vote for Jagan, not because he is a Marxist (most of the Indians are conservative peasants) but because he is an Indian.

But Jagan's Marxist ties and intransigence coupled with opposition leader Forbes Burnham's angry irresponsibility led to so much racial violence (three official states of emergency were declared in as many years and more than 200 people were killed in 1964 alone) that the parties, unable to reach agreement on the constitutional steps necessary to reach independence, appealed to Britain for a solution

Britain's Response

Britain's response, designed to encourage coalitions and the creation of multiracial parties, was to create a new system of proportional representation on the Israeli pattern.

Once again, the PPP led the poll with 45.8% of the votes. But under the proportional system, this won Jagan only 24 seats.

Former PPP chairman Burnham's basically Negro People's National Congress (PNC) polled 40.5% and won 22 seats.

The PNC and right-of-center United Force (UF) quickly forged a coalition with Burnham, a 43-year-old Negro lawyer as premier.

Jagan immediately protested and refused to participate in the November, 1965, constitutional conference in London, during which British Guiana's independence was negotiated.

Boycott

Since then the PPP, largely financed by GIMPEX, the party-owned export-import firm that sells east European goods here, has used the filibuster and the boycott in an attempt to wreck Burnham's government.

Green Berets Growing

Special Forces Bolster Troops

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Army's slightly mysterious special forces—the men in the Green Berets—are operating today on at least three continents, plus Central America and the Pacific island of Okinawa.

Others are training for missions, when and if needed, in Africa and the Middle East.

When President John F. Kennedy sent the first handful to shore up the morale of the South Vietnamese in late 1961, there were only 1,800 Green Berets in the entire Army.

Now there are 10,000 of them in Asia, Germany, Panama, Vietnam, Okinawa, the United States and perhaps other secret places. In Vietnam alone there are about 1,500, and 71 had died at the hands of the Communists by the start of 1966.

The original function of the special forces was to operate behind an enemy's lines, harrassing communications and supply points.

But with Communist guerrilla type aggression developing as a major problem, the Green Berets were given the added task of carrying on psychological warfare and counter-insurgency assignments—helping friendly nations suppress outlaw threats to established government.

Train Vietnamese

Their first job in Vietnam was to train loyal South Vietnamese irregulars, mainly mountain tribesmen, to defend their outposts from the Communist Viet Cong.

A second mission was to help the South Vietnamese stem the flow of Communist reinforcements and supplies from North Vietnam by way of Cambodia and Laos.

New Assignments

Within the past 18 months the special forces have been given two new assignments:

—To serve as military advisers to South Vietnamese district chiefs.

—To help refugees make plans for their own defense when they are able to return to areas now infested by the Viet Cong.

Special forces teams, many including South Vietnamese, undertake dangerous missions to Viet Cong strongholds to spot targets for artillery, air strikes and troop assaults. Teams make quick trips by helicopter to check results of bombing raids.

The Green Berets in Vietnam are members of the 5th Special Forces Group, one of seven in the U.S. Army, each with a maximum authorized strength of 1,573 men commanded by a colonel.

In Germany

The airborne 10th group is stationed in Germany, keeping an eye on the Communists to the East. The 8th group, based in Panama, is reported to have played a role in recent efforts by the Colombian government to crush bandits in the hinterlands. The 1st group, on Okinawa, has what the army calls a "General Asian Mission."

The three remaining groups—the 3rd, 6th and 7th—are at Ft. Bragg, N.C., headquarters of the Army's special warfare center. Two of these groups are earmarked for the Middle East and Africa. The other is described as a general unit with no special commitment.

The training once was predominately military, but has been expanded to include civic action, intelligence, language and psychological warfare courses.

Ag Expert Put Into Viet Army

Saigon (UPI) — Vietnam's Director of Agricultural Research has been drafted into the army, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman learned after arriving here to help develop programs to improve local farming methods.

Freeman, who arrived with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, said, "one of my major concerns is the shortage of personnel . . . Vietnamese and American."

Morrison, Curtis Race Promises a Hot Show

By DICK HERMAN

Johnny Mitchell called it.

"This will be the best political show most of us will see in our time," the Democratic state chairman observed.

And the amens rolled in Saturday.

Not in modern memory have Nebraskans witnessed two political giants from opposition parties on a collision course.

Yet this is precisely the staging and the circumstance which fell into place Friday when three-term Gov. Frank Morrison announced he will try to defeat Sen. Carl T. Curtis next November.

Neither man is expected to be troubled in the May 10 primary election.

Democrat Morrison was a minor political figure 18 years ago when Republican Curtis whipped him in a congressional race by 19,000 votes.

Winning Record

Today Morrison has three generally untroubled terms as governor behind him. Further, he husbands a substantial store of popularity and a record of recent polling place triumphs.

In Curtis Republicans boast a solid election champion, one who won the last time running by 107,000 votes, one whose campaigns pivot on block-by-block organization.

Republicans made it rapidly clear President Lyndon Johnson will be the unlisted but highly visible third person in the race.

The reaction of Sen. Curtis to the Morrison disclosure was one implicitly affiliating the governor with the Johnson administration record.

Morrison sought to change the focus in a news conference Saturday morning. Democrats can be expected, from their private conversations, not to let voters forget Curtis' close contact in 1964 with Sen. Barry Goldwater, who even traditionally conservative Nebraskans rejected two years ago.

Central Figure

Curtis was a central figure in Goldwater's losing presidential quest.

Wholly apart from the Curtis-Morrison encounter, Nebraskans may be politically exhausted before November by fierce intra and inter-party fights for governor and lieutenant governor.

A political historian needs to go back to the 1952 Republican primary struggle between Gov. Val Peterson and the late Sen. Hugh Butler to recall a party bloodletting of a kind which might be repeated in 1966.

Butler won that race, cementing strong conservative rule over Nebraska Republican fortunes to this day.

Peterson is one of the principals in the current GOP gubernatorial primary field. His major opponent, as of now, according to party executives, is Wausa banker N. T. Tiemann.

Peterson's primary election message stresses he is a proven administrator.

Lift Needed

Echoing a John Kennedy line, Tiemann says Nebraska needs a new lift, one he can provide, without any increase in taxes. Both men are on record against the state income tax.

That same tax has been endorsed by Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen of Lincoln, normally the logical successor to Morrison's mantle.

However Douglas County Democrats, who backed Sorensen two years ago in his upset triumph over Republican Charles Thone, reportedly aren't enthusiastic in 1966.

One source Saturday said an older, more conservative, anti-income tax Democrat would better suit Douglas County specifications.

Sorensen's role was automatically elevated by Morrison's decision. It put the governor in a lame-duck category.

His Campaign

Lincoln in Background As Curtis Campaigns

By BILL TILLINGHAST

If you're politically inclined the password in Lincoln Saturday was Abraham Lincoln.

The Great Emancipator dominated the Capitol grounds as Republican Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Minden verbally opened the second round in defense of his title as Nebraska Senator.

Speaking on Lincoln's birthday and in front of the brooding statue of Lincoln at the Capitol, Senator Curtis spoke of Lincoln as he both attacked and challenged his upcoming senatorial opponent, Gov. Frank Morrison.

Noting that the 16th President was the Great Emancipator, Curtis said "it now appears we need another emancipator—one who will emancipate us from words, words, and more words, and most of all from false political and governmental doctrine."

"It was said yesterday that my seat in the U.S. Senate had been used to preach hate of the President of the United States," said Curtis.

"Here and now I challenge the author of that statement to prove it," he said in reference to remarks by Governor Morrison in announcing Friday he would seek the Senate seat held by Curtis.

"I have disagreed with other people, yes, but I have never hated. I deeply resent a charge that I hate anyone—and especially the President of the United States," Curtis said.

Noting that Morrison had used the eve of Lincoln's birthday "as a springboard for his campaign," the Senator said:

"I want to set the record straight once and for all—Abraham Lincoln was not only a great American and the Great Emancipator but he also was a great Republican."

In commenting that Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson "became immortal because they stood against many of the doctrines which the Democrat

Possible Candidates Are Polled

Nebraska Power Review Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola Saturday night appeared nearly ready to toss his political hat into the Democratic ring.

"I am presently not committed," the attorney, a Democrat, said. He said his plans hinged on Gov. Frank Morrison's political decision.

Morrison announced Friday he would run for the United States Senate, but Norton remained mum Saturday.

He said he will announce "my own plans" and names of specific candidates he will support "very shortly."

Two other Democrats and a Republican mentioned as possible candidates for state office said they would not run.

They were State Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala, a Democrat; Richard Spelts of Grand Island, a former state Republican chairman; and former State Senator Joseph Vosoba of Wilber, a Democrat.

Vosoba said he had formed a group to support Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen for governor.

Members of the group are Vosoba, Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington, Mrs. Irene Neville Bystrom of North Platte, Gene Gerdes of Alliance, James F. Green of Omaha, James Munnelly of Omaha and Bert L. Overcash of Lincoln.

"Nebraska, more than at any other time, will need positive leadership in the next four years," Vosoba said in a statement. "This Sorensen will provide."

Unavailable for comment late Saturday on their political futures were Sen. Dick Marvel of Hastings, J. Richard Swenson of Omaha, Omaha Mayor A. V. Sorenson, State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan, William Galbraith of Beemer and State Banking Director Henry Ley of Wayne.

High-Rise Dorm OKd For Union

To Double Male Student Space

The Union College board of trustees has authorized immediate construction of the first high-rise building on the college campus — a seven-story $650,000 dormitory for 208 men students.

The building, complete with sauna bath, assembly and recreation facilities, will have the first elevator on the Union campus and will be carpeted throughout for quiet and easy maintenance.

Designed by Steve Cook and Associates, Lincoln architects the new dormitory will almost double the college's present on-campus housing for male students, said Dean of Men Robert Britain.

Plans call for suites housing four men each. Each suite will contain two bedrooms and a bathroom.

Upperclassmen

The new dormitory, which is to have a dean's apartment on the first floor, will be primarily for upperclassmen.

There will be a complete sound system, providing programs and calling facilities in each suite.

The utility room will be underneath the entrance area. Heat dissipated from it will keep the entrance free of snow and ice.

The new building will be of reinforced concrete construction with flat plate floors (only about 9 inches thick) to minimize height.

The men's dormitory will be in the southeast quarter of the campus, east of South Hall, the present men's dormitory, and north of the auditorium. The site of the 72-feet square new building is presently used as tennis courts.

Ground-Breaking

A ground-breaking ceremony is scheduled April 30. Contracts are to be awarded late this month and preliminary work on the site may begin before the ceremony.

Cook and Associates are the architects for a 10-year full-campus master plan, according to College Business Manager George T. Gott.

Financing Major Item For Rural Electrics

By DON WALTON

Rural electric leaders this week will bump up against the hard decision on how best to chart their future financing course.

A determination of proposed means to provide adequate capital to finance the future expansion of rural electric districts is the major item of business on the schedule for the 24th annual meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

The convention opens in Las Vegas Monday and will continue through Thursday. Financing is the major topic scheduled for debate Wednesday.

Nebraskans There

Nebraska rural electric officials will be among the 8,000 delegates and guests. Members of the Nebraska Power Review Board will also attend the conference.

Under consideration by NRECA members will be a plan to seek capital from the private money market to supplement funds available through the traditional federal government loan program.

Federal Rural Electrification Administration loan funds are being cut by the Johnson administration, largely as a result of increasing budget demands and growing opposition to the low 2% interest rate charged by the government.

The President's new budget would provide REA with $220 million in loan funds for 1967. NRECA has estimated a need of $675 million.

Higher Interest

The proposed supplemental financing program, which has undergone several changes since it was first suggested, envisions the establishment of some sort of mechanism to provide ways to bring private money into the program, perhaps through a federal bank for rural electric systems.

Rural districts would expect to pay higher interest rates for such funds.

The Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, which represents 23 rural districts, has also begun to consider a supplemental financing program of its own.

Under preliminary discussion is the possibility of pooling the financial resources of member districts for loan fund purposes through issuance of tax-exempt bonds.

...ough figures, derived from a 10-year average, indicate that the G & T could provide some $1.5 million a year through such a pooling arrangement, according to General Manager Dil Blatchford of Columbus.

Such a figure compares with an average annual requirement of some $3.5 million for new construction by member districts, he said.

Problems Seen

The supplemental financing proposal suggested by NRECA creates special problems for Nebraska districts, which are political subdivisions.

"There is some question as to whether Nebraska rurals could borrow directly from the proposed bank," Blatchford noted. Thus, the pooling concept is being explored.

Generally, Blatchford said, Nebraska rural officials "feel that the NRECA proposal is a pretty fair approach to the problem" of providing adequate financing for the future.

"Naturally, all rurals are vitally concerned. It's our lifeblood."

Nebraska delegates will gather together at a breakfast meeting in Las Vegas Tuesday to discuss the financing issue and meet with REA leaders. The breakfast is being arranged by the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

He is survived by three daughters: Sharon of Columbus, Mrs. Patricia Allen of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Mrs. Kathleen Bridenbaugh of Seattle, Wash.

Thedford (UPI)—State Sen. Chet Paxton of Thedford announced Saturday he would seek re-election to the Legislature.

Paxton will be running in the new 42nd Dist. He previously served in the old 40 District.

Flood Damage Closes Lincoln-Omaha Interstate for at Least a Week

Interstate traffic between Lincoln and Omaha will be diverted to U.S. Highway 6 for at least a week, the result of flood waters tearing away the fill and collapsing part of the highway leading onto a bridge near Ashland Saturday.

At a special press conference in the Governor's Mansion Saturday evening, Gov. Frank Morrison and State Engineer John Hossack said it would be a week to 10 days before that part of the highway could be repaired.

The Interstate between Waverly and Gretna interchanges was closed to traffic at 2:10 p.m. Saturday, with traffic being rerouted to Hwy. 6 at Waverly and returning to the Interstate at Gretna.

Hossack said traffic could go farther north to the Greenwood interchange, but that the road between the interchange and Hwy. 6 was gravel. Motorists remain on paved road if they leave at Waverly. Turning off the Interstate at Waverly on a Lincoln-Omaha trip involves a shorter distance than turning off at Greenwood interchange, he said.

The Safety Patrol said the preferred Lincoln - Omaha route, however, would be to take Hwy. 6 all the way from Lincoln to Omaha.

The Lincoln-bound Interstate lane was closed at 5p.m. Friday. At 8:40 a.m. Saturday part of the bridge approach, on a channel just off the Platte River, collapsed.

5,000 Sandbags

Morrison noted that "without the heroic actions of Road Department volunteers in putting in 5,000 sandbags we would have completely lost the approaches on this segment."

The governor said additional State Safety Patrolmen would stand all-night vigil on the Interstate and Highway 6 in an effort to avert confusion and avoid accidents.

Hossack said the flood waters are scouring some 20 feet deep into the soil at the channel site and 10 to 15 feet back up the approaches. Much of the fill beyond that is frozen and holding steady, he said.

It was that undercutting that caused the first section of bridge approach to collapse, Hossack said.

The approach was reinforced with steel at the time of construction to protect the highway from minor undercutting. However, the force of the river waters cut beyond the end of the reinforcement, causing it to collapse.

Repair Funds on Hand

The State Engineer said the cost of repair will come from maintenance funds set up for that purpose but that the cost was not as important as the inconvenience to motorists.

He estimated that the closed part of the superhighway has a daily volume of about 6,000 cars at this time of year.

Morrison, who visited the flood area Saturday, said many farms north of U.S. 6 are completely isolated and that in many places the water is three or four miles wide.

The governor noted flood control programs will have to be accelerated, but that it is too big a job for either a soil conservancy district or the state by themselves.

He said cooperation is needed with the federal government, particularly the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, Army Engineers and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

In a parting comment, Morrison said there has been too much soil going down the river without any mud-slinging by politicians.

The Army Corps of Engineers has considered a feasibility study for a Platte-Elkhorn River lake behind a dam at South Bend to impound such flood water. (See story on page 5B.)

Nemaha Meet

Humboldt (UPI) —The Nemaha Rivers Assn., which is pushing for a basin-wide survey or study of the Little Nemaha and the Big Nemaha, will hold a meeting at 1 p.m. Feb. 24 at the city auditorium.

Consumers Given 90 Days To Decide on Nuclear Plant

By DEL SNODGRASS

Consumers Public Power Dist. has been given a 90-day extension, or until June 10, to decide the future disposition of its closed down nuclear power plant at Hallam.

That report came from Consumers General Manager D. W. Hill of Columbus following last week's Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) rejection of a Consumers proposal to restore operations of the nuclear reactor.

Hill said Consumers originally had been given until Mar. 9 to determine the plant's disposition following the termination of the AEC-Consumers contract in August of last year.

But after the AEC announced a week ago that it had rejected the Consumers proposal to restore the nuclear operation at Hallam, Hill went to Washington to confer with AEC officials.

The Mar. 9 deadline, Hill reported, was extended to June 10.

Several Ideas

At this time, Hill said, Consumers "doesn't have the faintest idea" what course to follow in hopes of putting the nuclear portion of the combination nuclear-conventional power producing plant back into operation.

But he said several ideas are being kicked around and that "we'll start pursuing it seriously this week."

"Now," he added, "we at least won't be rushed by the Mar. 9 deadline."

The nuclear reactor at the Sheldon Station at Hallam southwest of Lincoln started operating in August of 1962, but was shut down in September of 1964 following the discovery of leaks in the system.

The Consumers proposal to make the reactor operable called for the AEC to spend $250,000 to repair the faulty equipment and another $1 million for other repair and maintenance. Under that plan, Consumers would have made no further investments at the plant.

The AEC, in rejecting the proposal, said the commission would be unable to devote the additional resources.

Total Cost

Both the AEC and Consumers have considerable investments in the Hallam plant.

Total cost of the plant was $77 million. Consumers contributed $5,750,000 and the AEC $51,250,000 toward the $57 million investment in the nuclear portion of the plant.

Consumers spent another $20 million on the conventional part of the plant and has continued to generate electricity by the conventional method.

Under the original contract, Consumers will be reimbursed for its $5.7 million expenditure.

But the AEC has not yet acted on Consumers' request to be reimbursed another $3.3 million for what Consumers contends represents the cost of buying additional power which would have been available had the reactor remained operational.

Steen Favors Part In 'Ox Bow Lakes' Plan

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen said he hopes Nebraska can participate in a plan for recreational development of the "ox-bow lakes" region between Sioux City and Onawa, Ia., on the Missouri River.

The development would be financed by the federal government and the states of Nebraska and Iowa.

The plan proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers calls for the acquisition of land for the development of recreation areas on four lakes on the Iowa side of the river and one on the Nebraska side.

Steen said Nebraska rejected an original plan proposed by the Corps and that he is not familiar with all the aspects of the newest plan.

But if at all possible, he said, Nebraska would like to participate in the development. Nebraska's participation, he said, depends on an agreement over what portions of the development are the responsibility of which of the three governments involved.

$4 Million

Estimated cost of the development is $4 million of which the Corps would contribute about $1.5 million. The remainder would be contributed by the two states.

In Omaha, a Corps spokesman said further plans and a better idea of the financing aspect will be worked out in negotiations with the states.

But as now contemplated, he said, the states would be responsible for buying lands in the areas where there is no dispute over whether the property is located in Iowa or Nebraska as the result of river channel improvement.

The Corps, he said, would buy land in the areas where there is a boundary dispute and would finance the necessary levee work.

Lakes Created

The lakes to be developed were created by channel and flood control work on the river between Sioux City and Onawa.

Although only one lake is slated for development on the Nebraska side, a Corps spokesman said. Nebraska's Winnebago Indians are interested in developing the Glovers Point Lake on the Nebraska side in Thurston County southeast of Homer.

Physicians Told to Get Into Politics

By BESS JENKINS

Kearney — Nebraska doctors were told they not only have a right but a duty as citizens to get into government, politics and community activities, said Dr. Donovan Ward of Dubuque, Ia.

The immediate past president of the American Medical Assn. (AMA) spoke at the Nebraska Medical Assn. mid-winter conference here.

Politics today is government, he said, and "doctors are derelicts if they are not participating."

If physicians as a group are to be castigated for this activity, so also should be other professional groups in politics such as attorneys, veterinarians and dentists.

Differences Told

The Dubuque surgeon discussed medicine's comparatively new "AMPAC" (American Medical Political Action Committee), which can engage in what the American Medical Assn. cannot: support of political candidates at state and national levels.

This organization, composed of AMPAC national level, state groups like Nebraska's MEDPAC, and congressional districts' PACs (Political Action Committees), has two major purposes: political education and bipartisan support of political candidates.

It is explained that AMA interests in Congress begin the first day Congress convenes in Washington; AMPAC's interest in Congress ceases the day its members have been elected and shifts to the makeup of the succeeding Congress.

Corporate contributions such as those from AMA to AMPAC or from The Nebraska Medical Assn. to MEDPAC can be used for political education or administrative expenses, but not to support political candidates. Expenditure for this must come from individual members.

Dr. Ward praised the Nebraska MEDPAC's increased activity following organization. He predicted the support of doctors could mean the difference of candidates being elected or defeated in elections in months ahead.

Dr. Max Raines of North Platte heads Nebraska's MEDPAC.

Dues Increase Sought

Nebraska doctors' support for an increase of AMA dues from $45 annually to $70 was sought by Dr. Ward. The proposal already approved by the AMA board, will come up for a vote at the June AMA meeting in Chicago.

Dr. Ward said only $7.5 million of the AMA's $27 million income last year was covered by dues. Advertising in AMA publications, subscriptions and investment income made up the balance. He said the distinction of public health leadership held by the AMA today requires that the association not stand still in all types of activities if this title is to be retained. This he added, called for more support from the nation's doctors.

Paul Schneider, Mutual of Omaha executive, spoke briefly on his firm's role as intermediary insurance carrier in Nebraska for the medical or Part B program of Medicare. This was announced last week from Washington.

Complete Wheat Food Studied

The Nebraska Wheat Commission reported Saturday it is studying possibilities for development of a new nutritionally-balanced food made from wheat.

Ervain Freihe, commission chairman, said federal officials have urged that such a product be researched for use in countries abroad with difficulties in food production.

He said the commission will meet in Kansas City Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss the topic with research experts.

Nebraska Union Sets Up Campus Speakers Bureau

The Nebraska Union Talks and Topics Committee is setting up a campus speakers bureau and faculty fellows program to encourage a closer relationship between students and faculty.

The speakers bureau will include faculty members and local professional people. The committee plans to publish a brochure listing speakers and topics to furnish to interested groups.

The faculty fellows program will emphasize informal meetings between faculty and student groups, primarily through residence halls, sororities, and fraternities.

According to Mrs. Jean Regester, co-ordinator of student activities, over 150 faculty members and several living units have expressed interest in the program.

No Blacktop For Park Road

According to Jim Ager, city parks and recreation director, funds have not been allotted in this year's budget to blacktop the present graveled section of the loop road around the animal pens at Pioneer Park.

Ager commented that there has been discussion of such a road improvement and there may be a possible route change when improvement is scheduled.

Ford McDonald of Lexington reports to governor.

Scouts Announce Big Membership Drive

Nebraska Boy Scouts and Explorers presented their annual report to the governor Saturday and announced an ambitious 1966 membership campaign.

Joseph Bataillion of Nebraska City said the Boy Scout organization will attempt to increase by 6.6% the Nebraska membership total of 47,046 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers.

The membership jump during the past year totaled 4.4%.

Other reports were delivered by Ford McDonald of Lexington, Michael Butler of Omaha and Rod Ruzanic of Ogallala.

Ruzanic said the Boy Scout movement combats juvenile delinquency as well as buildings the groundwork for a worthwhile life for the participating individuals.

Gov. Frank Morrison, a former Boy Scout, said he believes scouting has had "a profound influence" on Nebraska and the nation.

"If all of us would follow the Scout oath, we could solve all of the problems of the world,'" he declared.

The oath is: "On my honor I will do my best, to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law, to help other people at all times, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

Representing the five Nebraska Boy Scout councils at the program were Michael Berger, Nebraska City; Charles Genrich, Beatrice; Darrell Luebbe, Seward; Philip Hood and Larry Hoyer, Lincoln; Raymond Bosiljevac and Thomas Muller, Omaha; Greg Cawley, Hastings; Richard Melbye, Wilcox; John Kellogg, Grand Island, and Rex Pilger Jr., Brule.

Governor Race to Be Interesting

cians noted, cannot repudiate the Morrison administration, it will be his ideas, his programs and his positions on which Nebraskans will vote in November—if Sorensen wins the primary election.

Should Sorensen be the election victor, the summer and fall campaign between the parties already is anticipated as very hard fought.

Even at the lieutenant-governor level, hot primary and general election contests are in store.

There are 25 state senators now midway on four-year terms. All are eligible to run for other elective offices without surrendering their own seats.

At least a half-dozen already are being mixed into the yeasty political speculation.

Four-Year Terms

The old two-year terms for major state constitutional officers, including governor, lengthens to four years beginning in 1967.

While sweeping almost everything else, the Republicans have been blanked for governor since 1958.

Not until 1970 will there be another gubernatorial election in Nebraska.

Saturday, veteran campaigner Morrison noted great political advantage accrues to the party with a governor in power.

"This will be the best political show most of us will see in our time," the Democratic state chairman said.

Johnny Mitchell called it.

Loup Study

Columbus (AP)—City officials have been notified that funds have been approved for a detailed Army Engineers study of a dike to protect the city from the Loup River. Engineers said the study should be completed in 12 months.

Flood Role Is Claimed By Curtis

candidate today embraces," Sen. Curtis said:

"It was neither Lincoln nor Jefferson who pushed him into this fight or offered him an appointment at its conclusion."

"I want to set the record straight on several other issues," Curtis said.

"One of the major reasons that I sought public office was to help this state fight floods," he said.

In rejecting the idea that the Democrats have built all the highways, started all the industrial development programs, soil and water conservation and tourism, the Senator said his first assignment in Congress was membership on the House Flood Control Committee.

Curtis said he introduced the resolution that led to the Salt-Wahoo Watershed Program.

Concerning other political issues the Senator said:

—Right to Work. "I have opposed repeal of this 14B amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act. Would the spokesman for the Democrat Party vote to eliminate the Right-to-Work Law?"

—Salt Wahoo Watershed. "Do you want to abolish the watershed program? I voted for it."

—Civil Rights — Do you want a senator who is against the Civil Rights Law? I voted for it."

—Boxcar Shortage. "Do you want a senator who is not going to work to eliminate the boxcar shortage? I am working to eliminate it."

—Beef Imports. "Do you want a senator who is not going to work for the elimination of beef import quotas? I voted for it, and we succeeded."

—Social Security. "I am proud to have offered improvements which extended our Social Security Program to cover self-employed individuals, public employes, including municipal, county and state, charitable and educational institutions. "Do you want a senator who would vote against these improvements?"

Curtis also said that when they call roll in the Senate, you must vote "yes or no."

"You can't appoint a committee to make the decision," he said.

Senator Curtis concluded on the Abraham Lincoln theme with:

"It is a day and a year when we are going to decide whether we shall be free or slave"—free under the type of government sought by GOP founder Abraham Lincoln or slave to a government which "would crush the very human resources that Lincoln fought to preserve."

Handicapped Swim Classes

Red Cross swimming classes for the handicapped and convalescent are under way again at the Lincoln YMCA swimming pool.

Classes meet at 7:30 and 8:15 p.m. every Thursday. The Red Cross, YWCA, University of Nebraska physical education classes and Lancaster County Medical Society co-operate in making swimming instruction available to the handicapped.

Application blanks for the classes are available from the Red Cross office.

New look-legislative districts in Lancaster County . . . reapportionment law, recently upheld by three-judge panel, gives county one more district. Lancaster County now will send six representatives to the state senate.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

Big-hearted guy, that Willard J. Wells!

As the state's purchasing agent, Wells last week circularized departments informing them of available surplus property. Agencies have 30 days to act on the bargains.

A rundown of the surplus items contains these notations: "Does not work," "rusted out," "has been dropped," "broken" and "tripod broken."

Pay or Walk

A high Lincoln municipal official did not deny the city may be exercising a gentle squeeze play against state government workers.

Increasing restrictions on parking on streets around the Capitol are forcing workers to park their autos further and further away from the Statehouse.

Continued long hikes might generate interest in paying for parking stalls in a city-owned structure on 15th Street, it has been speculated.

Then, the official said, there always are parking meters.

A Big Scare

On The Agenda, Too—Governor Morrison's administrative assistant, Gene Budig, momentarily came close to panic last week. A newsman straightfacedly informed him the three federal judges were going to release their reapportionment decision at 4 p.m. Friday, the very hour of the governor's political announcement spectacular.

A most important but little known and even less appreciated state worker is Miss Helen Griess. She's responsible for the Nebraska Blue Book, that valuable Legislative Council compendium.

Fremont's Hamilton Mitten says the tongue-in-cheek reason he decided to seek another term on the State Board of Education is to prevent the election of another attorney. Three of the six Board members are lawyers and matters occasionally get fairly judicial.

Railway Commissioners still are feuding. Commissioner Richard Larson voted nay on the motion authorizing Joseph Brown and Fred Peterson to attend a conference in Washington.

Blue is the color of the new computer the Administrative Services Dept. is getting . . . State Treasurer Fred Sorensen's staff invariably is accomodating and helpful, newsmen have learned . . . Normal Board workers Thursday moved back into a room they vacated last June 1. The three weeks supposedly necessary to install air conditioning ran into eight-plus months.

Hugely annoyed by a Saturday Evening Post article on state legislatures which mentioned him clowning about, Omaha Sen. Richard Proud has written a stinging letter to the magazine.

Republicans are confident their March 26 Founders Day in Lincoln will pull a crowd of 1,000 or more partisans . . . Greeley County's comprehensive school reorganization blueprint was succinct, at least, even if it didn't please state people. The entire plan: "Reorganization in Greeley County will continue as in the past and districts will merge as the need arises."

Aeronautics Dept. Told to Ignore LR76

The Federal Aviation Agency has ordered the state Aeronautics Dept. to ignore a 1965 legislative directive or possibly lose control of Nebraska's five federal-owned airfields.

State Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt made public Saturday a letter from FAA district Chief Lloyd A. Smith of Lincoln in which Smith said the legislative directive conflicts with the state's obligations under the state-federal agreement for operation of the airfields.

State senators passed LR76, ordering the Aeronautics Dept. not to make any capital improvements on acreage used for farming at the state airfields at McCook, Fairmont, Bruning, Harvard and Scribner.

Stipulation Made

The resolution said the department can operate farm lands only as a landlord under written leases.

"It is determined that conformance . . . (with the resolution) would be contrary to the state's obligations assumed under the instruments of conveyance of, grant agreements for, and federal regulations relative to these airports," Smith said.

"The Federal Aviation Agency expects, and in fact insists upon, compliance with the terms of the deeds notwithstanding Legislative Resolution 76."

The letter was contained in a report compiled by Sandstedt at the request of the Legislature's Budget Committee.

The committee requested a full report on state airport farm operations after Fairmont Sen. Eric Rasmussen charged the department violated LR76 when it launched a $22,000 Fairmont airfield project which included the leveling of 275 acres and the sinking of two wells.

On the state-federal agreement for operation of the airfields, Rasmussen said "perhaps we ought to terminate the agreement in the future."

But he said he saw no likelihood of this action being taken "in the immediate future. The aeronautics department is completely happy with the present situation. They like it. They're making money out here."

If the agreement were ended, the airfields should be declared surplus and returned to the federal government's General Services Administration for disposal, he said.

He noted there was always the possibility of the federal government "taking the bases back over, and there would be no chance of Nebraska getting its money back in the near future."

Smith said in his letter the state has the obligation to maintain the airports in usable condition and also insure high revenue producing potential for airfield land not used for aeronautical purposes.

FAA Objection

Smith said the FAA would object to any legislative action which would restrict "the use of funds derived from any source on the airport for the improvement, maintenance or development of the airport" or to meet other requirements of the state-federal agreement.

"I feel the report vindicates our position that improving the airfield farm land was needed to show the FAA we are using the land to the best revenue producing benefit," Sandstedt said.

In a cover letter to the Budget Committee, Sandstedt noted:

"The airports in themselves have been good for the state, and have provided income for the development of aviation without the use of general tax funds. The tenants that are leasing the farms at this time are the best that we have been associated with since my tenure as director."

He said the farming operations covering a total of 6,700 acres have netted the department about $3.5 million over the past 10 years.

Sarpy County Reappraisal

Actual Value Real Estate Total Near $193 Million

The chief Nebraska representative of the commercial appraisal firm recently completing real estate reappraisal work in Sarpy County says an acutal value increase of "around $30 million" has been recommended for Sarpy land and improvements.

Max Arnold of Denver, Justin Haynes Co. vice president, reported dollar recaps are only now being compiled. This follows public hearings where individual complaints were heard and checked out.

Sarpy County officials last summer reported an actual value real estate total of $142,456,086. The State Board of Equalization boosted that to $167,356,961.

Now, Arnold said, the sum after the reappraisal should be in the neighborhood of $193 million.

Much of this increase was attributed to recent urban development and improvements.

In the two years Justin Haynes people were working in Sarpy County, Arnold said, "we picked up more than 3,000 new parcels." These represented property modifications occuring from the time the reappraisal started.

Farm Lands

Arnold said that farm land generally had been fairly well valued prior to the reappraisal and tax values on it did not change materially.

The average value of Sarpy County farm land was pegged around $350-$375 per acre, according to Arnold.

However the firm employed 16 different classifications of rural land, applying a graduated scale sliding downward from $430 per acre for No. 1 irrigated land to $5 per acre for wasteland.

Arnold said it was his understanding Sarpy County officials intend—if the reappraisal is approved by the state tax commissioner — to use the new values for the upcoming tax year.

That means reappraisal sums would be submitted to the State Board of Equalization in July for review and equalization with values of the 92 other counties.

Reappraisal Defended

Justin Haynes is one of the principal appraisal companies working in Nebraska.

Late last year it wound up a reappraisal for Adams County. And earlier in 1965, it successfully defended the controversial Nance County reappraisal results.

Arnold said Justin Haynes gave special treatment to Sarpy County farm land bordering spreading urban development.

Some of the land was valued from $600 to $900 per acre, depending upon its urbanization influence and some from $900 to $1,400 per acre.

The latter was farm land purchased for later urban subdevelopment.

Arnold praised Sarpy County residents for understanding internal equalization objectives of the reappraisal.

As college secretary for the AFSC in Des Moines, he will be responsible for programs and projects on campuses in the seven-state area of Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, the Dakotas, Iowa and Minnesota.

State Gas Tax at Top Of List

Nebraska, Washington and Arkansas now share a "dubious distinction"—the highest gasoline taxes in the continental U.S.

Charles E. Chace, executive director of the Nebraska Petroleum Council, made that comment in reference to a report that eight other states besides Nebraska hiked their gas taxes last year.

Chace noted the California and Colorado increases were only temporary for repair of roads damaged by flooding and that the increases have already expired.

In addition, he said, the increases in Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware and Iowa brought the total federal and state taxes in those states to 11 cents, while the Massachusets increase brought that state's combined tax to 10½ cents per gallon.

Only in Nebraska and Arkansas, he said, was the total tax raised to 11½ cents.

Chace said that all of Nebraska's neighboring states have lower combined taxes—9 cents in Missouri, Kansas and Wyoming, 10 cents in Colorado, South Dakota and Minnesota, and 11 cents in Iowa.

Competition was based on team and individual playing, and trophies were awarded winners in the high school and college divisions.

Farm Promise

Lincoln Schools Rank Higher in Instruction Costs

Lincoln Public Schools spend a larger proportion of their income on what schools are in business for than the average of all schools in the United States.

Figures just released by the U.S. Office of Education show that nationally, only 54.8% of school expenditures go to pay the costs of instruction. Locally, the figure is 64.78% according to figures from John Ott, public schools accountant.

Figures used are for 1963-1964, the last year for which data have been collected and processed. Percentages in the table below do not add up to 100% because they are carried out to only two places.

Expense Category	National Average %	Lincoln %

Administration	3.3	1.21

Accident Causes Power Failure

A car-telephone pole mishap caused a brief power failure Friday night from 52nd to 44th and from Vine to 48th and Cornhusker Highway.

Police said three boys escaped injury when their car struck the pole at 52nd and Benton.

Lincoln Electrical System linemen restored most of the area service in less than half an hour.

Careful Study Needed to Prevent Flood Damage

By DEL SNODGRASS

Does a river or creek have a "right" to flood?

Yes, according to Col. Harold J. St. Clair of Omaha, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers.

Col. St. Clair, who authored the first of four flood plain information studies for Lincoln, said the compilation of flood plain data does not automatically eliminate flood damages.

"To achieve this goal," he said, "requires continuing effort by the community to insure recognition that encroachment into flood-plain areas constitutes an invasion of nature's right to the use of the floodway."

Such invasions, he declared, "are always perilous without a careful study of the extent to which flood control measures have modified nature's use of the natural floodway."

The colonel continued: "The philosopher Santayana once said that those who fail to remember history are doomed to repeat it.

"Similarly, those who choose to ignore flood histories may be doomed to relive them."

Influence Declining

Nebraska rural electric leaders were dismayed by President Johnson's budget calling for a slash in REA loans to be made available for meeting the rurals' growth capital needs.

But there is more to the cut than the necessity of making additional money available for the war in Vietnam. The unhappy truth which must be faced by Nebraska and other agricultural states is the declining farm influence in Congress as the nation becomes increasingly urbanized.

It means Nebraskans and the men they send to Washington have to fight harder for programs which benefit their interests.

Federal Safety

Recent Nebraska Legislatures have consistently rejected highway safety programs setting up such requirements as periodic re-examination of drivers and vehicle safety checks.

But those days may be coming to an end.

Within a short time and at congressional direction, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads is expected to recommend uniform legislation for accident records, driver performance and vehicle safety.

The legislation may call for withholding federal highway money from states which do not implement specific safety programs such as those previously rejected by Nebraska.

Bartunek: Cancel Elections, Save Money

By HAROLD SIMMONS

Why not cancel the upcoming election for county offices and save the taxpayers some money?

Lincolnite Leo Bartunek asked the Lancaster County Board that question last week. But as could be expected, he didn't receive any encouragement such a step would be taken.

Bartunek labeled the coming election "a fraud and a hoax and a useless waste of the taxpayers' money" because only two of the 11 offices open for election have more than one candidate.

"If one or two fellows want to have an election, let them pay the cost," he told the commissioners. "I would rather see the $15,000 or $20,000 that will be spent on the election go to the poor people."

One or two officials have conceded "off the record" that Bartunek might have a point. But, they quickly add, they are not about to support such an idea.

Sprague-Martell Split

Harvey Beck, meber of the Sprague-Martell School Board, said his district has no present plans either to dissolve the district or make many improvements despite the fact the school was one of 47 put on probation by the State Board of Education last week.

He said the board had expected being put on probation and decided the day before the action came that the school would operate at least one more year.

Courthouse Call

Residents of Dist. 147 are split three ways on the question of what to do, Beck said. Some want to join the Norris Dist., some want to join Crete and others want to keep the present district.

The board decided the annual school district meeting next June will be the time for making that decision, Beck said.

The general feeling of the six-man school board is that any attempt to decide the issue now would only trigger a hotly contested battle, Beck said, and they don't want that going on during the school year.

Campaign Color

If campaign buttons and other paraphernalia distributed so freely every two years help get a candidate elected, Sheriff Merle Karnopp has made a good start toward winning another four-year term.

"Keep Karnopp Sheriff" tabs are beginning to show up on several persons' lapels not only in the courthouse but also downtown.

And there's more than one car in the county bearing a "Re-elect Karnopp Sheriff" sticker on the bumper or window.

One enthusiastic Karnopp supporter (a deputy) has been sporting a "Keep Karnopp Sheriff" tab on both lapels of his jacket. Maybe he's looking to the future.

City Building Code Study Group Lauded

By LEO SCHERER

One city advisory group, the building code study committee, has done an excellent job.

This committee, headed by Supt. of Building Inspections Charles Seale, held many detailed sessions before recommending a new building code.

The City Council later adopted the recommended code and praised the committee for its service.

Wasting little time and using experts in the building field, the committee carefully reviewed what other cities were doing and methods to improve the city's outdated code without stifling local building.

Around City Hall

Scramble Walking

There has been talk in Lincoln about using a pedestrian scramble system at downtown intersections.

However, city officials generally have not been excited about the idea which is being used successfully in other cities.

The scramble system allows pedestrians to cross an intersection diagonally when all traffic is stopped for a certain time period.

One of the biggest local objections by traffic officials has been the width of O St. Some downotwn businessmen have openly spoke in favor of the system which has never been given a practical try in Lincoln.

Towers Will Fall

Richard Hall, water distribution system superintendent, says two water landmarks are coming down. These are the old water towers in Belmont and Bethany; the College View tower was toppled last week.

Hall says the towers are outdated, not needed and could be hazardous.

Cost of having the towers removed is $4,500 and Hall says the work will probably be within the next week.

Cemetery Problem

Dean Block, the mayor's administrative assistant, says citizens should be reminded that Wyuka Cemetery isn't part of city government.

Block said the mayor's office has been receiving calls regarding a post office on cemetery grounds.

The calls, Block said, are being referred to William Grossman, county commissioner and member of the Wyuka Cemetery Board.

However, when the city annexed Havelock they did take over the control of Fairview Cemetery, 84th and Adams, now directed by the City Park Dept.

Physicians Meet Here in March

New treatment concepts for heart disease and cancer will be among internal medicine topics discussed at a March 5 regional meeting in Lincoln sponsored by the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Henry Lehnhoff, professor of internal medicine at University of Nebraska College of Medicine and Nebraska governor for the American College, said the Cornhusker Hotel seminar is one of 29 sponsored annually in the U.S. and Canada.

Hoefer Blankenship

Two Join VA Hospital Staff

J. F. Hoefer Jr., assistant director, and Thomas Blankenship, personnel division chief, are additions to the Lincoln Veterans Hospital staff.

Hoefer comes from the VA Center at Wood, Wis., where he was an assistant hospital director trainee.

Blankenship transferred here from the VA Center at Los Angeles where he was training director.

Flood Pulls Eyes to Platte Dam, But Study Still Not Definitive

By JOHN ODGAARD

The recent washout of a section of an Interstate 80 Bridge approach and highway flooding around Ashland has re-focused attention on the possibilities of construction of a dam on the Platte River near there.

However, such action depends on a project study which is being conducted by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Col. Bert de Melker, division commander of the Missouri Division of the Army Corps of Engineers said that the study which was begun about two years ago has not produced any final decisions.

De Melker said that while the flooding near Ashland drew considerable attention to the issue, it did not mean anything definite would be decided by way of proposals for a dam.

In referring to the study project which was authorized by Congress, he said that numerous aspects were intended for consideration.

Among those he mentioned in addition to flood control, were water conservation, water pollution, irrigation and even navigation in connection with the Missouri River.

"Benefits must balance out the costs to make any project worthwhile," de Melker said. Where the needs of a community or service to it would be a major concern, construction of a dam would be economically feasible.

He said that a preliminary report would probably be made to Congress sometime this summer.

Union Phase Two In Planning

mitory is phase two of the $4 to $5 million master plan. The Plumb addition to Jorgenson Hall (science building) was the first phase. A library annex and a new administration building are also scheduled for construction.

Planned but not yet scheduled are a student union building, a completely new library, and a new residence hall for women identical to the men's.

Plans now call for the present administration building to be torn down. However, the Clock Tower, a landmark in southeast Lincoln, will be reconstructed taller than at present.

Rulo (UPI)—Revenues went up slightly for the Rulo toll bridge in 1965, and the bonded indebtedness dropped to $165,000, it was reported. The total income, including the balance carried over from the previous year, amounted to $72,264.18 in 1965. This was an increase of $1,312.78 from 1964.

Union College Budget Is Nearly $3 Million

Union College will operate on a record budget of nearly $3 million in the 1966-67 school year.

The budget, just approved by the college trustees, is almost twice the $1,680,000 budgeted 10 years ago.

Almost $1.5 million will go for teacher salaries, non-student labor, employe benefits and student employment, an increase of more than $150,000 over the current year.

Faculty salaries alone total $500,000. An average teacher's salary is between $6,500 and $7,000. Ten years ago the total payroll was $651,000, compared with $1,285,000 for the current year and about $1.5 million next year.

Student labor, provided to help some students finance their college education, will amount to nearly $500,000 the coming year.

Union College also plans to spend about $1 million for a high-rise men's dormitory, library addition and other construction during the year.

Job Corps Conference 'Cordial'

Decision Is Due Monday

Sunday Journal & Star Special

Washington—Dr. Ray Keating, program evaluation man for the Job Corps, "listened closely to our new proposal at a cordial meeting this morning," said J. O. Grantham of Northern Natural Gas.

Lincoln men Saturday handed the Job Corps the modifications to the proposal they had spent all day Friday preparing.

They had to show the Job Corps they could train 1,400 corpsmen with a staff of 467 instead of the 700 man staff they had hoped to use.

"There was nothing negative about this morning's meeting, like there was last Thursday," said Grantham.

He said the Job Corps had promised to study the proposed revision before giving its reaction Monday.

If the Job Corps gives approval to the revised plan, the next step will involve detailed contract negotiations with Northern Natural Gas Co., and agreements with the city of Lincoln on a lease of LAFB land.

Drs. Robert Filbeck and William Torrence of NU, and Welcome Bryant of the Omaha Public School system, who have been engaged in talks with Job Corps officials, were to return to Lincoln Saturday night. Grantham and J. Alan Hansen of Northern Natural will remain in Washington to continue negotiations

Public Hearing Tuesday On Lancaster Roads

The Lancaster County board will hold a public hearing on the county's proposed 1966 road program at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the commissioners' office.

The record program, which calls for expenditures totaling $1,662,500, or $9,365 more than in 1965, must be approved by Mar. 1.

County Engineer Hugh Dillon plans to spend $503,700 for new construction during the year, $510,700 for maintenance, $503,000 for labor and supervision and $145,100 for new equipment and property.

The largest single expenditure—$324,000—will be for 9.55 miles of new paving. Cost of the paving is estimated at $450,000, but federal aid would pay $136,000 of the cost of four projects if all are approved.

The county has already received approval for $88,000 in federal aid for one of the projects, paving three miles of 84th St. from O St. to Havelock Ave.

Dillon's 1965 road program called for 11.6 miles of new paving at a cost to the county of $360,000. Total cost was estimated at $463,000, with federal aid providing $103,000 for two projects.

Dillon also plans to construct 22 new bridges in the county this year at an estimated cost of $113,700. The include four slab-style bridges and 18 box-style.

Last year nine bridges were built in the county at a cost of $152,500.

Also included in the 1966 road program are plans for 52 miles of grading projects on county roads and spending $119,100 for new equipment, such as graders, trucks, cars and mowers.

Eight School Districts Seeking Title III Funds

Eight school districts have submitted competitive second-round supplementary education projects under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965

Edward Cavert, Title III supervisor for the State Education Dept., said the projects seek a total of $521,183 in federal funds, although there is but $257,376 available.

The Nebraska Title III advisory committee will review the projects early in March, Cavert said, with documents due in Washington March 11.

The decision of which projects will be funded is one ultimately made by the U.S. Commissioner of Education.

On the first-round of Title III applications, three Nebraska projects accounting for $432,239 won federal approval.

They were for educational television improvement involving 45 school systems, an Omaha reading clinic and a intermediate school district planning grant in northwest Nebraska.

Second-round projects include:

Omaha, an instructional materials center, $218,951.

Ogallala, a western Nebraska resident mentally handicapped training school, $177,000.

Lincoln, aerospace curriculum development, $53,656.

Dodge County, mobile units to provide supplementary education, $25,630

Omaha Westside, identification of students with emotional problems, $20,122.

Bellevue, curriculum improvement planning, $11,000.

Seward, a county-wide educational and cultural survey, $9,850.

Sumner, supplementary education center serving rural students in a three-county area, $4,975.

Loup City already has filed an application for Fiscal '67 Title III first round money, Cavert reported

Loup City will seek $133,852 for regional teaching materials display and demonstration center.

Of the eight projects put in for second round money, three were turned down earlier — those from Omaha, Lincoln and Ogallala.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS are a GROWTH BUSINESS

The NEWS in NEWSpapers keeps growing every year

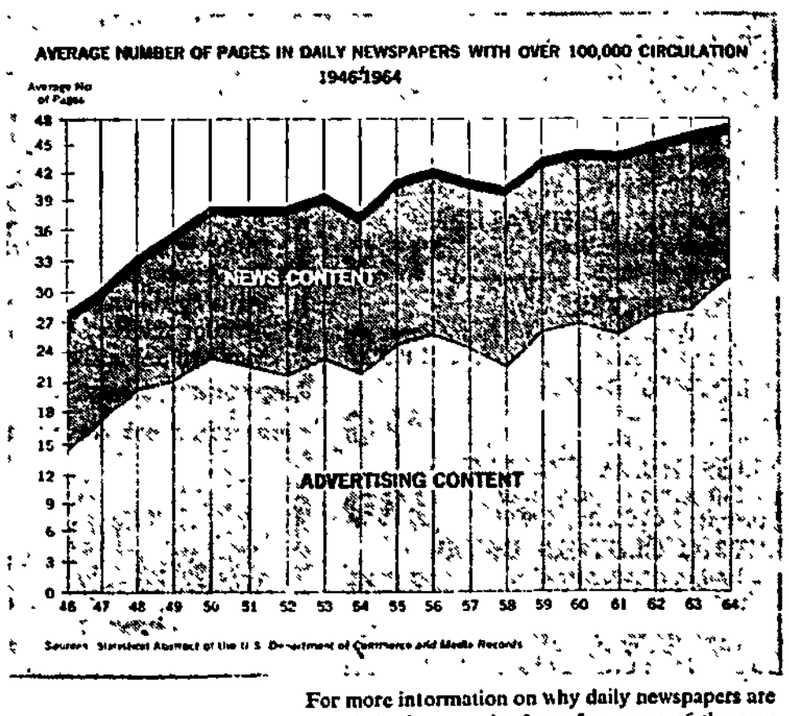
The volume of news, features and comment provided by the average daily newspaper has increased by 46% in the last 18 years

The total accumulation of scientific knowledge is doubling every 10 years. The number of new book titles published annually has doubled in the last six years. The task of keeping pace with the "information explosion" becomes more difficult for the individual every year.

But daily newspapers are helping the American people keep up with the increasing volume of knowledge. Since World War Two they have increased their news content 46%* and their staffs 33%, including specialists in science, medicine, foreign affairs, education and other vital areas. No other news medium can match the newspaper's capacity to bring the public so much information so well.

Newspapers are growing in other ways too. Daily circulation reached a record 60,400,000 copies a day in 1964 and advertising has more than tripled since the end of World War Two.

Newspapers are growing for one reason: Only the newspaper covers the news fully and in depth. There is no substitute for the daily newspaper.



*Newspapers with circulation of 100,000 and over; although comparable data are not available for smaller circulation newspapers, their newsprint consumption indicates that their proportionate gain in number of pages was even greater.

For more information on why daily newspapers are a growth business, write for a free copy of the new booklet, "The Growth of the American Daily Newspaper," an economic analysis published by the University of Wisconsin.

Assessor Mails Personal Taxes Refund Claims

The Lancaster County Assessors office mailed 200 claims to county taxpayers for refunds of illegal penalties collected for late fillings and omissions of 1962 personal property taxes.

The claims mailed were the first of several hundred refunds for the years 1962-64. The law under which they were collected was declared unconstitutional last year by the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Those having claims are instructed to sign the paper and return it to the assessor's office with a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

Signed claims will be turned over to the County Board for approval and then forwarded to the county treasurer who will mail the refund checks.

$234.5 Million Colorado Budget Received

Denver, Colo. (AP)—The Colorado Legislature has begun a drive for adjournment after receiving a proposed budget of $234.5 million from the joint budget committee.

That figure is $22 million more than the current budget but can be financed with existing taxes. It is close to the total recommended by Gov. John A. Love.

The Budget Committee proposes $703,000 more for colleges and universities than Love and $605,000 more for the education of handicapped children. The public school recommendation of $69.5 million would maintain state support at the present level—$5,400 per student.

Three major bills asked by Love are still in doubt. But most of the things he has asked have been approved or are ready for final legislative action.

The House and Senate have passed conflicting air pollution control bills and differences will have to be settled by a conference committee.

A bill intended to finance acquisition of land for new state parks is in trouble in the Senate after House passage. It would permit the state to take over forgotten bank accounts and other funds unclaimed after 20 years.

A bill creating a district in the Denver area to finance a new sports stadium was passed by the Senate but is expected to run into opposition when it hits the House floor.

The legislature last week completed action on a bill imposing an 18-month ban on construction of new billboards along major highways, and Love signed a companion junkyard control bill.

Roberts, Eaton . . . Parsons College president to "start no more colleges in Nebraska."

Developer of Colleges 'Through in Nebraska'

"I'm not going to start any more colleges in the state of Nebraska," said Dr. Millard G. Roberts Saturday. "I've started two of them, and that's enough. It's hard work."

Dr. Roberts, speaking at a National Bank of Commerce-sponsored correspondent banks forum in Lincoln, referred to Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff and John J. Pershing College in Beatrice.

He is president of Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa, which he said is operated on the premise that anyone who wants to go to college should have the opportunity.

According to Gene C. Eaton, senior vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, who introduced the speaker, Parsons College has grown under Dr. Roberts' administration from a little more than 200 students to a present enrollment of about 4,500.

The college, he added, operates every year in the black.

Speaking on the general subject of "Automation," Dr. Roberts pointed out that bankers face the necessity of changing their methods because of occupational shifts in our population from manufacturing and farming to service areas.

Within the next 20 years, he said, 70% of the things bankers and their employes now work at won't exist.

Emphasizing that there are no small banks because all banks are interrelated, he said that the weakness in banking is its tendency to see its business as paper instead of as people.

Quoting the statement that Nebraska is "both a state and a state of mind," Dr. Roberts said the state is bounded on all sides by boundaries that don't really exist.

State Hospital 'Views' Asked

A former Lincoln State Hospital professional employe, Mrs. Jean Gatch, has called on all interested citizens to provide information on the institution's conditions to responsible state officials.

"Surely," said the former activities director for Lincoln State's children's and adolescents' services, "no competent institution employe on any level need fear retribution for an honest and rational expression of his views."

Mrs. Gatch resigned last month because "of drastic changes I felt were taking place in the direction of a program holding out great hope to patients."

She is now a speech department instructor at the University of Nebraska.

DO YOU KNOW WHO Last Owned Your Used Car?

. . . nearly all of our Used Cars came originally from our new car show rooms . . . making it possible for the buyer to visit with the prior owner and get a complete history of the car he is buying.

Many of the Used Cars sold in Lincoln are bought by local dealers attending automobile auctions . . . this of course would make it impossible for them to give you the history of the car.

We do not buy cars at automobile auctions.

Husker Pressure Shackles Iowa State, 81-70

By CURT MOSHER

Streaky Nebraska, at times playing very, very good and fortunately never really horrid, pressured Iowa State into 25 mistakes and shackled Don (Kangeroo) Smith effectively Saturday night to post an 81-70 Big Eight basketball victory over the Cyclones.

The swift Cornhuskers, led by swift Grant Simmons, never trailed after they crawled on top at 19-17 with 11:21 to play in the first half and as a result now are rocking along atop the conference with a perfect 8-0 reading.

With six games remaining, the Huskers, who stand 16-3 on the season, are a game up on Kansas which whipped Oklahoma State Saturday night, 59-38.

While the Huskers never trailed there were times when it looked like they could should things go sour much longer.

There was the time right after the second half was started by a Stuart Lantz bucket to give the Huskers a 44-36 lead. Then, Iowa State ran in six straight points to pull within two and got help from the Husker coach Joe Cipriano.

Right after Smith sank a free throw, Bob Ziegler stole the ball. He put up a shot and the official called goal tending on Lantz.

It appeared instead he called on Cipriano to demonstrate hopscotch. Joe bounded to mid court in one giant step, failed to say may I and drew a technical which Dave Fleming converted.

Iowa State retained the ball and Smith got a tip in shortly and it was a game once again.

But not for long as the Huskers quickly outscored Iowa State, 13-6, with Nate Branch regaining his form to pump in three slick jumpers and a free throw.

Iowa State made another move at that point, edging to within three at 59-56, but that didn't last long either. And this time the Huskers did it with a couple of free shots by Branch and layups by Stuart Lantz, Tom Baack and Simmons.

And if there was a specific point where a final bell was sounded for Iowa State it came on Lantz' layup. It was one of those put-that-in-your - pipe - and - smoke - it-deals as he stuffed one in one-handed on the dead run.

NU stretched the lead to 68-56 with 5:44 to play and the closest Iowa State got after that was five points.

Nebraska started slowly and fell behind 5-0 and 7-2 to the Cyclones who now stand 5-5 in the league and 10-11 for the season.

And Iowa State built the margin to 12-5 before the Huskers made their move. And, as usual, they made it with the press playing the key role.

Four times in a short span Iowa State never got the ball past midcourt. Twice the Huskers took it and twice the official did due to time.

"It was the first since December we'd stopped them with the clock," Cipriano said later.

In the meantime Branch and Simmons were on a ranpage and NU went into a 25-17 lead, once pouring in 10 straight points.

Simmons led the Huskers with 22 points and some slick feeds, and Branch tallied 16 and Lantz 12. Baack made it to double figures at 10 and Willie Campbell barely missed at eight.

Fred Hare also saw his first duty in four games and scored six points.

Smith led the Cyclones with 19 points and topped both clubs with 11 rebounds, but he still was below par, thanks in part to some movies.

"We knew where he was going, and we tried to beat him to the spot," Cipriano said. "And besides he didn't have one of his better nights."

This was a fact ISU coach Glen Anderson agreed with. "Don couldn't get down the short shots like he usually does," Glen said.

Smith had help from John McGonigle who scored 17 points and Bob Ziegler who pumped in 16.

But the Huskers had the better of it in percentage, shooting at a 45 per cent clip to 39 for Iowa State.

Nebraska plays at Missouri next Saturday night, then returns home to take on Colorado the following Monday.

Fremont Shocks Rockets

Fremont—Sixth-ranked Fremont applied a man-to-man full-court press in the second half with devastating results as the Tigers upset No. 1-ranked Lincoln Northeast, 62-55, Saturday night.

Fremont took a 17-15 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Northeast roared back in the second period, outscoring Fremont, 18-12, and led at halftime, 33-29.

Fremont, however, applied the press as the second half opened, causing the Rockets to make many mistakes and limiting them to only 11 points in each of the last two quarters.

Fremont, on the other hand, rallied behind the 32-point effort of 5-11 guard Jeff Draemel, taking the lead, 47-44, at the end of the third quarter.

The Rockets were led by John Brown with 20, but Jack Ketterer, Northeast's leading scorer, had an off night, hitting only four points before fouling out in the fourth quarter.

Jon Boettner was the only other Tiger in double figures with 13 points as Draemel carried the scoring load for Fremont.

Twelve of Draemel's points came on free throws, illuminating how badly the Rocket's 22 fouls hurt them.

Wally Winter and Cliff Livingston were the only other Rockets in double figures, scoring 10 and 11, respectively.

Northeast now has a record of 10-2, while surprising Fremont boasts a record of 13-1.

Nebraska's Ron Lee nears tape in winning the 600-yard run against Wyoming Saturday.

Charlie's Late, Sits it out

Greene-less NU Thinclads Race Past Wyoming

By TOM HENDERSON

Nebraska closed out its home indoor dual track season Saturday afternoon with a non-conference victory over Wyoming, 76-43, without the services of world record-holder Charlie Greene.

Greene, who won the 60 yard dash in the United States Track and Field Federation meet Friday night in New York, arrived at the Memorial Stadium indoor track only moments before his specialty was to be run, but teammate Lynn Headley took over for the tardy sprint ace to win the event in :06.3.

Greene, along with coach Frank Sevigne, 600-man Dave Crook, and 1,000-yard run artist Peter Scott ran into fog in Chicago on the return trip, forcing a late arrival into Lincoln.

Crook and Scott each had plenty of time to warm up for their events. Crook outdistancing teammate Dennis Walker in the 440 and Scott besting Husker Norval Jones in the 880.

Jim Beltzer, improving Husker shot putter, set his third Nebraska varsity record in the event in as many weeks, heaving the shot 57-4½ to best his mark set in last Saturday's triangular with Oklahoma and Kansas State.

Ray Harvey tied a Memorial Stadium record in the 60-yard low hurdles, literally nipping Wyoming's Jerry Saffel by a nose. Harvey tripped over the last hurdle and flew into the tape head first for a 06.8 clocking, tying the stadium mark held by three others.

Nebraska fell behind by a point in the field events, 18-17, but scored 59 points on the track against only 25 for Wyoming for the comfortable victory.

Beltzer and sophomore Steve Krebs picked up Husker victories in the field events, Krebs leaping 6-6 to win the high jump. But Wyoming got firsts in the pole vault and the broad jump, adding two seconds in the four events, and taking the one-point edge on a pair of third place finishes to one for the Huskers. Only two places were awarded in the pole vault as was the case in several other events.

Nebraska travels to Boulder, Colo. for a dual meet with Big Eight Conference foe Colorado next Saturday before going to the Big Eight Indoor Championships in Kansas City, Feb. 25-26.

Omaha — Determined Omaha Westside made another strong challenge of Lincoln Southeast's state swimming domination Saturday, but for the second straight year failed to unseat the Knights as Nebraska high school swimming champions.

While the Warriors failed to end the Southeast domination of eight years they did earn a share of the championship, finishing in a 78½-78½ deadlock with the Knights.

The heated team battle highlighted a meet which saw seven new records established.

Last year Southeast had to surge from behind in the final event to edge Westside by a single point for their seventh straight title.

The pressure was on in the final event again this year, the Knights needing a victory in the 400-yard freestyle relay to earn a tie.

Coach John Reta's quartet of Tom Tidball, Jerry Coy, Steve Nootz and Rick Gilbert responded with a record-breaking 3:29.2 performance, over two seconds faster than the record they posted in Friday's preliminaries.

Westside had opened the meet with a record-breaking performance in the 200-yard medley relay and got the meet's seventh new record moments later when Steve George churned to a 1:53.2 clocking in the 200-yard freestyle.

George, who also won the 400-yard freestyle, broke the mark of 1:54.7 set by Steve Coy of Southeast in 1964.

In addition to its freestyle relay victory Southeast posted three individual wins.

Setting the pace were junior Dave Schmidt, holder of two new state records, and sophomore Stan Ewing, author of one new mark.

Schmidt put on an amazing display of versatility as he captured the 200-yard individual medley in 2:06.6, chopping over two seconds off the 2:09.2 mark he posted in Friday's prelims.

Schmidt also captured the backstroke title in :58.0 after having set a new mark of :57.1 Friday.

Ewing posted a 1:04.6 in winning the breaststroke, four-tenths of a second off his record-breaking pace in the prelims.

He also pushed Schmidt to the new mark in the individual medley with a second-place effort of 2:08.1, three full seconds under the record on the books when the meet opened Friday. It was strictly a two-man race as Westside's Todd Smith could do no better than 2:14.1 for third place.

Lincoln High finished comfortably ahead of Creighton Prep in the battle for third place.

Second Straight Night

NWU Cagers Whip Colorado College

Colorado Springs, Colo. — Nebraska Wesleyan applied a zone press in the second half with excellent results as the Plainsmen defeated Colorado College, 101-90, for NWU's second win over the Colorado club in as many nights.

Both teams moved the ball well, but the press allowed Wesleyan to erase a 45-52 halftime deficit and win the game.

After missing last night's game because of illness, Plainsman scoring leader Dwight Tietjen returned to the lineup and made 15 points. But Dick Beckler led Wesleyan in scoring for the second consecutive night, hitting 21 points.

Beckler, however, had to take second position in game scoring honors to Stuart Johnston of Colorado College as Johnston sank 22 points.

Wesleyan outrebounded the Colorado Club, 44-24, and used the advantage in utilizing the fast break. The Plainsmen got of eight more shots than their opponent.

Roger Nannen and Bill Nasi led Wesleyan in rebounding with eight apiece, but Tietjen and Beckler were right on their heels with seven each.

The Plainsmen now have a record of 11-7.

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher
Sunday Sports Columnist

In San Francisco several weeks of big headlines had just been spent on the fact that Willie Mays was about to hold an autograph party for Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants.

Mays' signature drew more hoopla than the Declaration of Independence, this in spite of the fact it was previewed daily in black type. It was worth bulletins on the radio and television in the Bay area. It forced the media to look for new angles for the routine story.

One enterprising lad called up Lefty O'Doul who announced, when apprised of the fact Willie had received $250,000 for two seasons:

"I was born 30 years too soon. I hit .398 one year and got a salary cut."

Phenomenon of the Times

In view of Willie's remarks at the news conference it is obvious the great centerfielder has few views on anything, even himself.

For instance, he figured: "I think last year was one of my best." "I never like goals. I don't like to think about them although they might be within reach." And so on.

But even so Mays is asked about everything and this is one of the most unusual things of our times. Any well known figure is asked to pass judgement on anything, from politics to war to weather.

The idea, presumably, is that anything which carries the name Mays in it will be read since the Wondrous One is to San Francisco what the Eiffel Tower is to Paris.

Since Mays is only one of the sports figures in this situation all kinds of conversations might take place. For instance:

Yeah, Escalate

Reporter: "Slugger, how do you feel about escalation. Do you figure we ought to?

Slugger: "Sure, baby. Only I don't think you ought to unless there's two out and a runner at third."

Reporter: "Well, listen Slugger, how do you feel about the naming of Gen. Eckert?"

Slugger: "Whatever LBJ says is good by me."

Reporter: "Do you have any views on Viet Nam?"

Slugger: "Nope, you never know whether San Francisco rookies will hit the curveball or not. They ain't seen major league pitchin'."

Reporter: "Slugger, some feel the nuclear blasts since 1945 have had an adverse affect on the weather. Do you?"

Slugger: "No way a knowin'. Candlestick Park wasn't built then."

Those Rabbit Ears

Reporter: "Do you think Ronald Reagan is too conservative to become a national figure in politics?"

Slugger: "The movies I see on the tube are all black and white. I can't tell what color his sports coats are."

Reporter: "What kind of an image does he present to you?"

Slugger: "Bad. All we've got is rabbit ears and the thing blurs when an airplane goes over."

Reporter: "What do you think of the poverty program?"

Slugger: "What channel's it on?"

Reporter: "Thanks a lot Slugger. Tell me one more thing. What are you going to do when your playing days are over?"

Slugger: "Don't know yet. I got two offers. I'll either write for my hometown newspaper or be a TV commentator."

61-53 Decision

University High Trips David City

David City — University High, ranked No. 3 in Class C, completed a weekend sweep of Class B foes by tripping David City, 61-53, Saturday night.

The Tutors were in command from the outset, taking a 15-8 lead in the first quarter and maintaining the advantage throughout.

Coach Dale Snook got a well balanced effort from his club as Alex Fischer and Tim Bateman shared the scoring load with 15 points apiece while usual pacesetters Jerry Schultz and Dennis Beckmann were contributing 13 apiece.

Ricky Bock had 13 points and Jerry Adams and Gene Hookstra 12 apiece for the Scouts.

The victory, coming on the heels of Friday night's upset to Minden, pushed the University High season mark to 12-4.

The Tutors wind up regular season play next week as they tackle tough Ralston and Pius X outfits.

Kentucky Whips Auburn Cagers

Auburn, Ala. (AP) — The high-flying Kentucky Wildcats kept their unbeaten string alive Saturday with a 77-64 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Auburn.

Kentucky, the nation's top-ranked team, had five men score in double figures while their defensive play held Auburn's Lee Defore, the SEC's leading scorer, to 18 points.

Defore, who has been averaging 24.3 a game tied Kentucky's high man, Louie Dampier, but Tiger teammate Bob Buisson took top honors with 20 points.

Dampier was followed by Pat Riley and Thad Jaracz with 15 each; Larry Conley 14, and Tommy Kron 11.

The undefeated Wildcats are now 10-0 in the SEC and have a 19-game winning streak. Auburn is 13-7 over-all and 6-5 in the conference.

Kentucky hit 17 of 28 field goals in the first half and jumped to a 46-34 lead at intermission.

Auburn cut the margin to 72-62 with 2:13 left, but Kron hit a pair of free throws and Dampier tallied three markers to give the Wildcats a comfortable margin with less than one minute left.

It was the free throw line that proved the difference. Kentucky hit 23 of 28 while Auburn fired 12 of 19.

Last Not Least

Detroit (UPI) — Hal Newhouser, posting the lowest earned run average among American League pitchers in 1945-46, is the last hurler in the junior circuit to lead the league for two straight seasons in that department.

Saldivar Wins

Pius X Crushes Fairbury

Fairbury —Resurgent Lincoln Pius X used a strong mid-game wallop to topple Fairbury, 77-48, Saturday night.

The Thunderbolts nursed a narrow 27-24 lead with 2:30 to play in the first half, then held the hosts without a field goal for nearly 10 minutes as they rolled to a 56-31 lead after three quarters.

It was a case of too much rebounding power as Pius X posted its third straight win and hiked its season mark to 5-8.

Mike Bohaty and Jim Regelean were the board standouts for the winners.

Bohaty also led the Thunderbolts in the scoring column, hitting 22 points. Regelean and Jim McLaughlin each had 10.

Neil Waring was the only Fairbury player to hit double figures, tallying 19 for the evening.

Pius X went ahead to stay with 2:35 left in the first quarter on a Dana Stephenson goal.

The Thunderbolts return to Capital City competition next week, tangling with both Southeast and University High.

Rockets Finish Strong Second

Bellevue Wins Mat Title

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Bellevue lived up to its favored role with a strong team performance as it won seven individual championships in coasting to the Class A district wrestling championship at Southeast Saturday night.

The Chieftains, perennial contenders for the state title, earned 10 qualifying spots for next week's state championship meet at the University of Nebraska.

Lincoln Northeast continued its strong showing Saturday as it easily captured runner-up honors. John McIntyre's squad had only one individual winner, 103-pound Tom Thurber, but advanced eight others to the state meet via second and third place finishes.

Lincoln High and Southeast had their third close race, but this time it was for third place. The Links prevailed again, 68-65.

Each team had a pair of champions. Sophomore Bobby Orta won the 95-pound class and Larry Lyons captured the 165-pound title for the Links.

Southeast got wins from Bob Pewthers, who upset Northeast's Trans - Nebraska champion Ken Swanson, 6-4, in the 154-pound match and Dick Splichal, who took the 180-pound title.

Northeast's Bob Elliott, who had advanced to the 133-pound finals with pins over Southeast and Lincoln High foes, had to withdraw in the title match against Bellevue's Jim Nelson when he dislocated a thumb.

Bellevue made its biggest dent through the middle of the program, winning six straight titles from the 112-pound division through the 145-pound class.

The Chieftains added their seventh title when heavyweight George Salisbury decisioned Frank Laher of Northeast.

Ak Receives 221 Nominees For Stakes

Omaha (UPI) — Only five fewer Nebraska-bred 2-year-olds were nominated for the three stake races for that age group to be run at Ak-Sar-Ben this year, with a total of 221 compared to the all-time record of 226 in 1965.

All three stakes will be features of Ak-Sar-Ben's 42-day race meet, which opens May 6 and runs through July 4.

The futurity attracted 91 2-year-old homebreds. The Laddie Stakes for colts and geldings drew 63 entries and Lassie Stakes for two-year-old Nebraska-bred fillies, 67.

June 10 is the date of the running of the $7,500 added Lassie. The $7,500 added Laddie will be June 17 and the $10,000 added futurity on June 24.

Second payments of $25 are due April 1, and it will cost owners $50 additional to start.

Boycott Possible At Pimlico Track

Baltimore, Md. (AP) — The earliest meeting in Pimlico Race Course history, scheduled to open Monday, is threatened by a possible jockey boycott because of the condition of the track.

Several veteran riders, who are members of the National Jockeys Guild, inspected the track Saturday and called it a "death trap" and "unfit for race riding in its present condition."

A meeting of a five-man grievance committee was called to discuss the situation and a spokesman said the riders will inspect the strip again Sunday morning.

Pennel Cracks Own Vault Mark

Los Angeles (AP) — John Pennel cracked his own indoor pole vault record Saturday night with a leap of 16 feet, 10 inches and squat Bill Baillie of New Zealand, upset the favorites in the featured two-mile run in the Los Angeles Times Indoor Games.

Pennel, of the Southern California Striders, bettered his mark of 16-9½, which he set in this same arena Jan. 22. He made the height on his third and last try.

Baillie ran the two miles in 8:37.4 to defeat favored Ron Clarke, of Australia, who was clocked in 8:38.4. Kenya's colorful Kipchoge Keino was fifth in 8:40.7 behind third-place Bob Day of UCLA, who ran 8:40.0, and Viktor Kudinskiy of Russia, 8:40.1.

Sport Signals

By Hal Brown
Sunday Sports Columnist

Fred Casotti, the Colorado sports information director who dabbles in poetry and riddles, poses this question: "What happens when a gymnast's suspenders flop loose?"

Casotti's answer :"His points come down!"

"At least that's what happened last week at Arizona when Colorado's fine sophomore side horse man, Jack Ryan, maneuvered into and out of that problem," the Colorado poet relates.

"Ryan, wearing suspenders for the first time, forgot to fasten them properly in back and they worked down over his shoulders midway through the performance.

"That distracting development—it's tough enough executing the precise balance and rhythm of the side horse without worrying about your pants—finally broke his concentration and he missed his closing dismount."

Ryan competed against Nebraska's gymnasts Saturday afternoon at the NU Physical Education Building.

Successful Second Choice

For a fellow who is competing in a second choice, Oklahoma wrestler Greg Ruth isn't doing badly, having won the NCAA 167-pound division a year ago.

But Ruth is wrestling as a second choice because he was too small for football at Oklahoma.

"It still makes my blood boil just watching a big game at Oklahoma," Ruth confesses. "I played one year at linebacker in high school and loved the contact, the pursuit, the excitement and the crowds. But I wasn't big enough and my eyesight was bad."

At Oklahoma, they generate almost as much noise at a wrestling match as they do in Owen Field where the Sooners play football, but Ruth says the noise rarely bothers him.

However, he admits, it did once.

"The only time a crowd ever bothered me was at Teheran, Iran," the OU senior told Oklahoma sports information director Harold Keith recently. "There were 25,000 Iranians packed in an indoor colosseum.

"Wrestling is their national sport. I was in a round robin championship with a Turk and an Iranian. The Turk took me down twice but I finally wore him down, turned him over and pinned him.

"Then here came that wild crowd, throwing flowers and money.

"When I saw the sea of faces, I was frightened. They got me on their shoulders, tossing me roughly and half dropping me. They were very emotional. Men wearing mustaches kissed me over and over.

"I began looking for Hallow Wilson, our gigantic Negro heavyweight. He was the only security I saw. Finally they settled down."

Warning From Sooners

Before the rest of the Big Eight gets too exuberant over Oklahoma's track loss a week ago to Nebraska, Sooner coach J. D. Martin issues a word of caution.

Oklahoma was the pre-season favorite to take this year's Big Eight indoor title in Kansas City two weeks from now, but lost a little of that edge in the loss to the Huskers.

However, warns Martin, "Our sophomores are improving each week. Nobody is at their peak or anywhere near it."

He Wanted to Work, Karate School Blooms

By TOM HENDERSON

"I just wanted a place to work out," Larry Durst explains of his blossoming Lincoln School of Karate.

Larry became acquainted with the sport while in Okinawa and Japan, serving four years in those areas during his Air Force career.

While in Japan, Larry earned his black belt, highest degree awarded, and in January of last year, he and five others began working out at the Salvation Army Center, a facility which they outgrew within two months.

"We started working out, and others started coming in," Durst points out, noting that the membership of the club now exceeds 20.

Durst conducts classes for men every Monday and Wednesday night from 7 to 9, and on Saturday mornings from 10 to 12.

There are classes for the fairer sex too. At one time eight girls attended the Tuesday and Thursday course.

Karate is the art of self defense, Durst lectures. "Everybody knows how to hit, kick and block. But we learn how to do it right, and put your body into it. Every part of your body is used in the most efficient way to defend yourself."

Durst explains the difference between karate and judo, saying, "In judo, you grab your opponent and flip him to the ground, while in karate you kick and hit—anything goes. It's much the same as comparing wrestling to boxing."

Quickness is the big thing in karate. In boxing, brute strength is used to knock an opponent off balance, but a quick, snappy blow can go right through the foe without knocking him backwards.

How many people does the Lincoln School of Karate bury after each workout? None! "We pull our punches on contact," Durst points out. "This keeps anyone from getting hurt."

It takes about three years for the average student to obtain a black belt. A white belt can be obtained in approximately one month by learning the basic hits, steps, and kicks satisfactorily. Tests are given every four months which determine advancement.

"It's good exercise," points out Pat Fannin, who obtained his green belt only last week. "One thing," Fannin continues, "you don't need much equipment — just hands and feet."

Dickinson Takes Lead At Phoenix

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP) — Gardner Dickinson Jr., a 130-pounder who hits like a heavyweight, shot a steady two-under par 69 Saturday to take a second round lead in the $60,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The 38-year-old veteran from Lost Tree Village, Fla., had a 36-hole total of 135, seven-under-par on the 6,765-yard Phoenix County Club course, a 36-35-71 layout playing longer than usual due to recent rains.

Dickinson, who ranked 15th in official earnings with $47,485 last year, is hoping to rebound after a slow start. His 1966 earnings total just $540.

Mason Rudolph shot a second round 71 for a two-day total of 139 and undisputed possession of second place. Bob Rosburg, with a 71, was alone in third at 140.

Doug Sanders, hoping for his second straight tourney victory, stayed within striking distance with an even-par 71, making him one of five golfers at 141.

Ken Venturi, who withdrew from the tourney before Thursday's rain-cancelled opening round but entered again when skies cleared Friday, shot a 73 and made the cut at 148.

Arnold Palmer, three-time winner here, spent much of the day in trouble and carded a 74, giving him 145 for 36 holes.

Defending champion Rod Funseth, who closed with a rush to win last year's Phoenix Open, shot a 76 Saturday, and his 149 total failed by one stroke to qualify for the cut-off.

For Runnerup Finish

'Most Promising' Award Captured by Kuebler

By JACK ANDERSEN

Omaha — The Lincoln Boxing Club was denied a champion here Saturday night in the windup of the 33rd annual Midwest Golden Gloves tournament.

But 16-year-old alternate John Kuebler won one of the most coveted awards in the big boxing show. Although being stopped by two-time champion Paul Fisher in the middleweight title bout, Kuebler won the most promising fighter award and more important, slugged his way into the hearts of the 6,000 fans at Omaha's City Auditorium.

Kuebler brought the Omaha crowd screaming to its feet for the second consecutive night and he did it both while winning and losing. In his semifinal bout he once again appeared to be losing in the opening moments but then rallied to decision Pedro Vissonette of Rapid City, S.D.

In his final match Kuebler was outclassed by the veteran Fisher, but before being stopped early in the second round he still insisted on carrying the fight to Fisher, who also was a trophy winner, taking down the sportsmanship award.

Lincoln had only one other finalist. Tom Slocum got a first round technical knockout over Frank Phillips of Omaha but then suffered a similar fate in the second round against champion Delfino Romero of Omaha.

Tim Cox also was a second round TKO victim when he lost to the eventual champion in the 112-pound class, Tony Rodriguez of Omaha.

By far the best fight on the card was in the 135-pound class where defending champion Tony Drake of Norfolk rallied to gain a split decision over Jimmy Wright of Omaha.

Tough Tony was a runnerup in the National Golden Gloves tournament last year while Wright was an alternate on the 1964 United States Olympic team and came into the bout with an impressive 86-5 record.

Other trophy winners included Tom Cisneros of Scottsbluff, who won the most improved fighter honor and Drake, who was easily the outstanding fighter in the tournament.

Grand Island displaced Lincoln as the outstate team champion with seven points. Lincoln and Rapid City tied for second with five each.

K-State Thumps Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Third-place Kansas State broke away from Colorado midway in the first half and posted a 65-55 Big Eight basketball victory Saturday night.

Colorado pulled out to a 7-0 lead before the Wildcats asserted control and clamped a tight man-for-man defense on the Buffalos. Kansas State tied it up at 12:44 on a tip by Earl Seyfert that made it 14-all.

The Wildcats went ahead for good 18-17 at 11:24 on Larry Weigel's fielder, then built a 10-point lead before the half.

Colorado pulled within five points twice in the second half, the second time at 47-42 when Bob Bauers bagged a jump shot at 12:21. K-State then went on to its biggest lead at 55-43.

Seyfort with 20 points, 10 in each half, was the leading scorer for K-State and 6-foot-10 center Ray Smith had nine of his 11 points in the first half.

Kansas Remains On NU's Heels

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—The 7th-ranked Kansas Jayhawks, led by 6-foot-11 Walt Wesley's 20 points, outclassed Oklahoma State, 59-38, Saturday night and stayed a game behind Nebraska in the Big Eight basketball race.

The victory gave Kansas a 7-1 league record and 16-3 for all games, while OSU is 1-8 and 3-16.

Kansas used a half-court zone press to steal the ball and race away to a 16-1 lead in the first four and a half minutes. Jo Jo White, heralded Kansas rookie, made his collegiate debut and made several steals. He scored six points.

The Jayhawks led 10-0 before OSU got a shot off. It was 33-15 at halftime and the Cowboys were never closer than 15 the last half. Jim Feamster, sophomore pivot, led OSU with 16 before fouling out with nine minutes left.

Wesley blocked several shots and with Ron Fraanz helped Kansas control the rebounds, 52-36. Kansas hit 33 per cent from the field, OSU 30.

Kansas set an Allen fieldhouse record by holding the Cowboys to 38 points. The old record in the 10-year-old arena was 40.

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State roared from behind with a 48-point second half Saturday for a 68-54 Big Ten triumph over Purdue.

Sooners Wallop Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners rolled up an easy 103-89 Big Eight conference basketball victory Saturday night over a foul-ridden Missouri team that had only four men on the floor the last 20 seconds.

Missouri went down to its eighth consecutive Big Eight loss despite Ronnie Coleman's 36 points and Charles Rudd's 23, career highs for both.

Oklahoma's top men were Don Sidle with 22 and Willie Rogers with 20.

The Sooners held a slim 49-46 edge at halftime. But Missouri paid dearly on violations, and just two minutes into the second half Richard Milling fouled out.

Missouri has only a nine-man squad, and the whistle bore down heavily as Coleman, Rudd and two others followed Milling to the bench.

Both teams shot at creditable 50 per cent pace from the field, but the Sooners hit 37 of 75, Missouri 27 of 54.

Prep Parade

By Don Forsythe
Staff Sports Writer

Last week's report by the State Board of Education that 47 Nebraska high schools have been placed on probation could have quite an impact on the Class D athletic picture.

Each of the 47 schools, now subject to disapproval if they don't raise their standards within a year, is classified in Class D for athletic purposes by the Nebraska School Activities Assn.

The report of probationary status for these schools could prompt several mergers. The length of the list indicates that a recent trend in athletics could be accented.

Basketball Ranks Thinning

During the past five years there has been a steady decline in the number of schools participating in basketball, the universal sport in state prep ranks.

Five years ago 453 schools entered basketball teams in tournament play. The total this year is 436, showing a gradual year to year reduction.

A look at a few football figures also points out the changes being made in the state's high schools.

Five years ago 386 schools fielded football teams. Of this total 207 were 11-man teams, 154 were eight-man outfits and 25 were six-man teams.

Last year there were 257 competing in 11-man play, 136 in eight-man and just four in six-man competition.

Better Balance Developing

The trend is to fewer and larger schools, which should have the effect of creating better balance in athletic competition within each class.

Better competition is also anticipated. Five years ago the biggest schools in each class had male enrolments of 1,423 (A), 222 (B), 92 (C) and 46 (D). This year the figures read 1,772 (A), 279 (B), 116 (C) and 55 (D).

Diversity is also a by-product of the bigger schools. Sports such as cross country, wrestling, swimming, golf, tennis and gymnastics have grown tremendously in recent years.

There is reason to believe that the four-class format now used only in basketball and track might be extended to other sports.

At present cross country is divided into three classes while wrestling, golf and tennis are separated into two classes for state championship competition.

Knights Now 4-9

Sioux City Central Drops SE, 78-58

Sioux City, Ia — Southeast started out well, but Sioux City Central put together some good long range shooting in the final three periods to down the Knights, 78-58, here Saturday night.

Southeast worked to a 21-15 first quarter lead on the 10-point scoring of John Cunningham and appeared headed for victory.

But Central regrouped and began finding the range from outside to move to a 42-34 halftime lead. Southeast could muster only six points in the third period while Sioux City was getting 20 more to build its bulge to 22 points. There the contest ended.

Cunningham led the SE scorers with 12 points followed by Ron Nelson's nine and Jim Deitemeyer's eight, all in the first half.

The loss left the Knights with a 4-9 record going into Friday night's meeting with Pius X at Pershing Auditorium.

Comets Drop Out Of PFL

Des Moines, Iowa (AP)—The Professional Football League of America is looking for an entry to replace Lincoln which has dropped out

A Cedar Rapids group has shown interest in joining the league, which had six members in its first year of operation last fall.

The withdrawal of Lincoln, a fifth place finisher in 1965, was disclosed at a meeting of league officials here Saturday.

"The main purpose of our meeting was to discuss franchises, possibly expanding the league to eight teams," said commissioner Stuart Kroesch, of Joliet, Ill.

Represented at the gathering were the Des Moines Warriors, Grand Rapids, Mich., Joliet, the Iowa-Illinois Quad Cities, and Omaha. Kroesch said:

"A group from Cedar Rapids has shown a definite interest in joining, along with others from Fort Wayne, Ind., Toledo, Ohio, and the Canton-Pekin-Peoria area in Illinois. The other five from last year are all set to go again."

The league tentatively set Mar. 5 in Grand Rapids for a meeting to draw up the final schedule for 1966.

Frank Anderson, president of the Des Moines Warriors, said that club hopes to complete an agreement with Minnesota of the National Football League.

North Platte Meet Host

Wichita, Kan.—The National Baseball Congress today announced that the 32nd annual Nebraska State Championship Tournament will be staged in North Platte, starting July 16. The event will be sponsored by the Buffalo Bills Sports Club of North Platte.

This set-up was approved by Max Anderson of North Platte, NBC Nebraska State Commissioner.

The Nebraska champions will automatically qualify into the 32nd annual National Tournament at Wichita starting Aug. 12, Congress president Ray Dumont said.

The North Platte Gulf Oilers are the defending Nebraska champions.

District tournaments and leagues will be franchised in Nebraska to qualify the states leading teams into the state tournament, Dumont said. The program is for non-pro teams with players of unlimited age.

Eight in Ring At One Time On Rassle Card

Eight pro rasslers on a card wouldn't normally be cause for alarm. But it just might be this Wednesday on the Pershing Auditorium main event. The eight will all be in the ring at once in one of the popular "Rodeo Battle Royals."

They are Mad Dog Vachone, Billy Red Cloud, Haru Sasaki, Bobby Shane, Mad Russian, Jerry Owens, Tim Woods and The Mongolian Stomper.

The bouts in order include Owens v. Russian, Woods v. Stomper, Hasaki v. Shane and Vachone v. Red Cloud.

Limongello Wins Mobile Pin Meet

Mobile, Ala. (AP)—Mike Limongello of Babylon, N.Y., who doesn't make too many tournaments because of his duties in the Army Reserve, won his second Professional Bowlers Association tournament Saturday, the Mobile Open.

The 21-year-old pro defeated Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., 197 to 176 to walk off with the $5,000 first prize. Bob Kowoek of Dayton, Ohio, was third and Johnny Meyer of Lake Ronkonkoma, N.Y., finished fourth.

This was Limongello's second tournament of the year. He finished seventh at Hialeah, Fla., last week. Last year the 120-pounder won the PBA Oklahoma City title.

Limongello was a wire-to-wire winner. He took the lead on the first day of the 40-game tourney and was never headed. He was seeded into the championship match and rolled but one game on the final day to capture the big money.

Davis defeated Meyer, 201 to 199, in the first match of the nationally-televised match final. Kwolek then eliminated Meyer with a 199 to 190 victory. Davis moved into the championship match with a 204 to 192 win over Kwolek.

Limongello was beseiged with telephone calls from his reservist buddies back in New York. "I'll have to treat the boys next week," he said after answering the many congratulatory calls.

The PBA tour moves to Fresno, Calif., next week where the finals again will be on national television.

Rangers Roll

New York (AP)—Jean Ratelle and Bob Nevin scored two goals each as the New York Rangers showered 42 shots at two Boston goaltenders and stormed out of the National Hockey League cellar Saturday with a 9-2 rout of the Bruins.

Non-Hunt Deer Loss Doubled

Nebraska deer have to dodge more than bullets and arrows. A total of 1,310 deer mortalities was reported to the Game Commission in 1965 from reasons other than hunting.

This is more than twice as many deer as the 532 that were taken by archers during 1965. An increase of 102 fatalities over that recorded in 1964 was noted.

Highway accidents accounted for 1,112 or 84.9% of the 1965 non-hunting deer loss. Kills occurred in 91 of the state's 93 counties. Dawson County chalked up the most accidents with 73.

Illegal kill was responsible for 4% of the total, while farming operations, trains, fences, and other accidents made up about 11.1%. White-tailed deer kills outnumbered mule deer 809 to 480.

Deer are more active during the fall, and most mortalities were recorded during the October-November period.

Many factors contribute to increasing deer mortality rates, according to the Commission.

Deer herds are rapidly expanding in many areas, more miles of the interstate highway system have been completed with a resultant increase in high speed traffic, and an increasing amount of auto traffic on the highways.

From 1958 through 1965, 5,724 Nebraska deer have been killed from reasons other than hunting.

Operation Outdoors

by Pete Czura

It seems like every time we bust out of the corral and leave our fireside there is trouble when we return home.

Our return from an extended trip last week was no different.

We found Duece not at home but at the hospital. Seems like some virus decided to take over the little feller and nearly laid him flat.

He's getting beter, but it was touch and go for awhile. We fervently hope that no ill aftereffects will diminish our household's pride and joy from being the devil-may-care pup he was, or keep him from roaming the fields and waters as we planned.

Good Reading

If you are looking for some excellent magazine reading, particularly about white bass fishing in Nebraska, grab the current issue of True's Fishing Annual.

Old friends like Jack Pollack, Frank Button, Ace Erb, Earl Cogill, Tiny Gaston and Jack Johnson, all of Ogallala, are featured in the "White Bass Jamboree" yarn.

This month's issue of Field and Stream is loaded with nifty camping information.

And get a load of the "Synthetics for Camping" in that issue. It gives the lowdown on such interesting items as nylon, dacron, korfam, teflon, and other articles made through the magic of chemistry.

Grand Canyon in Peril

The Bureau of Reclamation, a powerful agency within the U.S. Department of Interior, wants to build two massive dams, Bridge Canyon and Marble Canyon, in the Grand Canyon of Colorado.

Marble Canyon Dam would despoil the first of the spectacular series of Grand Canyon gorges.

It would forever alter the natural "river flowing" which through countless ages, carved this magnificent, most revealing page of the earth's geological history.

Bridge Canyon would create a 93-mile long reservoir that would flood the inner gorge throughout the Grand Canyon National Monument and for 13 miles into the National Park.

Because of the swell of opposition to this invasion of the National Park system, the proponents have dropped temporarily Bridge Canyon from their plans.

Not Dead

To illustrate that Bridge Canyon has been merely postponed rather than rejected, here is what Floyd Dominy, Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, said: Bridge Canyon is by no means dead!"

The Bureau of Reclamation would love nothing better than to have this issue hush-hushed.

And if you are wondering why outdoorsmen in Nebraska should be concerned with what happens to the Grand Canyon—or any other natural attraction in our country—if we the people don't stop such ravishment of our great outdoor treasures, the time will come soon when we won't won't have anything, anywhere.

This power play by the Burçau of Reclamation should be stopped dead in its track.

Keep Alert

But only you can do it. We merely alert sportsmen to matters of grave concern when such affairs affect our great outdoors.

If we kept quiet, the Bureau of Reclamation would mutilate forever one of the world's greatest scenic wonders.

The bills which would destroy Grand Canyon are now before these Committees and have several numbers, so refer to the "Lower Colorado Storage Project" and the two dams by name.

Baseball In Biggest Migration

New York (AP) — The largest baseball migration to Florida ever will take place later this month when 16 of the 20 major league teams will set up shop in their respective spring training camps in preparation for the 1966 campaign.

The four exceptions are the California Angels, Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians and San Francisco Giants.

The Angels will return to Palm Springs, Calif., the Indians to Tucson, Ariz., and the Giants to Casa Grande and Phoenix, Ariz. The Cubs, however, have shifted their base of operations from Mesa, Ariz., to Long Beach, Calif.

Boston's Rex Sox, a member of the Arizona colony last year, have returned to Florida and will be based at Winter Haven. They moved from Sarasota to Scottsdale about six years ago.

Seven clubs wil be based along the East Coast of Florida, from Miami up to Cocoa. The same number of teams will be on the West Coast of Florida from Fort Myers up to Clearwater. Two clubs—Detroit and Boston—will be based further inland. The Tigers will train at Lakeland, some 25 miles west of Winter Haven.

The training camp sites with dates first squad reports, date of arrival of complete squad and first workout:

Speece About Halfway Through Hunting Goal

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York — With hunting season over, most shotguns have been oiled and racked as their handlers try to forget all birds but the family parakeet until next fall.

Roy Speece has racked his guns, too, but he's planning already for next year's trip to the field.

It'll be to the Rio Grande valley of New Mexico, says York's uncommon sportsman, for a try at bagging three different kinds of western quail.

Nebraska's upland game birds have long since lost their challenge for Roy. He leafed through his library and compiled a list of about 25 gallinaceous birds he hopes to shoot in his life.

"I'm about half through now," he said. "One of the two real tough ones is out of the way right now."

"Real tough" is a bit of an understatement, since the ptarmigan he went after — and got — in 1964 barely gets outside the Arctic Circle on its southern migration.

Speece stayed home to watch son Todd become York High's top scorer during the past football season.

But he exercised his .28 gauge on about 100 local pheasants and his tonsils on 17 presentations about his northern trek of the previous year.

With faithful Brittany spaniel Sal, he stored his car in The Pas, Manitoba, and boarded a train that has no scheduled stop till it reaches the settlement of Churchill on Hudson Bay.

It made a stop on that trip — at mile post 442 — where Speece and Sal got off to meet Emile Buss.

"He's a trapper — the Old Jules of the North," related the hunter. "He's lived there since 1911, named a lot of lakes and rivers and hasn't been to town since 1952."

"His guest book list parties from the National Geographic Society, Strategic Air Command, Smithsonian Institution, Canadian Game Dept. and me — that's all since 1911."

The wilderness dweller had his own daily work to do tending 200 miles of trap lines, so he oriented the Nebraskan and turned him loose to seek out his game.

Roy Speece and Sal

Sal found and Roy shot many ptarmigan during his week in the tundra, dressed them and threw them outside Buss' log house into the natural deepfreeze created by mid-October temperatures around zero.

"The ptarmigan," explained the York REA manager, "is of the grouse family, almost the size of a hen pheasant and white in the winter and tan-grey in the summer.

Dean Frolik Plans Fight Against Raid on Agricultural Extension Funds

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Efforts by the Johnson Administration to re-channel agricultural extension funds to community resource development will be vigorously resisted at the University of Nebraska and quite possibly in every one of the 50 states.

Dr. E. F. Frolik, dean of the College of Agriculture, said Saturday he was preparing letters for Nebraska's congressional delegation, farm organization leaders, his advisory council, and the news media, informing them of administration proposals that would re-channel funds from three sources that are vital to the NU extension program into low income of resource development work.

"I'm going to object very strenuously. This proposal if approved by Congress is very bad to Nebraska. For instance it would eliminate our sorghum work at the University through the Agricultural Research Service and disrupt many other programs," said Frolik.

Frolik said he would expect a "groundswell' across the 50 states as congressmen would be alerted to the effects the proposal would have on extension programs.

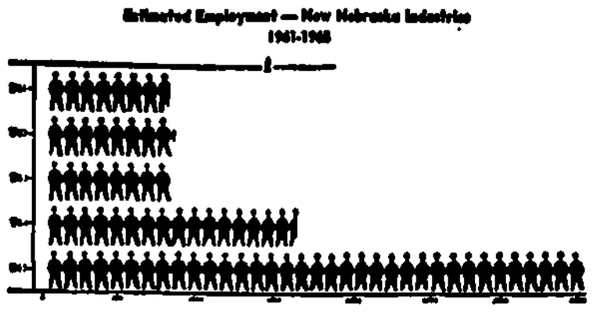
Frolik explained that since Nebraska and other agricultural states have less poverty, the plan would take away funds needed to carry on present needed programs and transfer them into other programs.

The first word that danger might be impending for extension programs came when it was learned that Nebraska stood to have it's share of the $10 million Smith-Lever funds, which amounts to nearly $160,000, transferred to Community Resource Development programs.

Dr. Frolik said, "This is only part of our concern, two other important sources including the Hatch Funds are also involved in proposed changes."

Callan Advised

Rep. Clair Callan of Nebraska's 1st District said Saturday he had already been advised of the proposal and he thought it was necessary to keep extension programs going.



Industry to Spend $24 Million in State

Plants, Jobs for 3,500 Planned By 82 New, Expanding Firms

A growing Nebraska received industry's vote of confidence during 1965 as 82 new and expanding industries in 48 cities made plans to spend over $24 million for plants and equipment, providing employment for an additional 3,500 persons.

Most significant in the overall optimistic picture, perhaps, is the confidence placed in the state by 51 of its existing industries who have announced plans for expansion.

As an indication of Nebraska's ability to meet the needs of industry, this may provide encouragement to the 31 new industries settling in 22 cities in the state in the past year.

Among those expanding industries listed in a year-end report of the Nebraska Division of Resources are:

—Norden Laboratories, Inc., of Lincoln, which will build a $2¼ million addition to the company's present biological production plant.

—Behlen Manufacturing Co. of Columbus, increasing their plant size by 262,000 square feet.

Hearings Moving to Midwest

Rep. Clair Callan (D. 1st Dist.) said Saturday that he would expect hearings by the House Livestock and Feed Grain sub-committee to move to the Midwest in about three weeks.

The group will hear testimony on a bill that would amend the Packers and Stockyards Act to prohibit livestock feeding by large packers and chain store organizations.

Following meetings with livestock representatives in Omaha Congressman Callan said, "there is a real need for these hearings and some action if any restraint in trade is involved."

Callan said that since the bill to prohibit packer feeding had been introduced by Iowa congressman Bert Bandstra, the first sub-committee meeting would possibly be conducted at Des Moines, Ia.

To Omaha

He said that quite likely a Nebraska site would be selected, with the Livestock Exchange Bldg. at Omaha the choice for a possible Nebraska visit by the sub-committee, of which Congressman Callan is a member.

Callan said the legislation is of particular interest to him, since 50% of the farms in the 1st Congressional District are livestock farms.

The Nebraska congressman said he would be active the next three weeks in committee hearings on legislation involving Food for Peace.

"Legislation being considered for Food for Peace Programs would provide a new concept regarding our food supplies and it would cost about one cent on a dollar tax to develop a program that would help countries that are willing to help themselves and also be of tremendous value to agriculture," Callan said.

Reserve Favored

Callan said that the thinking in Washington seems to favor maintaining a reserve of about 45 million tons of feed grain supplies and that if plans are kept in pace with needs, acreage and production can be matched in agriculture production.

'Inflation Threat Increasingly Serious'

New York (AP)—Much attention focused during the week on the possibility of inflation.

And there was considerable discussion about the ability of government guideposts to head off spiraling prices.

This came against the background of a business boom heading into its sixth year.

The nation's purchasing agents, reporting that they are feeling an increased number of shortages and rising prices, fear that "inflation looms as a more serious threat than it has been in many years."

This was in response to a poll by the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

The survey of members showed that 63% of those queried paid more for their purchases in January than they did in December, up from 39% who reported higher prices in December than in November.

'Repeatedly'

The association noted that price pressure apparently has developed since August 1962, and added: "While purchasing agents have, during this time, repeatedly refused to be talked into an inflationary psychology, the danger of serious trouble must now be reckoned with."

W. P. Gullander, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said the Johnson administration's suggested 3.2% per year ceiling on wage-price rises is a poor weapon to combat inflation and probably will fail.

"The so-called guideposts are too simple a tool to solve a complex problem," he said.

He saw the need for noninflationary monetary policies which have the support of Congress and the White House. Then, he said, it would be up to industry and labor to adhere to such policies.

Economist Arthur F. Burns criticized the Johnson administration for overheating the economy through expansionary monetary and fiscal policies and then trying to hold the lid on prices and wages through guideposts.

Symposium

Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during the Eisenhower administration, expressed his views at a symposium sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

He said the guideposts would not work and that price and wage increases would become even more disconcerting in the months ahead.

The unemployment rate fell in January to 4% of the labor force, the lowest since 1957.

The number of unemployed actually rose 402,000 to 3.29 million but the gain at that time of the year usually is 500,000. Employment fell 1.52 million to 77,229,000 but this was 200,000 short of the usual decline in January.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz predicted the jobless rate will fall to 3.5% or less this year.

$8. llion

Consumer credit rose to a record $86 billion at the end of 1965, the Federal Reserve Board reported. Instalment credit accounted to $67.4 billion and showed a gain of $647 million for December.

The automobile industry turned out an estimated 196,300 passenger cars during the week, up 14% from 172,049 the previous week but 3 percent below the 202,216 a year ago.

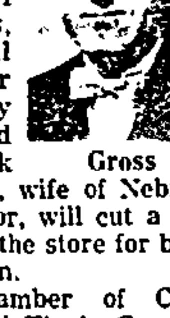
Jack & Jill Opens in Meadowlane

A new Jack & Jill supermarket will be opened with a ceremony Tuesday morning at the also-new Meadowlane Shopping Center, 70th and Vine.



Gross

Alvin W. Gross of Hastings, state general manager for the grocery chain, said Mrs. Frank B. Morrison, wife of Nebraska's governor, will cut a ribbon to open the store for business at 9 a.m.

City, Chamber of Commerce, Nash-Finch Co. and Jack & Jill officials will participate. The Nash-Finch Co., with headquarters in Minneapolis, owns the new store.

Ray Bonde, former Jack & Jill manager at Cozad, will manage the Meadowlane store, which will have 25 employes. Assistant manager will be Robert Goodwin of Lincoln. Department managers will be Richard McMurtry of Grand Island and Robert Shonerd of Lincoln.

The store, one of 70 in Nebraska and 340 operated in an eight-state region by Nash-Finch, occupies 12,000 square feet.

The Jack & Jill supermarket will be one of 17 stores at Meadowlane. Together they will eventually employ about 100 persons.

Formal opening of the center will be later this year, said Samuel Tilzer of the Leo Eisenberg & Co., Kansas City, Mo. The company is leasing agent for the center.

Developer of the center is the Mo-Linc Co. of Kansas City, which operates shopping centers in St. Joseph, Mo.; Bloomington, Ill., Kansas City, Mo., and Overland Park, Kan.

Now operating or soon to open at the Meadowlane Center are a Ben Franklin store, Blevins Drug Co. store, Geier Bakery, American Family Insurance Co., Gifts by Mark, a barber shop, Ben Your Hairdresser, and a Baskin-Robbins ice cream shop.

Tilzer said the company may develop another neighborhood shopping center in Lincoln.

Fat Cattle Price 'Steaming Along'

Omaha (UPI)—The Livestock Foundation of Omaha says fat cattle prices at Omaha were up a little last week over the week earlier, and were quite a bit higher than a year ago.

The foundation, in its weekly report, described the market as "steaming along on an even keel" for the week. The foundation said the market undertone was not as good early in the week because dressed beef prices held back.

Cattle supply at Omaha and the 11 other major markets was a shade heavier than the previous week and in line with a year ago; the hog count above a week earlier but below a year ago; the sheep run down from the previous week and up from a year earlier.

The springlike weather of the past few days permitted cattle to put on good daily gains but they also put on considerable amounts of mud as feedlots turned soft and muddy.

For the week fed steers and heifers are 25-50c higher with steers having the best of the going.

Cows Take Dip

Steer top was 27.85 with a number of sales at 27.35-27.75; choice steers mostly 26.25-27.25; in-between kinds 25.75-26.50; others 25.75 down. Heifer top was 27.00.

Average price of slaughter steers last week at Omaha, as computed by the USDA, figured 26.10 against 25.72 the previous week and 21.68 a year ago.

Cow prices took their first dip in a month with prices 50-1.00 lower.

Replacement cattle and calves numbered 3,000 at Omaha last week. Trade was fairly active and prices were strong to 50c higher.

Butcher hogs finished the week mostly 50c higher, sows 50-75 up. Barrows and gilts weighing 190-330 closed at 26.00-29.50; 330-600 pound sows brought 25.00-26.50. Practical top on butchers last week 29.50, outside top 30.00 paid sparingly. Sow top 26.75.

Slaughter lambs closed 50-1.25 lower, the full decline on wooled lambs. Bulk of the wooled lambs sold at 27.50-28.75, shorn 27.00 to 28.50.

Soybean Advance Slowed

Chicago (UPI) — Wheat, corn and oats closed the week mixed on the Chicago Board of Trade last week while rye was higher and soybeans irregularly higher.

Soybeans made daily seasonal highs until Friday when prices moved lower.

Close observers attributed the advance during the week to the government's report showing good demand for oil and meal, with stocks lower than last year's, and the USDA's estimated 10-20% increase in soybean exports this year. Friday's dip was blamed on profit taking as a result of the president's new farm program.

Wheat traded irregularly throughout the week. Again, prices were lower Friday, a reflection of the President's Food for Freedom message.

Corn prices held inside of relatively narrow trading ranges and did not show much response to the continued sales of defaulted corn by the Commodity Credit Corp.

Oats and rye were mostly features, with trading prices often reflecting those of other commodities.

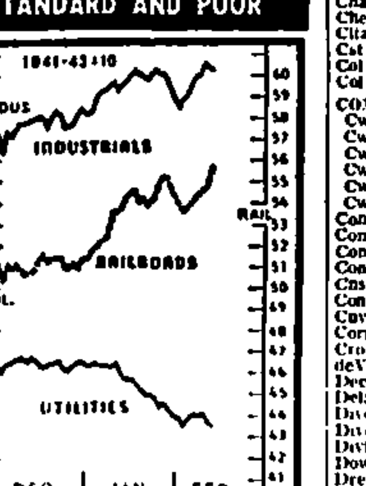
STANDARD AND POOR



Sterling Showing By Rails

New York (UPI)—The Dow-Jones industrial average took another try at breaking the 1,000 level but failed again and finished the week with only a small gain. The rail indicator, however, turned in a sterling performance.

Prices were on the upswing in the first three days of the week and started higher on Thursday but then ran into some heavy selling and backed off.

Industrials came to within 5 points of the 1,000 mark on Wednesday and seemed poised for a breakthrough before selling increased around noon and forced it back. It finished the week with a gain of 2.68 at 989.03.

Brokers still remained confident at the week's end that the Dow-Jones average would eventually break through the 1,000 level. They said fundamental factors such as corporate earnings, inflationary pressures in the economy and dividend actions, continue to point to a higher market.

Technical indicators, particularly the rise in the Dow-Jones rail indicator, also point to an near term penetration of the barrier.

Interstate Construction To Top Halfway Mark in '66

Construction of Nebraska's Interstate to full standards is expected to go over the halfway mark by the end of the year.

By the end of the construction season, a motorist should be able to drive without interruption all the way from Omaha to North Platte on the superhighway.

Possibly, he may be able to drive another dozen miles west from North Platte to Hershey.

Nebraska entered 1966 with 228 miles, or 48%, of its 478-mile Interstate system built to full standards.

This included a 134-mile stretch from Giltner in Hamilton County to Maxwell in Lincoln County and 94 miles in the Omaha-Lincoln vicinity to Beaver Crossing in Seward County.

Although only local traffic now is permitted on the 13-mile segment between Milford and Beaver Crossing, the route will be opened to through traffic this year.

In addition, the State Roads Dept. hopes to close the 45-mile gap between Giltner and Beaver Crossing and extend the highway another 13 miles from Maxwell to North Platte for a total of 58 new Interstate miles.

This will raise the Interstate mileage to 286 for a 60% completion mark. If weather and other circumstances permit the opening of the 12.6 miles from North Platte to Hershey, a total of 298 miles (62%) will be constructed to full standards.

Two projects in Omaha also are slated for completion this summer—the Missouri River bridge on Route 480 and paving of the 31st and Grover interchange on Route 80.

The department has scheduled the purchase of between $4 and $5 million worth of right-of-way—the largest amount ever spent in a single year.

An estimated $12.5 million will be spent for Interstate construction this year, or $13.6 million less than the 1965 total of $26.1 million.

Other Roads

The Roads Dept. will place about $30 million worth of work under contract this year for the ever-continuing improvement of primary and secondary highways.

This is an increase of about $8 million over 1965 and, according to State Engineer John W. Hossack, "should result in a very sizeable increase in work" from the standpoint of number of projects and mileage improved.

A total of 280 miles of gravel road will be converted to dustless surfacing. 68 miles will be graded preparatory to future surfacing, and engineering and right-of-way work will be completed on 14 miles.

Road Study

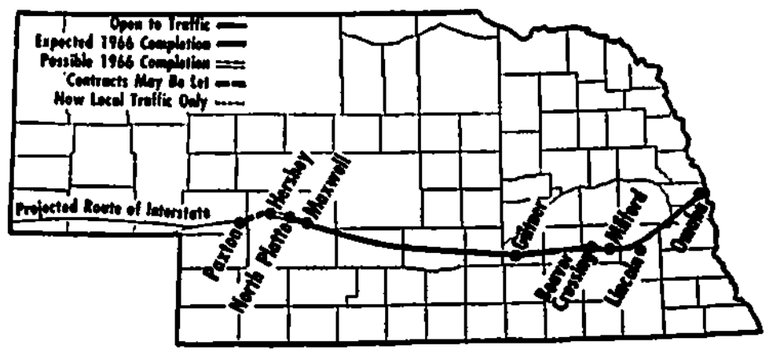
Work will continue and for the most part be completed this year on the most complete study of Nebraska's road and street needs ever undertaken in the state's history.

The study will point up the deficiencies of the road and street systems and what should be done to correct them.

It will show if road user revenues are too little, too much or just sufficient to handle the problems, and how the funds should be distributed.

It will show, through engineering facts, which roads and streets should be whose responsibility and establish guidelines for the most efficient administration of the systems.

Every mile of the 102,874-mile system will be classified as to the function it performs in the overall traffic pattern. Then the various governmental responsibilities will be determined from the classifications.



A complete analysis of highway financing will be made. Legislative recommendations will be made for the fairest distribution of funds among state, county and municipal governments.

Beautification

Highway beautification and safety will receive more than the customary attention during 1966 thanks in part to two federal programs.

One law, the 1965 Highway Beautification Act, has three primary provisions—the elimination of billboards within 660 feet of all primary and Interstate routes, the removal or screening of all junkyards and garbage dumps within 1,000 feet of the same routes, and more extensive landscaping and roadside developments.

Nebraska already has a law prohibiting billboards along the Interstate, but the removal of signs along the 5,500 miles of primary roads will require legislative approval.

Likewise, the Roads Dept. has no legal authority to pay anyone to remove or screen junkyards and garbage dumps. But legislation providing that authority is certain to be introduced in the 1967 Unicameral or even earlier should a special session be held this year.

In the meantime, the department will begin making an inventory of all billboards and junkyards along the Interstate and primary highways.

Teeth in the federal law make it highly probable Nebraska will take part in the beautification program.

The law provides for withholding 10% of a state's federal aid highway money if it has not moved to implement the act by Jan. 1, 1968.

This could mean a loss of $3 to $4 million in Nebraska each year.

Pedaling Up And Downhill

Louisville, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Pat O'Brien, secretary in the law department at the Louisville & Nashville Railroad office, has no parking problems. She makes the eight-mile trip from her home to work and back on a bicycle.

Going toward town she makes the trip in 40 minutes, speeded by two hills which slant toward downtown. But the homeward pedaling time is 48 minutes, since some of the road is upgrade.

550 Motels in State; 85% Locally Owned

A going business is Nebraska's motel industry with a record number of units now in operation and more preparing to follow in the tracks of highway construction crews.

A year-end report by the Motel Brokers Association of America forecasts a bright year across the nation in 1966. Nebraska's segment of the industry will be no exception, according to Don McGinnis of Lincoln, Nebraska representative for the association.

"There are presently 550 motels in the state and the figure is rapidly growing," said McGinnis. "Some towns, like North Platte and Omaha, have doubled their motel units in the past three years. And Kearney has added four new motels — one with over 100 units — in the same period of time."

McGinnis cites an increase in tourism — heartily supported by motel operators who last year distributed over 150,000 brochures on Nebraska points of interest — as one reason for growth.

"But our motels are not dependent entirely upon tourism," he adds, estimating that 50-to-60% of the business comes through "commercial trade" — traveling businessmen.

McGinnis looks for a lot of motel growth within the next five years along the Interstate route. But much of this business will be owned by oil companies who are getting into the industry with gas, food and lodging combinations.

Despite a national trend toward large motel chains and the entrance of oil companies into the industry, some 85% of Nebraska motels are locally-owned, estimates McGinnis. And it is the consensus of many operators, he reports, that the appearance of large motels along the Interstate will not hurt the small operator.

Interstate motels will help accommodate the coast-to-coast traveler, but the small operator should benefit from an increase in traffic on arteries leading toward the Interstate.

3-Day National Livestock Meet Set in Omaha

Omaha — Stockmen from more than 30 states are expected here for the three-day convention of the National Livestock Feeders Assn. Tuesday-Thursday.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., will report on the work of the National Commission on Food Marketing.

Other speakers include Carroll P. Streeter, editor and executive vice president of Farm Journal; James B. Nance, chairman of the National Livestock and Meat Board; and Ramon R. Truman, manager of commodity Development, Pan American Airways.

Columbus to Be Host for Angus Futurity Show

Columbus — The Nebraska State Angus Assn. will hold the State Angus Futurity Show and Sale at Agricultural Park here Monday-Wednesday.

Entered in the senior division of the show are 200 animals representing 39 Nebraska Angus firms. P. K. Pratt of Walnut, Ia., will judge.

The sale scheduled for Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. will include 46 futurity bulls and 34 futurity females. All futurity champions except calves will be sold.

Officers for the junior and adult associations will be elected Monday.

Babies 'Scared'

Dublin (AP) — Priests should be given a chance to escape from drab, old-fashioned clothing, suggested Father Jerome Toner, O.P., writing in the Dominican magazine Irish Spotlight. "We should be ministers of joy and light and why should we look gloomy and drab?" he asked. "Even babies are frightened when a huge black shadow bends over the pram."

Fine Arts Have Million Dollar Home at Wesleyan

Nebraska Wesleyan University opened its $1.2 million Auditorium-Fine Arts Center last week with a 10-day festival, "The University and the Fine Arts."

The building, first million-dollar structure on the NWU campus, was dedicated at a 10 a.m. student convocation Friday. President Vance D. Rogers gave the dedicatory address on "An Expanding Program in the Fine Arts."

Music and art departments are located in the new structure, which frees the 60-year-old C. C. White Bldg. for additional faculty offices and classrooms.

Other features of the new building are the Elder Art Gallery, honoring Dr. Edith Dimmitt Elder of San Jose, Calif., 1908 NWU graduate, and the Cadwallader Organ, an $80,000, 49-rank Aeolian-Skinner instrument given by Mrs. Ruth Jones Cadwallader, another NWU alumna.

The 96 by 212-foot structure, located on the southwest corner of the campus, is described as modern classic by architects Clark and Enersen, Olsson, Burroughs and Thomsen.

It reflects the simple Egyptian and Grecian concept of columns which carry the roof structure, eliminating supports in the auditorium proper. The 36 columns, running the length of the building on the east and west sides, are of white cast stone which set off the red brick facing.

Landscaping includes brick retaining walls, a sunken garden at the north end, a 24 by 76-foot pool with fountains at each end, walks and driveways.

The red brick of the exterior is carried into the lobby and auditorium. The first-floor auditorium, site of all future convocations and chapel programs, is approximately

Symphony of Spring A Fashion Preview

When the Lincoln Symphony Guild and spring styles are combined, the result as "A Symphony of Spring Fashions."

That's the theme of the style show and luncheon the Guild will hold at 1 p.m. Mar. 14 and 15 at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Mrs. O. R. Mallat is chairman of the event, with Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller serving as co-chairman.

Outfits modeled by Guild members will highlight fashion trends for spring and summer

Previewing these trends, Mrs. Edgar Wescott chose to model B. H. Wragge's American sari, a Kelly green silk linen creation with a one-tie shoulder strap. Though the sari could be worn as a top over a swimsuit, Mrs. Wescott tried it with a white imported linen one-shoulder sheath.

The Mexican feeling was expressed in the California-designed embroidered three-piece cotton ensemble worn by Mrs. M. J. Epp. The shawl-shaped poncho covers a turquoise is lime green, pink and length patio skirt. Embroidery or the turquois is lime green, pink and royal blue, but the ensemble also comes in rust with orange, yellow and red embroidery. Mrs Epp completed the ensemble with a pair of above-the-wrist bracelets of papier mache.

Another of the fashions which may be modeled in the Guild show is Teal Traina's three-piece costume worn by Mrs. Robert Scott. The hat by Emme matches the bar-plaid jacket in dark brown and terra cotta over white wool. The jacket goes over a wool linen blouson with a terra cotta wool jersey skirt.

In addition to Mmes. Wescott, Epp and Scott, Guild members who will model in the show are Mmes. Fred Bodie Jr., Irwin Chesen, Kenneth B. Clark, John R. Dudgeon, Avery Forke, William Henkle, Leo Hill, Cliff Hillegass, James E. Kamas, James E. McGraw, Harry Meginnis, John P. Morrow, Paul L. Peterson, Richard C. Toren, Walt F. Weaver, Don Weller, William R. Weyrauch, Robert H. Wise, Thomas C. Woods Jr. and E. D. Zeman.

Trying on ensembles such as may be worn in the Symphony Guild's spring style show are (from left) Mmes. Edgar Wescott, M. J. Epp and Robert Scott.

Postmistress Mine, Be My Valentine?

Offer by Sheikh Isn't as Bad as That Insane Camel

By ADRIENNE LANCASHIRE, AP

Beirut—A pearl-handled pistol gripped in one fist, the old sheikh shuffled across the sand and kissed me gently on the cheek. I thought he was being fatherly, but I was wrong.

We scrambled into the desert car and the driver said to my husband in Arabic, "The sheikh is offering to give you two of his women if you leave your wife here for him." He dropped the car in low gear and we lurched away from the oasis—before anyone could conclude the deal. The black veiled women waved from beside the tent.

This was Beir Zhat el Hajj (the Well of the Pilgrim) in Saudi Arabia, a little cluster of palm trees, black goat-hair tents and sun-blistered houses of mud brick. Their roofs were held up by pieces of iron track from the Hejaz railway, blown apart by Lawrence of Arabia and his Bedouin raiders half a century ago.

Now the long-abandoned railway, 519 miles through the desert, is being rebuilt by two British companies, and I was the first woman allowed to travel down the line, over the objections of the construction manager.

A quick telephone call by the mayor, and I was granted a visa for Saudi Arabia and loaded into a car with my husband David, an Associated Press correspondent, AP photographer Harry Koundakjian, and Eric Greig, the Scottish chief engineer for the Jejaz Construction Co.

At the oasis, a halt for pilgrims going to the holy cities of Medina and Mecca, I was hustled into a village harem—a carpeted, mud brick room—and surrounded with chattering women who took off their veils, served tea in small glasses, examined my clothes (especially my ski pants).

A few hours later we parked the car in a dusty bazaar in the center of a town called Tebuk. We left the car open, with the cameras and equipment and my purse inside it. "Don't worry about thefts in Saudi Arabia," the driver said. "It is the most law-abiding country in the Middle East."

The Saudi government keeps it that way. In this same town a few months ago, six government soldiers were beheaded in the public square and a woman was stoned to death for prostitution.

We spent the nights in construction camps, silver-colored American trailers that had somehow been hauled into the middle of the desert and rigged up with astonishing conveniences—indoor plumbing and even hot showers.

Mile after mile we drove along the remains of the rail line, with crumbled bridges blown up by Lawrence and piles of rails drifted with sand, and then we struck off for Wadi Ramm, a spectacular gorge in South Jordan.

We had no map, no compass, no special sand tires, and our only water supply was a canvas bag hung on the nose of the car.

Then it happened. We were lost. An immense salt flat, glittering white, reached out to the horizon in every direction, and all tracks had disappeared.

Each way we drove led us to a wall of hills. We seemed to be driving in circles and I tried to keep my voice calm as we all urged the driver, "find our own tracks and follow them back."

A few minutes later our tire tracks appeared in the salt, and with a nervous laugh of relief we set off. Then we stopped again—this time in amazement. Some desert travelers argue that you cannot mistake a mirage for water, but suddenly an entire lake appeared before us, shimmering and refelecting the hills.

It was the most spectacular sight I had ever seen—immense blue lakes appearing out of nowhere, but not a drop of real water

And the only time on the whole trip that I was truly frightened: not when we thought we were lost, but at a desert police camp when we were waiting for our camels. Suddenly a frantic-looking policeman raced into the compound on a shaggy camel that was roaring, rolling its eyes, foaming at the mouth, bucking and heaving, and I said, "you want me to ride that?"

I was terrified until the sergeant reassured me. "Of course not, sitt (lady). It is only a joke. This camel is insane."

Saturday Night in Lincoln

Valentine Themes Dominate

There was no let up in social activities in Lincoln Saturday night — events were as varied as the age groups.

Senior citizens, members of the Good Time Club, tripped the light fantastic in the ballroom of Arthur Murray's dance studio.

A shift in emphasis was in store for Cornhusker Model A Ford Club of America. Usually the group discusses their prize possessions — antique cars.

But with feminine chairmen, Mmes. John Brown and Dick Hornung, planning the event—the theme was "Valentines."

And "Valentines" was the theme of another party. Members of Capitol City Newcomers Club and their husbands dined and danced at East Hills Supper Club.

Activity on the University of Nebraska campus was not confined to the NU-Iowa State basketball game. In addition to small parties, Abel Hall Resident Assn. sponsored an all-University party.

About 50 couples — members of Nimrod Hunting Club and their spouses gathered at Hotel Lincoln for the club's annual wild game dinner. Dancing followed. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dale were chairmen of the planning committee.

Two queens were crowned last night at parties in Lincoln. Mrs. E. Keith Thompson wore the all-sorority queen's crown of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, and Miss Melody Arnison that of Beta Sigma Phi.

"Hearts and Flowers" was the theme of the ESA party at the American Legion Club. Mrs. John Waldron was revealed as the queen's attendant.

The Valentine dance of the BSP party was at the Black Coach Supper Club. Attendants for Queen Melody were Mmes. Jeane Patten and Carol Swanson.

The June 10 wedding will take place in St. Paul Methodist Church in Lincoln, Neb.

Barretts Wed Saturday

Miss Susan Sweeney became the bride of Douglas Barrett in a 2 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St Teresa's Catholic Church.

Parents of the couple are Messrs. and Mmes. John R. Sweeney and Mark Barrett.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of white velvet. She wore a lace mantilla and carried a bouquet of red carnations.

Miss Mary Sweeney was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Leslie Childs and Tandra Meiers.

Tom Barrett served as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Sneider and Steve Lucas.

After Mar. 1, the couple will live in Germany where Mr. Barrett is stationed with the U.S. Army.

A Cleanser That Beautifies

It is said that every time you wash your face you start a wrinkle, but now you can smooth and beautify the skin as you cleanse. No more taut dry skin when you use this cleansing milk that removes every trace of make-up with a dissolving action that leaves the complexion smoother, clearer and free from wrinkle dryness. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Jelsyn cleansing milk that gives the complexion a look of youthful beauty.

NEUROMUSCULAR DISEASES CAN BE CRIPPLERS

They effect the muscles by disturbing the nerve supply which keeps muscles healthy. And, though most of them are not yet completely understood, it is now known the causes center in the brain and the central nervous pathways to the spinal cord.

Much progress is being made. Your Physician can now prescribe medicines that not only lessen discomfort, but often preserve and even restore muscular functions. We can fill his prescriptions.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Male Modes: Even Work Clothes Smartly Styled

Each year thousands of men's fashion authorities assemble in not-too-solemn conclave for discussions and decisions that can provide some guideposts as to what the men of this country will be wearing in the future.

This year's gathering will take place in Dallas, Tex., and it is logical that visitors from the super-dressy East and from the extra-casual West coast might be influenced by the "wide-open spaces" look associated with the Southwest.

A report of the Dallas developments will come at a later date—after the dust has settled on the four days of fashion-deliberations, and the four evenings of Texas hospitality!

Trends: Men's work clothes are getting smart styling, and are a far cry from the drab-looking outfits of other days. Examples are the dapper outfits of Hertz, Braniff and other firms for their employes. Still enjoying national popularity are patterned slacks in oversize glen plaids and checks.

Dress Tips: Coat buttons should be anchored both to the inside facing and inner lining of coat. If any of your buttons are attached to the outside cloth only, have a tailor sew them properly to avoid stretching or tearing the fabric.

Little things easily corrected—like hats worn on eyebrows, or back too high on the forehead—can spoil the look of a whole outfit.

Quote-Unquote: Assistant State Department Deputy (of protocol) Pedro San Juan in Washington: "I often wonder whether wars could not have been avoided if diplomatic dress had not soured things up. At the Treaty of Versailles Conference, would the principals have made such incredible decisions about the map of Europe if they hadn't been so thoroughly uncomfortable in their tight clothes?"

Care of Clothes: The insides of galoshes or stadium boots, especially those with pile-type linings, should be washed with warm soap or detergent suds. Rinse by rubbing with a clean, damp towel, and stuff with old dry towels, blot and dry.

A clamp trouser-hanger will let you hang your galoshes, when not in use, and keep them in better shape than if they were just blocked semi-snap at front.

New: There's news in hats this season. The "English brim", well-rolled at back and on sides, with a pre-blocked semi-snap at front, will go well with wearers of the shaped suit "look."

The typical "Planter" hat, which made a strong fashion impact last summer, is now being shown in a lightweight fur felt in many shades.

DEAR DIARY

Lincolnites will have an opportunity to see just how glamorous the now hair styles are.

Lincoln Affiliate No. 3, National Hairdressers Assn., will present a "Hairdressing Spectacular" at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 16, at Hotel Cornhusker. Sounds as if it should be jotted down on every woman's calendar—no charge for admission!

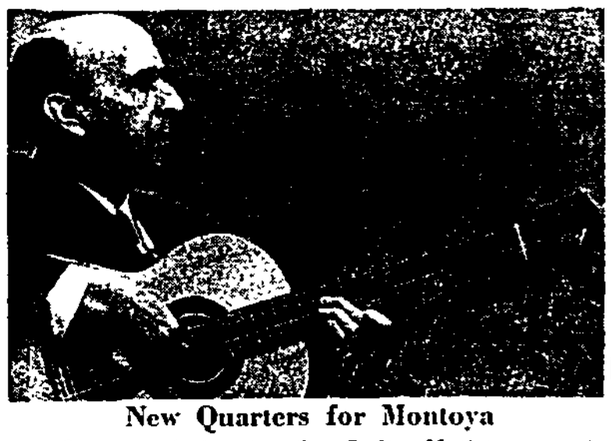
And other news about Lincoln hairdressers—at the Nebraska Hairfashion Committee Contest held in Omaha, Miss Gloria Herndon won first place for her coiffure, "Dickie Bird." Mrs. Lucile Duerr styled Miss Herndon's hair.

Five Generations Old

Brides usually carry something old, something new—and when Miss Helen Ann Shearer and David Scott Noble were wed at 4 p.m. Saturday in Trinity Cathedral, the bride followed the good luck rule.

She carried a lace handkerchief which has been carried by brides in her family for five generations.

Mrs. Noble is a January graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Delta Gamma Sorority. Mr. Noble is a graduate of Albion (Mich.) College, did graduate work in math at NU and is a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity.



New Quarters for Montoya

On a musical note, the Carlos Montoya concert, which had been scheduled at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 15, at Nebraska Union Ballroom has been moved to the NU Coliseum.

The 800 free tickets for the flamenco guitar concert were picked up so rapidly and so many people were clamoring for more that larger quarters were sought and found.

It's no wonder that larger area was needed, for Montoya is reported to be the most widely-recorded flamenco artist in history. A Spanish gypsy, Montoya played in Madrid cafes in his youth and has won world recognition for his masterful and inventive technique.

The concert is under the auspices of the Fine Arts Convocation series.

Red Faced Motorist

One of the most exciting moments of the week at Nebraska Wesleyan University campus—at least for one driver—occurred on Tuesday.

Our heroine, known for her ability to get lost, started for the campus and the new NWU Fine Arts Building armed with a map on the dashboard of the car.

She missed the 53nd St. turn off Huntington but took the turn at 53rd. She drove toward the administration building on a narrow, but paved and unposted, winding street.

Her admiration for the new arts building took her eye from the road a moment too long—

Crash, bang, bump! The driver was jostled and bounced around in the car, but fortunately stepped on the brakes. As the car halted, she was horrified to see she was just short of a flight of steps to a lower level of the campus.

And her face was red with embarrassment—students and professors, curious about the crash, gathered in windows.

The next problem was extricating herself and her car. A little maneuvering and she managed to get the car at right angles—and off she went across the campus lawn!

Youth for Youth

Youth helps youth!

A group of high school girls have formed an interracial club, Chere Amies, the object of which is to combat high school dropouts, says Mrs. Warren Urbom.

Today between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. the girls will have a silver tea at the home of Mrs. Ward Sims. Proceeds will be used to establish a scholarship for higher education.

Nobles Say Vows

Omaha — Miss Helen Ann Shearer became the bride of David Scott Noble of New Orleans, La., in a 4 p.m. Saturday ceremony in Trinity Cathedral.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Harris Shearer. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Noble of Midland, Mich.

The bride was escorted by her great-uncle, Edwin A. Fricke of Ashland.

Her gown of ivory peau de soie was accented by jeweled lace. The sheath skirt was worn with an aisle-wide detachable train

World of Women

Mrs. Boyles at work in blood bank.

By JAN BURNS

She didn't expect to get the job at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

"I was really pretty green," Mrs. Bartlett Boyles explained. "I'd never been in a hospital—except to have my tonsils out."

Besides, her major at the University of Nebraska, where she'd just earned her degree, was Spanish. Her minor was French.

But she had another minor—biology—and Dr. George Covey had told her Bryan needed a medical technologist and suggested she apply.

Mrs. Boyles did get the job.

'Quit for a Nickel'

That first summer, she'd have "quit for a nickel any time—mostly because my feet hurt" but Dr. Covey and the late Dr. Miles Breuer "put up with me and gave me a lot of wonderful training."

Actually, Mrs. Boyles found her job so exciting she never wanted another. On June 7, the former First Lady of Lincoln will have served 40 years as Bryan's chief medical technologist.

"I find it just as fascinating now as I did when I started," Mrs. Boyles said. "It never is boring."

While she was the only person in the lab at first, the staff now numbers around 40.

Mrs. Boyles does "general lab work," she said, adding, "I actually work in the blood bank more while I'm not doing something in the administrative line. It's really my favorite department."

Her "pride and joy" is the Bryan School of Medical Technology, of which she is "sort of assistant director." Dr. Frank Tanner is director of the school, accredited since 1935 and one of the oldest in Nebraska.

There are about 143 graduates, Mrs. Boyles said, and "we keep in touch with most of them. We have a big map that shows where all our 'kids' are."

Honored by Staff

Students and employes now at the hospital honored Mrs. Boyles at Christmas with a plaque, a scrapbook and a punch bowl—and a skit titled "Mrs. B: This Is Your Life."

When she has spare time, Mrs. Boyles enjoys spectator sports and "I love to fish." But her major interest is "keeping house for my judge."

"I've kept him well fed and healthy," she conceded, but denied having made any great contribution to her husband's career as attorney, mayor and Lancaster District Court judge.

Although she enjoyed her role as mayor's wife, she said she likes being a judge's wife even better.

Ben Gobel of Lincoln will address a national security dinner for Legion and Auxiliary members.

The conference will feature six panel discussions. Moderators will be Mmes. Bill Cox of Pierce, rehabilitation and hospital director; Dan Herrin of Brady, historian; Orville Uehling of Uehling, membership chairman; Harold Baker of Palisade, community service chairman; Charles Haseloh of Harvard, national chairman of education and scholarships, and Lloyd Brecht of Chadron, junior activities chairman.

Mrs. Cecil See of Ainsworth and Allen Becker of Plymouth will conduct a Legion and Auxiliary child welfare school.

Pre-conference committee meetings are scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

Shape Up or Stop Shoveling

When it snows, the question of who should wield the shovel demands a highly individual answer.

It's true that in the 40 to 60 age bracket fewer women than men have heart trouble and that exertion combined with the crisp, cold, muscle-tightening air can bring on a heart attack.

But the facts don't support the theory that women should shovel snow.

Dr. Kenneth Rose, University of Nebraska physician who is in his sixth year of stress cardiology study—studying the effect of strenuous exercise on the heart—said no generalization could be made.

It depends, he explained, on individual circumstances, on how good a person's physical condition is.

"I'm of the old school," Dr. Rose said. "I think it's better for men to shovel snow; it's a man's job."

A man should know if he has heart disease, the doctor pointed out. If he does and his wife doesn't, it's more appropriate for the wife to do the shoveling or hire someone else to do it. But more women are developing heart disease, too, he noted.

Dr. Rose, pumping very strongly for men to "get with it," emphasized good physical condition and commended the YMCA drive for physical fitness for "fortyish" men.

'Dr. Zhivago' a Joy to Furriers

By BARBARA VARRO
Chicago Sun-Times Special

Chicago — Furriers are doing handsprings over the movie "Dr. Zhivago."

They should be. It is hypoing the fur business which got off to a sluggish start this year with winter's late arrival.

In the film, the screen is covered with almost as much fur as snow. And in poor times as well as prosperous the principals, Julie Christie (Lara), Geraldine Chaplin (Tonya) and Omar Sharif (Zhivago), look marvelous bundled in fur.

In the beginning of the movie they dress in luxury pelts and, as the Russian revolution takes its toll, they gradually settle for what we now refer to as "fun" furs, less expensive skins.

"Dr. Zhivago" costume designer Phyllis Dalton puts Julie Christie in a fitted sheared beaver coat with muff reminiscent of a pre-revolution Russian heroine, Tolstoi's Anna Karenina. Julie later appears in a coarse bear coat and hat.

And the ultimate in fur coziness is Zhivago and Lara cuddled under a wolf blanket.

Omar Sharif also wears his share of fur-trimmed coats and astrakhan and beaver Cossack caps.

One look at handsome Sharif with those haunting dark eyes peering out from under those caps should be enough to send every wife out to buy her husband one.

A check of men's departments here showed there has been increased interest lately in Cossack caps.

It's no wonder "Dr. Zhivago" is putting everyone in the mood for fur. Some parts of the country have not been so different from the Russian Steppes lately.

Power of Faith

As an orphan, Thomas Bridges went to the Falkland Islands with a group of English missionaries. Their goal was to establish a mission on Tierra del Fuego for the Yahgan Indians.

While he was growing up, many attempts were made to start the mission in the "Land of Fire," 400 miles from the Falklands. They all failed in the face of hostile Indians and climate. However, in 1871, with his young English wife and young daughter, he established the mission at Ushuaia on the Beagle Channel in Tierra del Fuego. They faced loneliness, desolation, impassable country and long cold winters, but through faith he brought discipline and the word of God to the lawless tribes.

Anglicans Considering Fixed Date for Easter

By Associated Press

A fixed date for Easter will move a step nearer Monday when the Church of England acts to approve the proposal.

The Roman Catholic church has said it has no objection provided other churches agree.

When the Church of England assembly opens its spring session Dr. Donald Coggan, archbishop of York, will ask the assembly to welcome a fixed date—preferably the Sunday following the second Saturday in April.

The World Council of Churches in Geneva is consulting its members.

The date of Easter was bitterly disputed in the early days of Christianity. The present method of setting its date followed reform of the Julian calendar by Pope Gregory XIII in 1582. This established it should be observed on the Sunday following the first full moon after March 21 (the vernal equinox).

Old Abbeys 'Expensive'

Gloucester, England (AP) — Medieval abbeys though beautiful are uncomfortable, inconvenient and expensive to keep up, says the Rt. Rev. Dyfrig Rushton, Roman Catholic abbot of Prinknash Abbey, Gloucestershire, who wants to set up a new monastery building near his existing 16th Century abbey.

Objections have been raised by preservation societies and the abbot claims that the resulting delays already will raise the cost to the Benedictines by 25%. Now a public inquiry is being held to settle the issue.

Half Minute Inspiration

When your grocer weighs vegetables or fruits, he is measuring the weight of the food you are buying against the strength of the springs, or the counter balances of his scales. Many events in life measure their strength against the strength of God's righteousness, as it is in you. That is why the Bible says: "Be strong in the Lord and in the power which His supreme might imparts." Use the strength God gives you for good. Use your intelligence to build a better country. Use your sound moral principles to express and demonstrate your faith in ways that will dispel and transcend doubt. Use your energies to reenforce and energize any good purpose, person or principle, as it is challenged, attacked or besieged by evil. Counterbalance any that are low or destructive.

House Of The Week Spacious Living Wrapped Up In Split-Level Package

By Associated Press

The well-designed interior layout in this week's split-level is wrapped in an attractive package. Architect Herman H. York has made liberal use of stone in a random pattern, combining it tastefully with rough-hewn beveled siding and vertical boards.

Even the landscaping has been well-planned. The stone planter in front of the living room window adds a horizontal line to this area, tying in the stone panel in the front with the chimney at the side.

Too often large bushes obscure pleasing stone effects when low shrubs might have been used with great success.

The double door entry, under the large covered portico, has clear glass above it, not only pleasing to the eye but helping to provide natural light for the central foyer.

To the left of this slate-floored foyer is a long living room with a fireplace at the other end.

Straight ahead from the foyer is what ordinarily might be called a family room, but which architect York has referred to in the floor plan as the "adults' informal room." That's because there is a children's playroom on the lower level, just a few steps below.

This adults' room has a fireplace and sliding glass doors leading to a rear dining terrace with a slate top.

Between the adults' room and the dining room is a kitchen more than 20 feet long. In addition to all the modern appliances, with an especially large amount of counter space, the kitchen has a semi-circular dinette area with glazed bow windows providing a 180-degree view of the rear garden. The lady of the house will appreciate the pantry and its convenient location next to the built-in oven.

At the top of the short stairway from the main foyer is a wood-paneled hall leading directly to three bedrooms.

The master bedroom suite is something extra special. It is 17 feet long, with sliding glass doors opening to a sun deck.

There is a spacious closet within the room itself and two others, one a walk-in closet, just inside a dressing alcove that precedes the entrance to the private bath. A luminous ceiling, vanity and still shower are all within this complex.

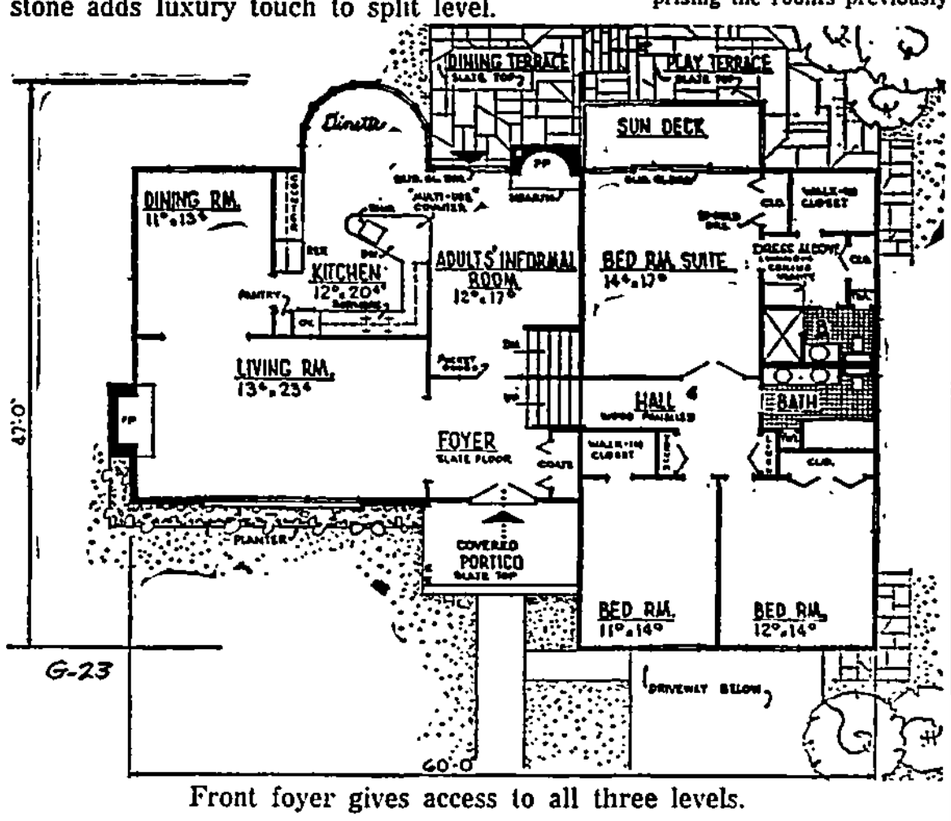
Each of the other bedrooms has a large closet, one of the walk-in type. And there are two more closets off the bedroom hall, one for linens and one for a vacuum a double lavatory. Add this bedroom area to that comprising the rooms previously mentioned and there are 2,019 square feet of habitable space.

The big plus that comes with a split-level is the extra area on the lower or garage level. In addition to the two-car garage and its large storage section, there are a children's playroom, a den (or fourth bedroom, if desired), a laundry and a lavatory.

To the rear of the playroom is a door to a play terrace, part of which is covered by the sun deck from the master bedroom. Steps from the play terrace lead up to the dining terrace off the adults' room.

While there is a full cellar below the living dining-kitchen area, it is not likely to require finishing unless there is a definite need for more cleaner. The second bath has space. That's because this house, although built within over-all dimensions of 60 feet by 47 feet, provides everything needed in the way of living and storage facilities.

Careful use of stone adds luxury touch to split level.



Front foyer gives access to all three levels.

Your Nurseryman

Blizzard Pal, Daisy

Daisy, the cow, was plain cantankerous.

She would find a small hole in the fence and then poor Willie, her owner, would waste hours looking for her. In those pioneering days, there were no cars or telephones. Neighbors often lived miles from each other. A lost cow was a crisis.

Moreover, at milking time, Daisy made Willie's life miserable. While he was sitting on the milking stool, she would whip her tail around and whack him on the back of the neck. She had a genius for putting one hoof in the milking pail the moment it was full.

Willie tried to sell her several times, but unfortunately, news of Daisy's bovine personality always reached the potential buyer before Willie could complete the sale. She definitely would have been beef stew long before this if she hadn't been an excellent milk producer.

Then, one winter afternoon it began to snow. Willie looked out the window and decided he might as well bring the dairy herd to the barn a little earlier than usual. As he left the house, the wind began to blow.

By the time he reached the pasture, it was a full-blown blizzard. The snow was so thick he could hardly breathe. The cattle turned their rumps to the storm and began to drift with the wind.

Willie raised his head. He couldn't see the barn. He was lost.

Yelling as loud as he could, he tried to turn the herd into the storm. It was useless. His voice couldn't compete with the howling wind.

He tried to find a fence to follow to the house, but he couldn't. He was going in circles and the storm was stealing his energy, his will to live.

Then he bumped into something. It was Daisy. He lifted a boot to kick her. If it was the last thing he did, he was going to settle his accounts with that darned cow.

But, then he noticed something. Instead of drifting with the wind as the other cattle had, Daisy was headed into the storm. Willie grabbed the tail that had whacked him countless times and held on. He would stumble or fall and Daisy would drag him across the hard frozen ground. This really hurt.

He tried to slow the cow's pace by pulling hard on her tail, but Daisy had a mind of her own. His arms ached. His body was bruised. He was ready to give up the fight for life.

Then Daisy stopped abruptly. Somehow, the storm seemed to have abated. Still holding the tail with one hand, he felt around him. He touched something. It was the barn! He was safe!

Of course, it would be nice to report that, after this day, Willie and Daisy lived happily ever after. This is not true.

Daisy continued her fence-breaking, tail-whacking, pail-spilling ways. Willie cursed her and cast aspersions on her ancestry.

But, occasionally at dusk on a soft spring's evening, a neighbor would go by Willie's farm and see a man cutting tender tips of alfalfa with a sickle. This figure would then toss the alfalfa over the fence to an old cow.

Now, of course, this might have been Willie, but we'll never really know.

Garden Gossip

Remember the Hollyhock?

By EMERY NELSON
County Extension Agent

When I was a boy, everyone grew some hollyhocks. Those that grew along the back fence were tall plants which sometimes broke over when the wind blew.

Most of them had single flowers widely spaced on the slender stem. The seed pods were effective missiles for use in a slingshot and the back of the garage was splattered with the exploding pods.

Then, for some reason, hollyhocks went out of style. A few older houses and some vacant farmsteads still exhibit their splendor in a half-hearted way. Now, however, with the improvements made in the new varieties of hollyhocks more of them will certainly be grown.

One of the new varieties of hollyhocks suited to the modern garden is called Powderpuff. This dainty, fully double, large bloom is an asset to any garden. It's short too. It will grow to four or five feet in height compared to the eight or nine feet of some older varieties.

Another characteristic you'll like is that the flowers cover the top two feet of each stem. There isn't space enough between them for leaves to grow, they're that solidly packed.

Their colors are enough to make a hollyhock lover drool for, although offered only in mixture, the seeds are blended from separate colors: rose, pink, lavender, scarlet, yellow and white.

Think of these beauties for a splash of color against a fence, a background for lower growing annuals, or to substitute for a shrub against a new house. They'll do any of these jobs and many more.

Which Is the Real Sophia?

Italy's Sophia Loren is seemingly three different women during filming of her latest motion picture, "Arabesque." She can be imagined as the turbaned Near Eastern princess, a woman of abandon or the sleek and elegant sophisticate. She won't say which is nearest her real self.

'Flint' Stays Over

The Stuart holds over the hilarious spy spoof, "Our Man Flint," with James Coburn and Gila Golan, Sunday and Monday, then begins a suspense melodrama, "The Money Trap," Tuesday.

"Trap" stars beautiful Elke Sommer as a girl who has money, and Glenn Ford and Ricardo Montalban as investigators who don't.

Rita Hayworth plays the part of a frowzy derelict.

She's Loving Wife?

The Nebraska offers romantic "Moment to Moment" today through Thursday, with Jean Seberg as a loving young wife who particularly loves Sean Garrison, a handsome naval officer not her husband.

Sean is killed, accidentally, but guilt-ridden Miss Seberg and her divorcee neighbor, Honor Blackman, dispose of the body—and tension mounts.

"Lilies of the Field," an excellent re-run about a Negro handyman who assists some white Catholic nuns, begins Friday. Sidney Poitier stars.

Sabotage and Peril

Harris

The Varsity is showing "The Heroes of Telemark" this week. "Telemark" is based on an actual World War II incident. When British commandos and American bombers fail to destroy a Nazi heavy water plant, a handful of intrepid resistance saboteurs volunteer for the hazardous detail.

Richard Harris plays the resistance leader and Kirk Douglas the physics professor who leads the brave maneuver. Suspense from start to breathtaking finish.

Weird and Wacky

The State is holding over its weird, wacky, funny-in-spots "Lord Love a Duck," starring Roddy McDowall as a mystical sort of high school youth who amuses himself by trying to control the destiny of a fellow student, pretty Tuesday Weld.

Roddy will go to any lengths to gratify Tuesday's high-flung wishes.

TV Film First Goes To Theater

That two-hour color film called "The Plainsman" that was made for prime showing on the CBS-TV network turned out to be so good that the maker, Universal-MCA, asked permission, which was granted, to show it first in theaters. In addition to anticipated future showing on the network, CBS also has plans to develop a series on this Western adventure story.

Shades Of Carol Channing

Wherever Carol Channing appears, the atmosphere screams: "Hello, Carol!"

"I love to have familiar things around me," says Carol, the vibrant, colorful star of CBS-TV's special "An Evening With Carol Channing or How to Watch TV Without Being Plugged In."

She also likes to live in a vibrant, colorful atmosphere and favors yellow, pink and orange as well as shades of red.

And this is exactly what she had with her in California for the filming of her spectacular. A trunkful of family photographs, pictures, books, records and mementos were arranged before the arrival of the exuberant star and her husband, Charles Lowe (who is also the producer of her TV special).

Raspberry Too

The brilliant pictures include three original Hirshfeld cartoons (one of the Lunts, which is autographed by them to their friend Carol and two of Carol herself) and two drawings that Carol made while a student at Bennington College.

Carol's favorite colors are also reflected in her clothes. One of her favorite outfits is a jump suit of bright pink with a turtleneck jersey the color of raspberry ice plus red boots. When complimented on it by her husband, Carol mused, "Good, but I thought I might get an orange jersey, too. I just love pink and orange together."

On her CBS special, colorcast at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Carol will be joined by the noted cigar smoker, George Burns, and the THRUSH hater, David McCallum.

Comic Tour

The versatile star, who first made history on Broadway in 1950 when she appeared as the dizzy blonde Lorelei Lee in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," will spoof the movie colony when she conducts a comic tour of Los Angeles during the show.

During the tour, the comedienne is supposed to show the smog that usually covers the city, but each day of the TV filming was ideal — just lots of sunshine. So the special effects department took over for Mother Nature and actually created artificial smog to block out a rare sunny day in L.A.

OUR LITTLE TOWN

Valentine Brings Memories, Tears

By GERTRUDE SKINNER Ruskin

It is not often that I allow myself the luxury of tears but when I recently came upon this Valentine which I had composed in 1936 and had forgotten—I wept for the young girl that I had been and for the boy that I had loved so very, very much.

"He is winsome, oh, so winsome, that my heart must need adore, and he holds it in a state that it's never known before! 'Tis his kingdom undisputed and he rules with gentle sway, for love holiest and purest, is its light by night and day. Akin to love of angels, nearest the divine, the bond that binds me to my own, my Valentine!

"His face, ah, you should see it to know its every charm. Sure Cupid of his bow and arrow it would at once disarm. And vanquished, weep his dear eyes blind if not already blind as poets say, to find so fair a rival in his way. For ne'er was mortal in the realm on which the sun does shine, endowed with such rare loveliness as my own, my Valentine!

"There's music that is magic in the coming of his feet, causing every pulsation of my heart in quick response to beat. In his presence there is brightness, whate'er the world outside, for the golden gate of happiness his hand has opened wide. And my heart its every treasure beside would quick resign for the love it bears my sweetheart, my own, my Valentine!

"His brow is like an angel's, 'tis crowned with locks so fair, more precious than any jewels royalty might wear. His eyes might shame the violet, his lips the rose's hue. His teeth are like the choicest pearls,—alas, he has but two! Oh, of all the dear things in this world, the dearest I opine, is my darling year-old baby boy, my own, my Valentine!"

VIOLENT STAGE

Passing Phase Or a Revolution?

By WILLIAM GLOVER

New York (AP)—The theater is more and more a place of nightmare violence, baffling obscurity.

Just a passing phase—or a revolution?

In London, a baby is beaten to death as the climax of a drama. On Broadway, an actor climbs stark naked across a stage of chalky terror. And everywhere, four-letter words in profusion.

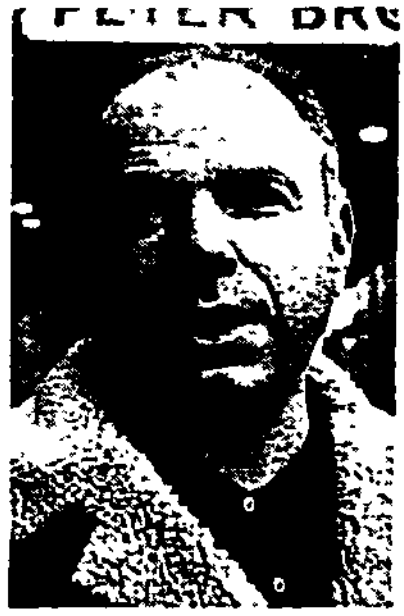
Such raw turmoil lumps collectively as "total theater," a phrase that embraces a wide variety of techniques, happenings and events, all designed to shake up audiences, turn spectators into participants and preach fresh —if not refreshing—attitudes about human existence.

After several tamer skirmishes with offbeat plays, Broadway showgoers are now examining a major chunk of lurid eccentricity, with a deliberately long-winded title:

"The Persecution and Assassination of Jean Paul Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade."

New Look

Whether or not it wins any prizes, the drama by Germany's Peter Weiss is indis-



Brook . . . advocate of "total theater."

putably the season's biggest talk-maker. It was staged by Peter Brook with members of the Royal Shakespeare company, who performed it previously in England.

Brook is a leading advocate of the new theatrical look. Bluntly he dismisses neatly traditional stagecraft:

"The theater of grace and beauty of the Victorian past is still sometimes nostalgically yearned for by some of the audience. But that's all gone and dead and they should realize it. Now there is a new strong, violent, militant, experimental theater emerging."

Brook, a 40-year-old Londoner who went to Oxford, softly admits that various of his 50 productions since 1946 have been hissed and hooted for unorthodoxy. But he feels the contemporary theatrical turbulence is merely part of a greater upheaval.

"In today's audience you have a split not only between two generatons but between two centuries," he says. "World War II really brought the end of the 19th Century. The post-war generation is either in successful rebellion or is completely disregarding those old values."

Bawdy Bard

The theater, to Brook, must reflect and focus such change —and never mind the ticket-buyers who want something else.

"Shakespeare is revered by all of them," he asserts, "but how many people are ready to face the deeply revolutionary, often bawdy parts of him? Nine-tenths of the people think Shakespeare was a polite old Victorian gentleman."

The growth of anti-traditional theatrics has not been without criticism.

Actress Peggy Wood walked out of a recent seminar to express her displeasure of ultra-candor experimentalists.

A good many voices also have protested the subject matter of much of the new drama—the pessimism of existential pieces by Beckett and Ionesco, the black comedy of Genet, the perverse mysticism of Albee, to cite a few.

'Circle' Is May 1

The Broadway Theater League of Lincoln has rescheduled "The Circle," with Helen Hayes in the leading role, for May 1 at the Stuart Theater. The comedy, which closes the 1965-66 season for the league, earlier was announced for another date.

Tale of Two Cities

Hastings — With an eye toward vitalizing community theater efforts, Hastings and Grand Island are joining as co-hosts of the first Nebraska Community Theater meeting March 5 and 6 here.

Open to "anyone interested in theater in Nebraska," the two-day session is a first attempt at an area or statewide community theater organization such as those in Kansas and Iowa.

Scheduled for the meeting are a panel discussion, workshops and performances of "Never Too Late" by the Hastings Community Theater and "The Rainmaker" by the Grand Island Little Theater (GILT).

Experts in community theater will lead discussions and answer questions, according to Lee Ridge, corresponding secretary of GILT. Among these will be Allen Longacre, former president of the Iowa State Community Theater; Harold Shiffler of the Hastings College drama department; and Dr. E. S. Wallace of the University of Nebraska and Lincoln Community Playhouse.

Helping new groups organize, holding workshops and producing road shows to bring to towns without community theater would be some of the functions of a state organization, said Miss Ridge.

Reservations may be made through the Carter Hotel in Hastings where the March 5 sessions will be held.

Steamers' Trips End

The Burlington Railroad is discontinuing steam locomotive excursions for children and rail fans Aug. 1.

The railroad says the reason is that it can't find the skilled workers needed to repair the boilers of the two steam locomotives it has preserved.

The Burlington is the last railroad to operate such trains. It has used a coal burning locomotive, No. 4960, built in 1923, and an oil burner, No. 5632, built in 1940.

No. 5632 is now at West Burlington, Ia., partially dismantled. It was sent there for repairs but the Burlington says it can't find the 14 authorized men to do the work.

No. 4960 is at Galesburg, Ill., and has six trips scheduled before its August retirement.

Both engines have pulled railfan trains from Lincoln in recent years.

Lead-Directing Double Saved Declarer

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

This week's deals are designed to comfort players who are suffering a run of disastrous opening leads by reminding them that the same thing often happens in the very best circles. West was doubly innocent on today's deal because his diamond opening was made in deference to East's special request.

The story of this deal in a British team championship has an ironic twist. East, with the diamond king in back of North's ace-showing five-diamond bid, doubled to indicate a diamond lead. Obedient to orders, West opened his diamond trey and thereby steered declarer into the winning play.

Correctly pegging the lead as a singleton, declarer decided his best bet was to play West for the club king. He hopped up with the diamond ace, pulled trumps and threw two of dummy's clubs on his high spades. South then took the winning club finesse and easily wrapped up the slam.

You might expect this result to be duplicated in the other room, but there was an unforeseen development. After South had opened one heart and North—in the free-wheeling British style—had again jumped to three clubs,

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	5 ◇	Dbl.
6 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Diamond three

South immediately scented slam and rebid three diamonds to inhibit a diamond lead. Consequently, when South reached six hearts, West led the spade queen.

Because declarer was a highly-skilled technician, he saw a "better" play than the even-money club finesse, and even after South had been set, none of his teammates could fault his choice. He ruffed the opening lead in dummy, pulled trumps and led a small club towards his queen.

This play is superior to the straight club finesse, since it offers an excellent chance of building a long club in dummy on which declarer could sluff a diamond loser from his hand.

South sews up 12 tricks whenever East holds the club king and whenever clubs divide 3-3. Moreover, if this doesn't come off, there is a fair prospect of getting a 12 trick via a squeeze.

However, none of these chances materialized. After West had won the club king, he returned a diamond and the perverse lie of the cards meant that South had no way to make a slam that was made in the other room—thanks to East's "helpful" lead-directing double.

There's Temptation To Vice Versa Voting; But Critic Resists It

The MOST

By GINNY FISHER

Once again, it is the "Most" time of the year in the TV world.

"The Most Accomplished Actor," "The Most Objectionable Series" and an unbelievably large number of other categories are relentlessly searching for this year's winners. Presumably TV stars and programs are also relentlessly searching for the titles.

Often it can be fun, fun, fun to pick out the "sure-fire winners." Invariably, I not only frequently disagree with the other critics, but the viewers (in rating surveys) have often rated my favorite shows so low, they were immediately cancelled.

(Note: I managed to resist the urge to mention the best shows as the worst and vice versa, although I have a sneaking hunch this is the only way to scuttle the bad and save the good.)

Humor, Taste

Best Over-all Program: Not counting specials, it would be "I Spy," which has acting, humor, scenery, taste, good scripts and plain ole entertainment.

Best TV Performer: Dick Van Dyke—A special salute to a TV veteran who will, of his own free choice, wind up a five-year stint this spring. Thankfully he's already been signed for yearly specials.

Dick Van Dyke Rated Best Performer

Best Dramatic Program (one hour or more): Yep, last year I voted for "Slattery's People" and this year I pick its replacement—same hour, same excellence and same low audience ratings — "Trials of O'Brien."

Best Dramatic Program (One-half hour): This is one of those "just aren't any" categories.

Jesse Chuckles

Best Comedy Show: "Jesse James"—surely the real outlaw is chuckling in his grave—perhaps wistfully noting the girl guest stars.

Best Mystery Program: As one wag put it, "Camp Runamuck, Gilligan's Island, Shindig, Munsters, etc., the mystery being how the shows have gotten on in the first place."

Best Daytime Program: Personally I liked "The Young Set," which has been, you guessed it, cancelled and already replaced.

Best Musical Show (Popuar): It was a tough struggle, really it was, but "Bell Telephone Hour" finally beat out "Shindig" and "Hullabaloo."

Best New Show: "I Spy" natch as it was Best Overall.

Most Unique New Show: It will have to be "Batman" for I must admit it is "different."

Most Disappointing New Show: "My Mother the Car," for the misuse of such talents as Jerry Van Dyke, Avery Scribner, Ann Sothern.

Worst New Show: "Tammy."

Most Promising New Star: Unquestionably the marvelous robot on "Lost in Space," with follow-ups Bill Cosby and Barbara Feldon.

Best Comedy Team: Judy the Chimp and Clarence the Cross-eyed Lion on "Daktari," as, surely, their super-human antics are written just for laughs (I hope).

Best Commercial: Most of the dog food ones.

Best Comedienne: How about Mia Farrow, her act with the scissors is a real "cut up."

One category which gives the state a chance to boos its own is the "Best Local Program." I have as yet to make a decision in this group and would appreciate hearing opinions about favored local shows and series from TV viewers in the state.

HEARING AID USERS

How often do you replace the battery in your hearing aid? If your answer is, "Too often", here's news for you: We've just received a new, full-power behind-the-ear aid with a special low-impedance circuit, that operates for over 30 DAYS on a single battery. That's about a penny a day. Compare that with the operating cost of your present aid.

Still too much? Then how about this: We've also got an aid that enables you to forget about changing batteries for good! It doesn't even have a battery compartment! Its power comes from a sealed-in power cell that is recharged while you sleep. It's just like having a fresh battery every morning! This one is worn all in the ear, with no cords or tubes, and it's been fitted to some fairly severe hearing losses with surprising results. If you've wondered about this type of aid, but hesitated because you weren't familiar with the maker, here's the best news of all: both of these aids are offered and guaranteed by MAICO—Most Respected Name in Hearing. There's no finer hearing aid.

We'd like to show you these remarkable new hearing aids. One of them may offer you the convenience and economy you've been looking for. Please come in, write or call.

DEAR OLD DAD

Father Doesn't Know Best And Doesn't Rate With TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York (AP)—The enduring institution of marriage is, in television terms, strictly for laughs—or at least laugh tracks.

At the moment, the three major networks are illuminating the living room screens with a total of 14 evening series in which a husband and wife are leading roles—and 11 of them are comedies.

Almost gone is the familiar lovable dope of a daddy with his clever, capable, loving wife.

In fact, "The Donna Reed Show" and "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" are the last survivors of the by-gone era. Over the seasons even they have changed so that you'd hardly recognize the present characters if you'd been out of the country for a long time.

The adoring husband of "Bewitched" is more dupe than dope and he may be forgiven since his wife is a witch.

Students of television can follow the process of decay in a popular format by watching its treatment. First the shows were called "family situation comedies" and after the enduring success of "I Love Lucy" they proliferated all over the networks.

Two seasons back there appeared a couple of mock-horror burlesques of happy family life, "The Munsters" and "The Addams Family" in a year that saw "The Bing Crosby Show," an old-fashioned model played straight, go down the rating drains.

Right now there are married couples in only two serious series, "Daniel Boone" and "Lost in Space."

Coon-hatted Dan'l, in spite of his happy connubial state, spends much more time with his Indian friend than with his wife. And the Robinsons, mother and father of "Lost in Space," are so busy coping with creatures from other galaxies and getting the robot to work that they rarely have time for those over-the-newspaper coffee-drinking breakfast scenes which are the hallmark of TV marriage.

The "family sitcom," as TV jargonists have it, was marked by two revolutionary series. The first was "Father Knows Best," about 15 years ago, which presented a warm, affectionate rather realistic family that included a father with dignity and commonsense who was really the head of the house

Then, five years ago, came "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

"I'm going to have a young married couple who act as if they really like each other," proclaimed Carl Reiner, the originator.

They did, too, and the series became a hit—but it was, at a time when most of the children were presumed to be away from the set.

Television viewers, obviously, don't feel as strongly anti-romance as TV script writers. When "The Farmer's Daughter" was married a few months ago, the comedy show's ratings shot up astronomically—for that one episode. When the "Bewitched" baby was born, the same thing happened.

Daddy, the dope, may be a pretty outmoded television character now but he's still around. Jerry Van Dyke, playing a husband and father in "My Mother the Car," can't seem to get between house and garage without tripping over the dog, a bike or his own feet and each week gets into some sort of a preposterous contretemps.

Exceptional . . . June Lockhart and her TV husband Guy Williams are "Lost in Space" in a serious series presented basically for children.

Negro Actor Total Down

New York (AP) — A sharp decrease in the number of shows employing integrated casts on Broadway and off-Broadway during the 1964-'65 season is reported by Equity.

The union of performers said 74 Negroes appeared in Broadway plays during the period, a drop from 168 the previous year. The off-Broadway decline was from 116 to 32.

The Circular Path

That Means It Never Ends—Just Pauses At the Refrigerator to Swing That Door

By HOLLY SPENCE

Destination — refrigerator! It's a wonder that the floorboards don't sink through to the basement with the heavy traffic.

How many times does that door open and pour forth food fit for a king and his court? On the average — there is no average. The door opens innumerable times each day for toddlers, teens and parents alike.

We no longer eat because we are hungry; instead the preparation and eating of foods has become a large portion of our social and cultural behavior.

We seldom eat because of such a simple and instinctive urge as hunger, as was done in prehistoric times or even in the times of our forefathers. In those days people ate because of dire necessity or because they did not know when or where the next meal would come from.

There's Plenty

Nowadays, food is plentiful; we eat with monotonous regularity. We eat because it is time for social gathering or time for the family meal. Foods are highly seasoned and made to look very attractive for our jaded appetites.

The younger generation craves weird foods at weird times. Brunches, after-school lunches, morsels for the late-night movie, and midnight snacks — any time of the day, food is on the menu.

The wide array of snack foods, attractive packaging, and advertising seem to make the taste buds water. Then the race is on—youths crave spicy foods, cold foods, salty foods, sweet foods . . .

Insatiable?

Some eat while studying . . . others while dancing, or even in bed. It's a wonder that the youth of today don't develop severe cases of ulcers with the munching of pizza, soda pop, pickles, peanuts, french fries, and chocolate cake.

The modern youth seems to have an insatiable appetite for food. With spurts in growth, the appetite shifts into high gear.

The social part of eating behavior gets stronger with each succeeding year. It becomes a dominant force in the youths. The mutual influence of youths on each other often takes the place of any nutrition logic which parents may try to instill.

The triple alliance of body need, social urge, and emotional satisfaction in eating is almost more than the family pocketbook can bear.

The youthful years could be classified as the "gang age." They like to eat and drink when, what, where, and as others do.

The dietary problem at this age is to provide quality foods. The problem is a knotty one because the youths select their own diets.

Logic is not apt to prevail in his selection of food. He is seldom well-schooled in nutrition and his opinions are subjected to all kinds of fads and fancies and conflicting notions about food.

Unlike the pre-school child, the older youth really needs extra food after school and probably at bedtime too. These snacks should be considered additional meals; informal ones to be sure, but nonetheless important in the diet of the ravenously hungry youth.

Focus on FUN FOR YOUTH!

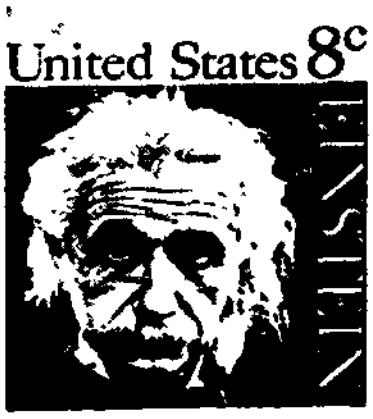
Einstein Stamp Will Be Issued March 14; Shakespeare Design International Winner



A portrait of Albert Einstein by the noted photographer, Philippe Halsman, is the basis for a new U.S. postage stamp honoring the physicist.

The 8-cent stamp will first be issued with ceremonies March 14 at Princeton, N.J., where Einstein spent the last years of his life.

It is the fourth in the "Prominent Americans" series of 18 new regular stamps to be issued in the next several years.

Frank Sebastiano, of New York City, designed the purple stamp using an Einstein portrait Halsman made at Princeton May 10, 1947.

The Einstein stamp is a full face portrait. Right, vertical, in Roman capitals is "Einstein" in white. "United States 8c" appears in purple on white in the same type style at the top of the stamp.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Record High

Herbert A. Klee, 58, of Highland Park, Ill., has paid a record high $14,000 for a 2-cent U.S. postage stamp on which the picture of a railroad train was accidentally printed upside down.

Klee purchased the rarity at an auction held in London by Harmer, Rooke & Co.

The stamp was one of a series printed in commemoration of the 1901 Pan-American exposition held in Buffalo, N.Y.

Because the sheets of stamps were printed in two colors, they had to pass twice through the printing press. A couple of sheets slipped through upside down on the second pass, hence the inverted trains.

The value of the "inverts" stems from their scarcity.

U.S. Stamp Wins

A U.S. postage stamp has won an international competition for excellence of design.

The award went to the William Shakespeare commemorative stamp, judged best in the "celebrities category" by the Asociacion Filetelica Tematica of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The Shakespeare stamp, issued to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the playwright's birth, was designed by Douglas Gorsline, of New York City.

His design, printed in brown on tan paper, is a three-quarters portrait of Shakespeare in ornate ruff and doublet, standing before the proscenium of an Elizabethan theatre. The columns supporting the stage's arch are embellished with the masks of Comedy and Tragedy.

This was Gorsline's first commission to design a postage stamp. A year later, he produced the Dante Alighieri commemorative

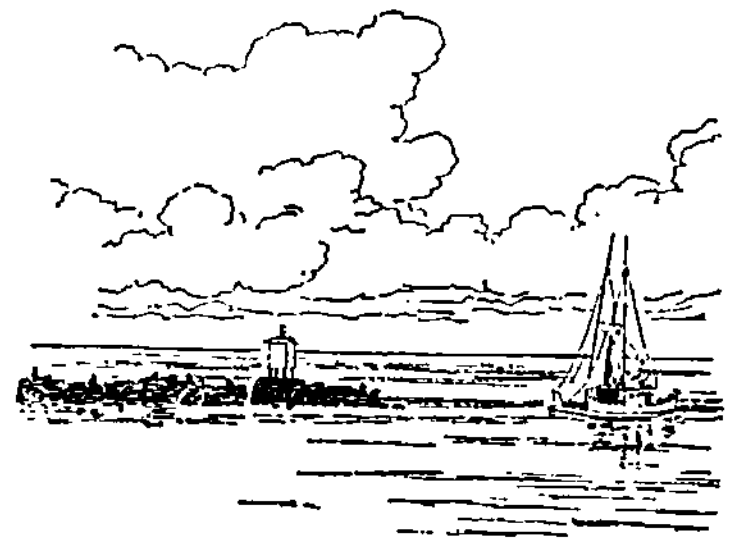
NOTES AND SKETCHES FROM PAUL BROWN'S
INQUISITIVE PEN



Monterey Waterfront

Robert Louis Stevenson, in his famous "Treasure Island," described California's Monterey Peninsula as "the greatest meeting-place of land and water in the world." He loved to hike through the great pines of the nearby forest and view the crescent-shaped Bay of Monterey. You can visit the house on Houston Street, where he lived and wrote during the fall of 1879.

Our day of exploring the colorful waterfront here in Monterey included a pleasant shrimp lunch on Fisherman's Wharf. From our vantage point we could see and hear the barking sea lions sunning themselves on the distant breakwater — and watch the comic antics of the bobbing seals as they begged for a handout.

This peninsula was seen by the Portuguese adventurer, Juan Rodriques Cabrillo, in 1542, but the bay itself was not entered until the Spanish navigator, Sebastian Vizcano, sailed into it in 1607 and gave it the name of his benefactor —the Count of Monte Rey.

'Moses' No Match for 'Barber'

By DONAL J. HENAHAN
Chicago Daily News Special

While a young composer, Rossini made a reverent visit to the aging Beethoven and was lavishly complimented by the master for having written "The Barber of Seville."

Pushing his luck, Rossini pointed out that he also had composed serious operas such as "William Tell" and "Moses," to which Beethoven replied in effect: Yes, that "Barber" is a great little opera.

The hopeful suspicion has lurked that the non-comic works of Rossini might indeed have more merit than Beethoven could hear. Now, "Moses" is available on records for the first time, as a Philip album, with Nicola Rossi-Lemeni in the title role and Tullio Serafin conducting a San Carlo Opera production.

In this recording, the women in a couple of instances are no better than provincial screamers. The men are decidedly better.

The surprise, however, is to discover how much lackluster declamation Rossini wrote into this score.

There are many patches of excellent vocal and orchestral writing in "Moses" but they are not plentiful enough to sustain his "sacred melodrama" for four acts, and the characterizations are feeble.

Stravinsky

Stravinsky is another master whose operas have not all enjoyed success.

Among his smaller theater pieces, "Marva" has had a particular lack of success, partly because its folksy Russian charm does not travel well. "Renard," a little salon entertainment, retains a bit more interest, and both are conducted in proper style by Ernest Ansermet for London.

Although there is a good stereo "Renard" in Columbia's "Stravinsky Conducts" series, "Marva" does not appear to have been previously recorded, which makes this disk by the Suisse Romande Orchestra noteworthy.

One of the most promising young conductors of the day is the Indian Zubin Mehta. On RCA Victor, he and the Los Angeles Philharmonic, of which he is musical director, serve up splashy versions of Strauss' "Don Juan" and Respighi's "Feste Romane."

On London, he shows a real affinity for Bruckner's Symphony No. 9 and the Vienna Philharmonic makes a marvelous sound for him.

New Hanson

Two Virgil Thomson works and one by Howard Hanson, none previously recorded, have been gathered together on an interesting Mercury disk with the Eastman-Rochester Orchestra under Hanson.

Thomson's "Symphony on a Hymn Tune" sounds like watered-down Ives these days, but it has a simple unpretentiousness that is disarming.

"The Feast of Love" is a pleasant little cantata for baritone, at eight minutes no longer than it should be.

The other work, Hanson's "Four Psalms," goes on at length and stirs together all kinds of baroque and romantic conventions, none too interestingly, in view of its 1964 date.

A Look Behind the Vietnam Dilemma

The Lost Revolution. By Robert Shaplen; Harper & Row.

We have had a few good books on the military dilemma in Vietnam. A few others have covered the history of today's problems in that country, including the social, political and economic factors bearing on every decision.

Shaplen

Shaplen, who has been in and out of Vietnam for 28 years as a writer, does a remarkable job in a complicated area.

His major concern, as the title indicates, is that the United States, with its own great revolutionary tradition, has for 20 years neglected opportunities to influence the kind of revolution that is taking place in Vietnam.

He starts his interpretation with the situation and background of events as he first saw them as a reporter in 1945. One of our first failures, he thinks, was in not dealing realistically with the Communist revolutionary Ho Chi Minh in 1946 and 1947, and not offering in the southern part of Vietnam a challenging alternative to the emerging communism in the north between 1948 and 1953.

There is little consolation in being told in 1966 that scarcely anything has been done right in such a critical area of foreign policy. Indeed, Shaplen believes that whatever happens in Vietnam now, the revolution is lost as far as the West is concerned because the opportunities to help and guide it were irretrievably overlooked.

What was our basic failure? Shaplen clearly sides with Sen. J. W. Fulbright in believing that while nationalism is a stronger force than the Communist movement, the West allowed itself to be set in opposition to the nationalistic feelings of an emerging people in Vietnam, and so the nationalist tendencies were associated with and taken over by the Communists.

Another and subsidiary failure, says Shaplen, was in not seeing that the war in its deepest sense was a political one, in not thinking and acting in social revolutionary terms, of true social justice in the villages and hamlets, the way the Communists pretend to do.

"The ability to deal with the Vietnamese situation at its grass roots, first militarily and then politically and socially," says Shaplen, "were basic to winning the war and the peace." We apparently did not stress this ability. We tried to start everything from the top instead of at the bottom and consequently never touched the people.

Shaplen thinks that far worse than our failure to defend militarily a propped-up, unrepresentative government in Saigon will be the reduced respect emerging societies have for American revolutionary motives and methods.

A Friend Defends Flagstad

Flagstad. A Personal Memoir. By Edwin McArthur; Knopf.

Edwin McArthur is not a writer. He is an accomplished musical director.

But as a biographer of soprano Kirsten Flagstad his credentials are valid — for 27 years her permanent accompanist in recital, her conductor for many operatic performances and recordings and her personal advisor and friend.

The book is a first-hand account of the personal and public life of the prima donna, a controversial figure who overwhelmed American audiences from her first appearance here in 1935 to her death in 1962.

McArthur's is a wholehearted attempt to clear Flagstad's name in a controversy which raged after World War II concerning her stay in her native Norway during the Nazi occupation and her husband's alleged collaboration with the Germans.

McArthur is so intent on details and answering the charges of years ago he has produced a rather stilted biography of a colorful public figure. Flagstad herself did a far better job in 1952 with the autobiography she wrote jointly with music critic Louis Bianocolli, "The Flagstad Manuscript."

McArthur's memoir is, however, a more complete and objective history of one of the world's greatest Wagnerian sopranos.

Distinguishing a Schocken Books edition of "Just So Stories" are art nouveau-ish, startlingly imaginative drawings by Rudyard Kipling himself.

The Child's World

Some well-known names in the adult field are gracing the children's book list, and they do not disappoint the reader.

Pearl S. Buck unfolds a highly amusing story in "The Big Fight" (John Day) based on an incident she witnessed in India. Combatants are Raj, a reluctant tiger; Meera, a pussyfooting leopard, and a nameless deer who should be called Spunky. For 9 to 11-year-olds.

James Joyce, the most famous of Dubliners, confides in "The Cat and the Devil" (Dodd, Mead) that. "The Devil mostly speaks a language of his own called bellsybabble which he makes up himself as he goes along." This bubbling French fable was originally told by Joyce in a long-ago letter to a grandchild. Funny drawings by Richard Erdoes.

Helga Sandburg, daughter of poet Carl Sandburg, tells a story which brings the reader close to tears in "Bo and the Old Donkey" (Dial). Any child who loves a pet will identify with Bo, whose very own donkey, already old when Bo was born, must be put to death. An unusual book for the 5 to 9-year-old, its appealing drawings are by Marian Morton.

Outstanding poets from Blake to Wordsworth are represented in "Piper, Pipe That Song Again" (Random House), a selection of 652 favorites of third and fourth graders, compiled by Nancy Larrick. Imaginative drawings by Kelly Oechsli.

Book on China

China in Crisis. By Sven Lindqvist; Crowell.

With the threat of a major confrontation between the United States and Red China looming large, readers may find almost anything on China of special interest.

Perhaps something vital was lost in translation, but this book by a Swede is scarcely noteworthy. It does not meet the dust jacket promise that it is "an impressive work of research and reporting . . . (that) will cause a reappraisal of many American attitudes toward China."
